THE CAPTAIN AND HIS BRIDE

Britain exalts as smiling princess and dashing captain exchange vows

LONDON (UPI) — Princess Anne, smiling her happiness every step of the way to the altar, married Capt. Mark Phillips today in a ceremony that spread the joy of young love to thousands thronging the flag-bedecked streets of the capital and to millions watching by television.

There have been royal marriages for 863 years in historic Westminster Abbey but rarely could any couple have shown so unaffectedly how deep is the feeling that led the only daughter of a reigning queen to choose a career army officer as her husband.

As the Princess walked down the royal blue carpet, laid the length of the abbey, on the arm of her father, the Duke of Edinburgh, her eyes were already searching ahead to the altar, where Capt. Phillips waited in the splendid dress uniform of the Queen's Dragoon Guards.

And his eyes sought hers. To keep from grinning with pride, he lowered his head and bit his lip.

Queen Mother Elizabeth turned from smiling at the young couple and appeared startled to find her daughter, trained from cradle to throne to control her emotions, in tears.

She stared a few seconds at the Queen and then turned back to witness the end of the ceremony. The Queen, blinking, appeared to be lost in her own thoughts, more a mother than a Queen.

A glittering congregation of 1,500, including 23 members of foreign royalty, smiled at the scene at the altar, for it is rare that members of royal houses—or a tank commander for that matter—make open displays of affection.

But the 23-year-old princess and her 25-year-old husband, who but once kissed in public before they were engaged, had eyes only for each other throughout the ceremony conducted by Dr. Michael Ramsay, the Archbishop of Canterbury and Primate of England, and other high church figures.

The tall, blonde Princess never looked prettier nor darkhaired Mark more handsome. The bride, who broke tradition to have her gown made by a house better known for readymade clothes, wore a "princess line" dress of specially woven white silk with a high neck and Elizabethan sleeves edged with pearls and mirror jewels.

Her transparent shoulder train of silk net was embroidered with floral sprays of silk and silver thread embellished with pearls and mirror jewels. It was held in place by a magnificent tiara — something borrowed—from the collection of the Queen Mother.

Mark wore a scarlet and gold tunic with blue velvet collar and cuffs, tight blue trousers with a white stripe down each leg, boots, spurs and a sword.

After the simple 1662 service from the Book of Common Prayer, in which Anne promised to "obey" to the indignation of women's libbers, the couple walked arm in arm between the rows of guests to the door of the abbey, chatting and smiling all the way.

No one could remember a royal bride acting this joyous way at her wedding.

U.S. agrees to reduce GI forces on Taiwan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A major step has been taken by the United States and China to complete " normalization" of their relations, with disclosure today that Peking had abandoned some of its previous demands and that Washington responded by agreeing to a major reduction of forces on Taiwan.

That was the immediate assessment here by students of Sino-American affairs after carefully comparing the communique based on Henry A. Kissinger's new trip to Peking and the communique issued in Shanghai after President Nixon's February, 1972, visit.

In today's joint statement the Chinese said "normalization of relations between China and the United States can be realized only on the basis of confirming the principle of one China."

In the communique sentence just preceding that, the United States offered such confirmation, saying it acknowledged that there was "but one China and Taiwan is part of China."

The United States backed up its statement by a separate announcement in Taipei that it was beginning at once to withdraw 3,000 of the remaining 8,000 American airmen in Taiwan.

Peking obviously took this as evidence of good faith. It did not publicly restate its previous, more rigid demands.

In fact, Sino-American experts here pointed out that the new communique took the generalities of the Shanghai document and converted them into evidence that both sides have been acting in good faith.

Thus, the establishment of full diplomatic relations to replace the present liaison offices now appears simply a matter of time —with no apparent sticking point on principle.

The Chinese statement was far less demanding as to what must be done about Taiwan before normalization of relations can be achieved.

In the 1972 communique, the Chinese price was much higher. It called for withdrawal of all U. S. forces and dismantling of bases on Taiwan and rejected any right of the United States to interfere in "China's internal affairs" —meaning the status of Taiwan.

While Peking did not call for total troop withdrawal nor removal of all airbases in the new statement, this undoubtedly was promised privately by Kissinger, since it was announced publicly in Shanghai more than a year ago as the "ultimate objective" of the United States.

City school board unveils plan to attack vandalism

By PHYLLIS CANNON
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA—"Operation Schoolwatch," a plan against vandalism in public schools in this community, was unveiled at the school board meeting Tuesday night.

Organized and coordinated by Douglas Robertson, Pomona Unified School District's community information officer, the program will go into effect Dec. 9 and continue three weeks.

On Dec. 16, Robertson said, principals accompanied by supporters will walk through neighborhoods circling their respective schools seeking support.

Bumper stickers will be distributed. Posters will be placed in store and home windows.

Robertson said everyone in the community will be asked to watch the schools and, if suspicious persons are sighted around the buildings, residents will be asked to call either the police department or the school security force. They in turn will respond and investigate.

Robertson spoke briefly of the "tragedy" at Madison Elementary School at 351 W. Phillips Blvd., where two fires Sunday caused an estimated $25,000 damage to the school's math and reading resource center.

"During the school days in September," Robertson said, "62 incidents of vandalism were reported in our 31 schools. During October there were 92 separate acts of malicious vandalism reported.

"In just three years, from 1968 to 1971, we spent more than $60,000 just to repair broken windows.

"We spent more than $64,000 in 1971, 1972 and 1973 repairing the work of vandals. Four acts of arson —prior to the Madison fire — cost us $92,000.

These figures, Robertson said, do not include insurance costs, theft and burglaries.

"In theory, we could have taken hundreds of 2 youngsters on field trips, bought thousands of books and updated our equipment with this money.

"There are 80,000 concerned people in our community, and only a few hundred who get a laugh out of this destruction. They're outnumbered and they're finally going to realize it."

Hopefully, Robertson said, "Operation Schoolwatch" will turn "literally thousands of pairs of eyes towards our schools."

Dr. James Bell, school board president, cautioned that "anything that good can't be that easy" and he said he hoped Robertson and school administrators involved in "Operation Schoolwatch" would hold "detailed and careful" discussions with the police department.

"It's like throwing out a net," Bell said. "You catch a lot of innocent people."

Supt. Robert Wentz said he would ask Pomona City Council to officially declare Dec. 9-Jan. 2 as "Operation Schoolwatch" in the community.

Study backs old bromides

Early to bed, apple a day, etc., really not all bunk

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — It's true. Early to bed, and an apple a day, and a hearty breakfast and those other ancient health bromides really work. Clean living stood up in a scientific test.

Dr. Lester Breslow, dean of the UCLA School of Public Health, said Tuesday he supervised a research project covering 7,000 residents of Alameda County, California, watching them for more than five years.

They were surveyed for compliance with seven simple, old hat health precautions: Eight hours sleep a night, breakfast every morning, no between-meal snacking, no smoking, moderate alcohol consumption, moderate exercise and weight control.

Breslow said that the survey showed that:

—Men in their 50s who follow at least six of the seven precautions are usually in as good physical shape as men in their 30s who follow three or less.

—A man between 45 and 54 who ignored most or all of the health practices runs the same liklihood of dying as those 65 to 74 who followed the old precepts.

—The mortality rate during the survey, for those who followed the precautions and were under 45, was zero; for those in the same age bracket who practiced three or less, it was 2 per cent. For those 45 to 54, the difference was 4 per cent and 7 per cent, for those 55 to 64 it was 9 per cent and 31 per cent, for those 65 to 74 it was a dramatic 18 per cent against 42 per cent. For those over 75, the mortality rate for the clean livers was 41 per cent and for the others, 75 per cent.

"It now appears that within certain biological limits, each individual can determine his own risk of death," Breslow said. "Individual responsibility is highly important."

GOP confronts Nixon over Watergate scandal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Seventy-five Republican congressmen questioned President Nixon today, to his face, about his handling of the Watergte scandal. At a similar session for some GOP senators Tuesday, Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., told Nixon he should resign.

The breakfast meeting in the White House State Dining Room for House members —first of three such meetings so all 179 GOP congressmen will have a first-hand chance to question him —was part of the President's new plan to meet "head-on" criticism over Watergate.

The first of the meetings to include all Republican members of Congress, as well as some Democrats, took place Tuesday night with 15 senators and Brooke said afterward he repeated to Nixon personally what he had said before —that he should resign in the national interest.

Brooke said the President was "very gracious" in rejecting the advice. "He said he understood my statement was not made with malice ...but he said that would be an easy way out, and he was not going to take it."

The Brooke remark to Nixon apparently was one of the major points of what participants almost unanimously described as an extremely blunt, tough session. It lasted two hours, 15 minutes.

The President has a second meeting tonight with another third of the Republican senators, with the last group invited Thursday. House members were invited in two more groups for breakfast sessions Thursday and Friday.

In the courts, hearings on the President's Watergate tapes were in suspension until later in the week. White House chief of staff Alexander M. Haig indicated new Nixon steps to assuage public concern over his role in Watergate would come following rulings by Judge John J. Sirica.

The Senate Watergate committee stiffened its demands Tuesday for a face-to-face meeting with the President and Haig said Nixon "is moving toward a solution to satisfy" the committee but added: "We're moving slowly because the matter is in court."

The committee formally asked for a meeting with Nixon, with a transcript made of his answers to questions. Brooke said the President told senators Tuesday night he had not made a decision on the request.

Women drug addicts will be housed in vacant Chino prison

By L. T. ROGERS
Asst. City Editor

CHINO — Women — not men — are now scheduled to become the first occupants of a vacant penal institution located behind the California Youth Authority facility here.

For the past several months, workers had been preparing the $8 million complex, built in 1970, to accommodate a "spillover" of inmates from the reception-guidance center at the nearby California Institution for Men.

State officials, however, announced Tuesday the small prison would house those female drug addicts now confined at the California Institution for Women.

These women, sent to CIW under civil commitments, are expected to move next January. The transfers will also include 25 women convicted of felony crimes who have special security needs.

This will mark the third move within the past several years for the female drug addiction program. It was located at the California Rehabilitation Center near Norco, later moved to Patton State Hospital, then to CIW last March.

Only 235 women are now committed to CIW under the program. The new facility, to be named California Institution for Women, Chino branch, has room for 400 persons.

The Chino complex will be directed by Supt. Virginia Carlson, who will continue to administer the present nearby CIW. It will have 135 staff members.

The female addicts have been kept in separated living quarters while at CIW. They have mingled with other residents in controlled movements such as classrooms, dining rooms and special programs.

Expansion into the new complex has become necessary because of population pressures, said Miss Carlson. The prison population has grown from 555 last July to 705 now.

This has partly resulted from the conservative stance by the parole board which has given the inmates additional terms, she cited.

To handle the increased population, mobile homes had been ordered. These have now been canceled, since other residents can occupy the quarters where the female addicts now reside.

The prison complex, where a series of buildings form the outside perimeter, was originally built as a guidance and reception center for juvenile offenders in Southern California.

This planned use was dropped, however, because of a subsequent decline in the population of young criminals.

The facility remained vacant for several years while officials discussed a variety of possible uses, including a medical facility for the criminally insane, a vocational school for youths not committed to a prison, and a maximum security prison to replace San Quentin.

State officials then decided last April the complex would be converted to

Singapore fuel cutback hurts Seventh Fleet

SINGAPORE (UPI) — Singapore, the biggest refining center in Southeast Asia, has cut off all its hefty fuel supplies to American forces in the Pacific because of Arab threats to stop supplies to the island republic, industry sources said today.

The fuel and oil cut was expected to hit vessels of the U.S. 7th Fleet, land-based planes in Thailand and ground units throughout the area.

South Vietnam, Cambodia and Thailand also are likely to be hit by the ban. U.S. tax dollars pay for most of the fuel used in Cambodia and Vietnam, and some used in Thailand.

Gold speculation wipeout as prices plummet

LONDON (UPI) — The value of gold fell dramatically on the big London bullion market today, wiping out millions of dollars invested by speculators in the biggest decline in prices since the introduction of the two-tier gold system five years ago.

As gold sagged the dollar surged ahead in early trading.

The market, responding to the announcement that the United States and six European countries have now junked this system, initially devalued the metal by $7.25 an ounce, but prices recovered part of the loss as the day progressed.

By midmorning, gold was officially fixed at $90.85, down $5.90 from Tuesday's closing but improved over an opening price of $89.50.

Dealers attributed the decline to fears that the seven countries releasing their gold reserves from the two-tier system will now start selling gold on the free market.

If the United States participated in such a move with its big gold reserves, the price would be driven down even further, they said.

Under the two-tier system, national governments bought and sold gold among themselves at the official U.S. price of $42 an ounce while prices were freed on the open market, allowing the metal to seek its value on the basis of supply and demand.

The system sparked a boom in gold that sent prices spiralling around the world as speculators moved into the market.

This boom peaked out with gold prices hitting $127 an ounce for one day last summer before tapering off to the $100 an ounce range.

Dealers said today's drop in the price of gold was the biggest since the two-tier system came in.

In Tokyo the dollar held to its highest level in nine months, 280 yen.

In Paris the commercial dollar used for foreign trade opened at 4.44-4.45 francs, compared with Tuesday's closing of 4.4325 francs. The free-floating French financial dollar, used by tourists, climbed to 4.51-4.52 francs, compared with Tuesday's closing of 4.5050 francs.

In Frankfurt the dollar opened at 2.6250 marks median, compared to Tuesday's close of 2.6100 marks median.

In London, where the pound's troubles were compounded by a credit squeeze and a government-declared state of emergency because of miners' and electrical engineers' overtime bans, $2.3905 bought a pound at the opening. Soon afterward it took only $2.3880 to buy a pound. But the British currency later improved to $2.3925.

In Zurich the dollar opened at 3.1900-3.1940 Swiss francs, compared with Tuesday's opening of 3.18203.1860. The opening price of gold slumped in Zurich as it had in London.

SWITCHES TO THE BIRTHDAY PARTY

President Nixon plays and sings "Happy Birthday" while Mrs. Nixon keeps time at birthday party Tuesday for Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, in Washington. It was the senator's 75th birthday.

Lights go out on Capitol

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, chairman of Gov. Ronald Reagan's fledgling Energy Policy Council, shut off the lights on the historic dome of the state Capitol Tuesday to conserve power.

The action, similar to President Nixon's order to reduce lighting at the White House, demonstrated what Reinecke called the state administration's commitment to cut back on the use of electricity during the "energy crisis."

Acting in his capacity as council chairman, Reinecke, a Republican contender for governor, summoned newsmen to the basement of the Capitol and pulled a switch, dousing the dome lights.

"Until the current energy crisis is over, the unlighted capitol dome will symbolize the urgency of the situation, and the lights will not be turned on until energy demands are cut to meet our existing energy supply," Reinecke said.

Ronald Neal, building manager of the Capitol, said it costs 50 cents an hour to illuminate the dome, Sacramento's most famous landmark which can be seen for miles at night.

The mini-ceremony capped Reinecke's announcement earlier in the day that the council of top Reagan advisers and cabinet members had recommended sweeping proposals to ease the "energy crisis" in California.

These included reducing the maximum 65 m.p.h. speed limit to 50, resuming offshore oil drilling, establishing year-round daylight saving time in California, relaxing clean air standards, and possible curtailment of business hours by industry.

Reagan declined to endorse flatly rolling back the speed limit to 50 m.p.h., but told reporters, "This is one we have to give consideration."

A Reinecke proposal that the state Air Resources Board delay for approximately six months scheduled Jan. 1 installation of smog control devices on 1966-70 cars received a less than enthusiastic reception from the board.

Chairman A.J. Haagen-Smit said it was "extremely unlikely" that the fuel shortage would force a delay and the board could delay the program without legislative authority only for "extraordinary, compelling reasons." He said these probably would not include a fuel shortage.

The lieutenant governor estimated a 15 m.p.h. speed reduction would conserve between 450 million and 500 million gallons of gasoline a year in California. He said the legislature should hold immediate hearings on the proposal and act on it immediately when it reconvenes Jan. 7.

10 jailed in crackdown on pot smuggling ring

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Ten men, including a former Texas policeman, were arrested, and three airplanes and one boat were seized Tuesday in a combined federal and county crackdown on a major marijuana smuggling ring, authorities said.

Investigators said the ring was involved in smuggling more than 20 tons of marijuana into the United States from Mexico last year and based its operations in California and Texas.

Sheriff's narcotics agents working with the Federal Drug Enforcement Bureau arrested seven persons in the Los Angeles area and three in Texas, where two of the airplanes were seized.

Those arrested here, who were booked on suspicion of income tax evasion, smuggling and possession of marijuana, were; Richard A. Elrod, a former Ft. Worth, Tex., police officer and Vietnam War veteran flier; Gary Alan and Randall W. King, both brothers, of Manhattan Beach; Dr. Roger Brown, also of Manhattan Beach, and Robert Matthews of Redondo Beach.

Arrested at their homes in Texas were William Hodges, 56, of Garland, his son, William Hodges Jr., 23, Hurst, and John Henderson, 22, Austin.

Four other persons arrested following the 15-month investigation were booked only on suspicion of possession and furnishing marijuana.

In addition, two Cessna 310 airplanes were seized, one in Stephenville, Texas, and the other from Lakefront, La., while a Lockheed Lode Star was confiscated from Luling, Tex.

Authorities said the suspects used the airplanes to smuggle shipments as large as 5,000 pounds from Mexico into Texas. In the last year, the ring moved its base of operations to California, although the marijuana continued to come into Texas, investigators said.

3 parts of S.D. general plan OK'd

By LENORE WALLACE
P-B Staff Writer

SAN DIMAS — Close to 200 persons crowded into City Council chambers Tuesday night as planning commissioners approved three of the 11 sections of the general plan at a 4½-hour session.

It was the largest crowd to attend a recent meeting at city hall and was attributed to efforts by the city staff to make each resident aware of the public hearings. Letters were sent to each property owner.

Hearings will continue tonight at 7 when the commission tackles the land use element of the plan, the most controversial section in the 231-page document.

Commissioners approved the public seismic safety element, the recreation element and community design element but held the noise element over for more study. It was determined that the noise element map should include noise factors resulting from heavy traffic on Kellogg Hill in the Via Verde area.

A good two hours of the meeting was spent on the presentation and testimony on the seismic element which included slide problems in the Via Verde area and earthquake fault areas in the city.

General plan consultant Ed Heath explained that there are 11 earthquake faults running through the city. The most active is the Sierra Madre Fault located in the northern foothill area of the city.

He recommends that residential use in this area be limited to only one-half unit per acre, the lowest density in the general plan.

Regarding the Via Verde area, Heath said this area is designated as a "red flag area" and one that should be approached with caution when developing because of the earth slide potential.

Four consultants representing the Via Verde developer spoke at the hearing and this brought protests from Phil Wax, a resident who said the company had too many spokesmen at the hearing.

The Vinnell-Pauley consultants said they were in general agreement with the general plan.

Wax told the commission that Via Verde had had extensive slide damage after the heavy rains three years ago that cracked swimming pools and in one case split a house into five sections.

Mrs. Tess Wright later identified herself as the owner of the house, but said that Charles Lee, vice president of Vinnell-Pauley, had done everything possible to repair the structure. She said the problem was "unique."

Heath said the slides and "pop outs" that have resulted in Via Verde after the heavy rains three years ago were man-made slopes and all in fill areas. He said all of the damaged areas met standards at that time but since the heavy rain damage to Southern California in 1969, government agencies have tightened restrictions on slope planning.

The consultant said he recommended the city create a safety hazard review board or committee that would include a geologist, a structural engineer, a civic engineer, an architect, city staff members and representatives from the community to implement policies outlined in the general plan element.

He also recommended that a stiff hillside ordinance be adopted by the City Council to regulate development in these problem areas.

After a discussion of the recreation element, Commissioner Don Haefer sought and received the commission's approval of a recommendation to preserve the trees that line San Dimas Avenue as a conservation measure.

They want to be accepted

Uglies of the world throw down the gauntlet in protest

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — To join Uglies Unlimited you need $2 and a face that would stop a train.

"We open our doors to secretaries with warts, stewardesses with pimples, policemen with freckles, hostesses with lumps, barbers without hair and businessmen with hook noses, but most of all we embrace the ill-made masses wallowing in self pity," says Danny McCrory, the founder of the organization. "Membership is $2."

But Uglies Unlimited is not a social club geared to providing happiness for the habitual wallflowers of the world. The organization was formed to protest the emphasis placed on the beautiful people. The men with the wide brimmed hats, thin moustaches smoking little cigars that attract only flat-bellied, fair skinned lasses in skimpy bikinis that soak up the sun around the pools at singles apartments.

The organization abhors the newspaper advertisements in general and the want ads in particular, the ones that say "Wanted attractive receptionist" or "Pretty secretary needed."

Uglies Unlimited staged its first formal protest Tuesday. Eighteen of them paraded back and forth in front of the American Airlines ticket office protesting the practice of seeking only the best looking applicants for jobs as flight hostesses.

Walt Kistler, director of flight attendant recruitment for the airlines, said he has nothing to apologize for.

"These are standard with the airlines," he said. "We have these requirements for the same reason there are job descriptions and qualifications for any kind of work. We don't expect beauty or perfection, but there are limits beyond which we don't go."

But McCrory said the fight to find peace for the ugly people of this world will not end.

"We just want to be accepted for who we are instead of what we look like," McCoy said.

handle a "spillover" of inmates from the reception-guidance center at CIM.

CIM officials then reported this maximum security area was so crowded that some people had to sleep on the floor.

At that time, that section of CIM served as a processing center for those just committed to prison, as a holding place for violent persons, and for those undergoing 90-day diagnostic observations.

Since the April decision, CIM increased security facilities at the medium security area and began processing the diagnostic cases there.

The ability to process and handle more of these diagnostic cases has resulted in a reduction of the over-crowding at the reception-guidance center and thus reduced the immediate need for the vacant facility as an additional guidance center, they added.

Under a new program, the medium security area, which once was the Southern Conservation Center, will be converted to process those persons committed by judges for diagnostic evaluation. They will be confined for 90 days while their backgrounds are checked and valuations are made.

These findings are then sent to the sentencing judge, who may use the information in determining if probation should be made.

The men are not committed to prison, and about half are placed on probation, officials said.

The change in the planned use will result in a savings of $1.5 million in annual operating expenses and $250,000 in capital outlay projects, such as the double fence and gun towers. Construction of the fence and towers have been canceled.

The complex has four living units with 100 rooms each, two dining areas, two chapels, a gymnasium, four academic classrooms, five vocational areas, and a swimming pool.

Jackie may go to Supreme Court

NEW YORK (UPI) — The U.S. Court of Appeals Tuesday said it sympathized with Jacqueline Onassis' problems with photographers, but the question did not "rise to the threshold of importance" that would require a full panel of judges to rehear her appeal.

Mrs. Onassis had asked the full court to reconsider drastically reduced limits on photographer Fred Galella's freedom to take pictures of her. Her attorneys said Galella would "leap around her and hurl verbal taunts as he follows her up and down the streets of New York."

A three-judge panel had decided in September that Galella could come as close as 25 feet away to take Mrs. Onassis' picture. His earlier limit was 150 feet. The former first lady may now take her case to the Supreme Court.

Astronaut will receive honors

ENID, Okla. (UPI) — A day of activities to honor Skylab 2 astronaut Owen Garriott Jr. has been arranged at his hometown of Enid, where Phillips University will award him an honorary doctor of science degree.

Garriott was in orbit 59-½ days during the second manned Skylab mission July 28 - Sept. 25.

100 years old, she becomes citizen

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (UPI) — Clara Bartels, who has lived in the United States since she was 8, will be 100 years old next Tuesday. It will be her first birthday as a U.S. citizen.

Mrs. Bartels, who came here in 1881 from the Netherlands, explained to U.S. Judge Noel P. Fox at her naturalization ceremony Tuesday that she was a bit tardy about becoming a citizen because, "I never thought about it. I always thought I was one."

Bradley calls for Nixon resignation

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Mayor Tom Bradley said Tuesday that President Nixon should resign as "a service to the country" because the Watergate scandal has crippled his presidency.

Watergate is "the worst blot on the fabric of this country in my memory," Bradley, a Democrat, told a high school group.

The newly elected Los Angeles mayor will be installed as president of the National League of Cities at the group's convention in Puerto Rico next month.

Energy crisis a 'sham,' says Mailer

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Norman Mailer told a University of Pennsylvania audience Tuesday that he thinks the energy crisis is a sham—"pure Nixon mechanics."

"Two thirds of the people will not obey the 50 mile an hour speed limit," he said.

"He (Nixon) knows it won't work, but he also knows that it will appeal profoundly to those remaining patriotic Americans who want to do something for their country."

A flashback to gas rationing of World War II years

By MIKE FEINSILBER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — You were given an A, B or C sticker to display in the right hand corner of your windshield, depending upon your need for gasoline.

Naturally enough, no redblooded American wanted to admit his driving was so pleasure-motivated that he rated only an A. So anyone who could come up with any excuse at all trooped down to convince his local OPA officials that he warranted a B or C. Soon nearly half of the nation's 30 million auto owners had wangled a B or C.

That was gasoline rationing back in World War II, as recalled by Richard R. Lingeman in his 1970 book, "Don't You Know There's a War On?"

An A coupon entitled a driver to four gallons of gas a week, enough the government figured, for 60 miles of driving. Later this was reduced to an allotment of three gallons and for a bleak period of 1943 to only two gallons.

War workers who drove in car pools were given B stickers and persons with war-essential jobs, like doctors or farmers, got C stickers. Truckers got T stickers and unlimited mileage. Clergymen and policemen won unlimited gasoline with X stickers. When coupons were first issued more than 200 members of Congress unashamedly asked for—and were issued—X stickers.

Rationing started in 17 eastern states in May, 1942 because German submarines were sinking the tankers which normally supplied the East Coast. The pipelines from Texas had not yet been built.

On Dec. 1, 1942, rationing was made nationwide. Some people, Lingeman wrote, considered it "an exercise in official sadomasochism whose only purpose was to instill in the American people a proper mood of wartime self-abnegation."

To conserve gasoline and war-scarcened rubber, the government imposed a nationwide speed limit of 35 miles an hour.

Worse yet, it banned pleasure driving altogether. Even the fellow with his A sticker was supposed to devote his paltry ration to such driving as "necessary" shopping or trips to church, funerals, doctors, jobs.

The ban on pleasure driving was lifted in September, 1943, but not before agents of the Office of Price Administration (OPA), which administered gas rationing, had lifted the coupon books of motorists whose cars were spotted at racetracks or stadiums or parked outside night clubs.

Crime saw the opportunity in all this. Counterfeit rationing coupons sold for as much as 50 cents each. In Washington, coupons worth 20 million gallons were stolen from a government warehouse. The government estimated that between one million gallons of gasoline a week and 2.5 million a day were sold illegally. Fifteen per cent of all C coupons in circulation were said to be fakes.

There were salutary effects, too. The highway death toll plummeted. People rediscovered walking and bicycling—although bicycles were sold only to those who could produce a "certificate of necessity" and the shortage of hides led to shoe rationing.

Man's body found in ventilation shaft

ONTARIO — The body of a 46-year-old Los Serranos man reported missing for more than 10 days was found Tuesday afternoon at the bottom of a 40-foot ventilation shaft in the Orange Hotel at 201 E. Holt Blvd.

Police detective John Donaldson said the body, identified as that of George Sweetko of 4974 Los Serranos Road, was found about 2:15 p.m. Tuesday by clerk Elmer Palmer. Donaldson said the body may have lain in the shaft for more than 10 days undetected by hotel residents and staff.

According to sheriff's officers, Mr. Sweetko had been reported mising by his wife Betty Sweetko on Nov. 3. Mr. Sweetko had failed to return home from his work at the Sunkist Orange Products plant in Ontario.

Donaldson would not speculate if there was any foul play involved in Sweetko's death nor say if it appeared to be an accident. "We will have to wait for the pathologist's report," said Donaldson.

Mrs. Sweetko, after identifying the body as that of her husband, told police that he had had a history of heart trouble and that she had come to the hotel several times in the past to find her husband.

Cattle truck driver fell asleep, officers believe

SAN DIMAS — The accident in which a cattle truck ran off the San Bernardino Freeway here early Tuesday may have resulted from the driver falling asleep, investigators reported.

The truck, carrying 52 cows, went down a 250-foot enbankment near Via Verde Avenue, killing the driver and injuring the relief driver.

Many of the cows were either killed or injured. Others escaped and had to be caught.

Clarence Franklin Smith, 59, of Mendota, the driver, was believed killed instantly when the truck's cab struck a tree at the bottom of the ravine.

William Donald Radley, 32, of Oakhurst who was asleep in the truck's sleeping compartment, was admitted to the Covina Inter-Community Hospital with a fractured shoulder. His condition is listed as satisfactory.

"We believe the driver fell asleep while driving west on the freeway," said highway patrolman Ed Collins. "There was no indication of braking and there were good tire marks on the shoulder berm," he added.

The accident is believed to have occurred about 3 a.m. The wreckage, however, wasn't found until 6:30 a.m. Nearby residents were drawn to the scene by the noise of cattle kicking the sides of the trailers.

The two men were hauling the cows from a ranch in Cochise County, Arizona, to Paso Robles.

Radley reported he had driven to Indio and turned the driving duties to his partner.

The Los Angeles County Department of Animal Control reported 19 cows were killed in the accident and two others were disposed of because of serious injuries.

Contract awarded for Lone Hill School

SAN DIMAS — The Bonita school board awarded a $1,178,333 contract for the completion of Lone Hill School here to the Earle T. Casler Co. of Upland Tuesday night.

Casler's bid was the lowest of eight submitted to the school district for consideration Nov. 1, but one of the bids was a minute late, according to Asst. Supt. James Overin, and therefore could not qualify.

The contract calls for the construction of special industrial arts, home economics and physical sciences classrooms, physical education, shower and locker room facilities, outdoor basketball courts, tennis courts and an athletic field.

Work is expected to begin within a month. Completion of the project should be made by August of next year, in time for use at the opening of school next fall.

Funds for the project will be taken from the district's building fund, which stands at $1,438,814 in bond money. The Lone Hill project and other commitments leaves the district with about $50,000 in the building fund, plus $361,000 in authorized but unissued bonds.

Claremont OKs plan for mobile bank unit

By GEORGE MacLAREN
P-B Staff Writer

CLAREMONT — The City Council Tuesday night gave permission to Republic Federal Savings to put a temporary mobile bank unit on its property on the northwest corner of Foothill Boulevard and Regis Avenue.

The council, recalling an earlier "temporary" use permit to another banking facility several years ago which dragged on for years, had at its Oct. 30 meeting called up for review the decision of Planning Director Sharon Hightower who had approved a temporary use permit to Republic.

Needing some point of construction of the permanent facility to tie the use permit to, Councilman Frank Hungerford proposed that if the concrete flooring hasn't been poured by April 30, 1974, the permit will expire.

Other council members agreed to the proposal.

Republic President John Davis, who said he was once mayor of Pico-Rivera, informed the council that the firm is planning on completing its permanent facility by July 1974 and that the temporary modular facility would be amply landscaped.

He said that his firm has leased the property for 25 years with an option to buy.

Mayor Craig McManigal said that the council couldn't have one set of rules on trailers for banks and another set of rules for other businessses.

Davis said that the temporary unit is in storage and that if the city wouldn't allow it to be used, the firm would use it at its new location in Westminster. He said ground would be broken as soon as the city gives his firm its building permit.

In another matters, McManigal said that the council should take a stand against price increases on various fuels.

He said that he had not yet received a letter from President Nixon on the energy crisis.

McManigal said he doesn't believe price increases are the correct way to go. "It is regressive," he commented.

Councilman Gene Block mentioned that farmers are unable to get fuel to run their machines, and yet recreational vehicles are rolling around in the deserts.

"Allocations is the only way to go," remarked Hungerford.

Upland School District

By PATRICK SPENCER
P-B Staff Writer

UPLAND — Although they disagree on relative rankings, teachers and parents of the Upland School District do agree on what should be the top 10 educational goals of the district's programs.

As announced by Dist. Supt. Bill Plaster at Tuesday night's school board meeting, the results of the second phase of the district's goal-setting project show that parents and community members surveyed are slightly more in favor of traditional educational values than are teachers who were surveyed in October.

The parents and community members ranked "develop skills in reading, writing, speaking and listening" as the No. 1 educational priority, followed by "develop pride in work and a feeling of self-worth" and "gain a general education" in second and third places.

Teachers ranked the pride in work goal as No. 1 in their survey, followed by development of three R's skills and development of good character and self-respect.

As noted by Plaster, the differences between the two surveys were outweighed by the similarity of rankings among the top 10 goals of the 18-goal list.

Although ranked slightly differently in each survey, both lists contained the following goals: "Learn how to examine and use information," "develop desire for learning now and in the future," "learn to respect and get along with people with whom we work and live," "learn how to be a good citizen," "learn to respect and get along with people who think, dress and act differently;" and "understand and practice democratic ideas and ideals."

Plaster said he was "extremely pleased" with the participation of over 300 parents and other residents in the project. He said, however, that the issue now becomes "what do we do next?"

Part of the answer to that question, he said, would be to forward the survey results to the district's master plan instructional committee so that the group can begin to "look at how well we are doing in each of these areas."

He indicated that by early January the district would begin to discuss ways and means to implement some of the more abstract and philosophical goals, such how to develop "pride in work and a feeling of self-worth."

"We have a lot of work to do," Plaster said, "but we are well on target."

Kiwanis to host belly dancers in Claremont

CLAREMONT — Belly dancing will provide a change of pace in programming for the Kiwanis Club of Claremont Thursday noon at Griswold's.

Mrs. Charlene Newnam of Upland and one of her students will demonstrate to Kiwanians and guests why belly dancing classes have become so popular in the Pomona Valley.

Mrs. Newman formerly danced at the Seventh Veil restaurant and night club in Hollywood, and has taught belly dancing for the Upland Recreation Department for the past year.

Mrs. Newnam also reported that her classes at the City of Hope have shown the therapy dimension of the ancient abdominal dance form.

Lower speeds and clean air standards, off-shore drilling

State proposals to ease crisis

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan's new State Energy Planning Council today called for reducing the speed limit to 50 m.p.h., relaxing clean air standards and resuming offshore oil drilling as methods to ease the "energy crisis."

Lt. Gov. Ed Reineck, chairman of the council of Reagan's top advisers and cabinet members, announced the sweeping proposals at a news conference where he also called for turning off the Capitol dome light and curtailing all but necessary flights of the governor's jet plane.

"We are not playing games," said Reinecke. "This is not political oneupsmanship. The crisis is here. It is real."

The council's recommendations included these:

Speed — The legislature should reduce the maximum speed limit in California from 65 m.p.h. to 50 m.p.h. as soon as it reconvenes in January. Reinecke said this would conserve 450 million to 500 million gallons of gas annually.

Oil —The State Lands Commission, of which he is a member, should authorize the resumption of offshore drilling for oil in the Santa Barbara channel and other coastal waters. The state has had an offshore oil drilling "moratorium" since the Santa Barbara oil spill in early 1969.

Smog —Sulfur standards for areas outside the smoggy Los Angeles, Riverside and San Francisco Bay Area air basins should be relaxed. Standards within these basins should be relaxed on a "case-by-case basis for the wide utilization of all fuels."

Pollute —The federal government and State Air Resources Board should reduce requirements on motor vehicle smog control devices so fuel can be conserved on a short-term basis. This would include postponing installation of smog control devices on 1966-70 used cars starting Jan. 1.

Time —The legislature should implement year-round daylight saving time in California.

Elk Hills—Congress should immediately authorize oil production from the Elk Hills Naval Reserve Kern County and drill more oil wells.

Other proposals called on the public to eliminate all "unnecessary driving' for the state to further reduce thermostate settings in government buildings from 72 to 68 degrees, and for settings to be increased to 78 degrees in summer so air conditioners will be used less.

The council, appointed by Reagan in September to develop a state energy conservation policy, also urged local governments, industry and citizens to cut back lighting in "nonwork areas."

Reinecke told newsmen that by Jan. 1 California and other western states will be 14 per cent short of its oil needs. He warned if voluntary actions don't work to conserve fuel, "mandatory" controls could soon follow. These would take legislative action.

In response to a question, Reinecke, a Republican gubernatorial contender, said all but the most necessary travel should be curtailed

Reinecke personally recommended that the lights on the state Capitol dome be turned off "for good" and that federal Environmental Protection Agency regulations for no lead gasoline effective next July "be postponed until further notice."

Plans of 9 public colleges to desegregate rejected

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Department of Health Education and Welfare, acting under a federal court order, said Tuesday it had rejected plans from nine states for desegregating their public college systems because the plans lacked adequate detail.

Given 90 days to improve their plans were Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania and Virginia. Louisiana and Mississippi were told to indicate their intent to submit plans by Nov. 30 or face further court action.

Maryland has submitted a partial plan and will offer a full plan later, said Peter E. Holmes, director of HEW's Office for Civil Rights.

"We are telling the states that while they are on the right track generally in dealing with the issue, their submissions made thus far still fall short of an acceptable plan," he said. "The main problem is lack of details and specificity as to the desegregation impact of the action they proposed."

HEW is under court order to get voluntary college desegregation plans from the 10 states, including Maryland, by April 8 or to initiate legal action. This could involve either administrative hearings leading to a cutoff of federal funds or to the filing of lawsuits seeking court orders for desegregation, Holmes said.

He predicted court action rather than fund cutoffs for the states that fail to submit acceptable plans.

In letters to governors and college officials, Holmes said the plans should show specifically the anticipted results of desegregation for students and faculty; should set time tables; should not place a greater burden on white than on black students, and should assure that minorities are given a voice in planning

"There are fears among blacks that desegregation would lead to the downgrading and closing of black colleges and the widespread loss of jobs by black administrators and faculty," said Holmes. "The letters made clear that we do not feel that desegregation can disproportionately burden the black community."

Holmes said that Louisiana and Mississippi had submitted reports on what they were doing but maintained they were in compliance with the Civil Rights Act of 1964, on which the court ruling was based. That act bars federal funds for segregated schools.

Assemblyman Karabian to run for California attorney general

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Democratic Assemblyman Walter Karabian, who voted for the death penalty with "mixed emotions" and supports legalizing marijuana, has become the first major public figure to announce his candidacy for state attorney general.

"I will be the attorney for the people," the 35-year-old fourthterm lawmaker declared at a series of news conferences in Los Angeles, San Francisco and Sacramento.

He noted he had voted for legislation last summer to restore Capital punishment in California but told newsmen he had "mixed emotions" about whether the death penalty actually deters crime.

Karabian said he voted for the new law because it will apply to what he termed a "very narrow scope of individuals" and because "I was trying to be responsive to the mandate of many Californians" who voted last year to reinstate capital punishment.

Karabian, a former deputy district attorney of Los Angeles County, also noted under questioning that he had supported virtually every bill in the legislature to remove the criminal penalties for possession and use of marijuana.

"I believe decriminalization of marijuana is long overdue," he said.

But he voiced "serious doubt" that he would favor making marijuana legal to the extent it could be purchased in cigarette vending machines or marketed commercially.

Karabian became the first major public figure in either party to formally announce his candidacy for attorney general. Other possible contenders mentioned in speculation include Assemblyman Jack Fenton, DMontebello; Democrat William Bennett, a member of the state Board of Equalization; and Republican Sen. George Deukemejian of Long Beach, who was lost in the 1970 GOP primary.

Republican incument Evelle Younger is expected to run for governor.

Karabian said he believed law enforcement money should be spent on "tracking down killers and rapists" and not on "tracking down children with marijuana cigarettes."

He said he has raised $240,000 so far for his primary election campaign and expects to bring the total to $500,000 at major fundraising dinner Feb. 9.

Endorsed by 31 fellow Democrats in the legislature for attorney general, Karabian was international in obtaining California's ratification last year of the federal Equal Rights Amendment for women.

He also said he will make a disclosure of his personal worth during the campaign, but that it would not be a copy of his income tax returns. He said a tax return is a "uniquely confidential" document.

Trial date set for socialite in slaying case

VISALIA (UPI) — Tulare County Superior Court Judge Nat Bradley today set Nov. 19 as the trial date for murder suspects G. Daniel walker, 41, and Beverly Hills socialite Hope Niven Masters, 32.

The pair are accused of killing Los Angeles advertising executive William Ashlock, 40, at a Springville area ranch partly owned by Mrs. Masters' father last February.

Defense attorneys said they needed at least 30 more days to prepare for the trial but the judge ordered the oft-delayed trial date set and said he would rule on a number of pre-trial motions during the coming week.

Mrs. Masters is free on bail while Walker, an escaper from the Illinois state prison system, is in custody.

Psychic bid nets standoff

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Roger Trezel and Pierre Jais of France are one of the great partnerships. Unlike most expert pairs they do use psychics. This hand was played in a 1958 match between England and France.

Jais who sat East decided that desperate measures were called for after Trezel passed as dealer and North opened the bidding. Hence, his one spade overcall.

South doubled and Jais ran out to one notrump. If South had elected to double again Jais would have had to show his heart suit, such as it was but South bid two notrump.

Opening lead—Q♥

From that point on North and South climbed to six spades on fairly reasonable bidding. There was only one fly in their ointment. Trezel opened the queen of hearts. Jais turned the suit to force dummy to ruff whereupon South took the wrong view in spades and wound up one trick short.

North was in six diamonds at one time. That contract would wheel in without a finesse as would six clubs. It appeared as if the Jais pyschic had really paid off.

It didn't. At the other table East passed after North opened one club. South bid a spade; North two clubs; South three diamonds; North four spades; South four notrump; North five diamonds and South six spades. The same queen of hearts was led; the same unfortunate play in spades and the same result, so all the psychic got was a stand-off.

Romance, distance don't mix

DISTANCE: (Q). My boy friend is now a freshman at college 500 miles away. I am a senior in high school. We have been steadies for two years but have agreed to date others while he is gone.

I am so afraid that being so far away he will turn away from me to somebody else. — Lonesome in Georgia.

(A). You are wise not to try to keep an exclusive friendship going at so great a distance. Do not sit and pine for him but live up to your agreement by dating other boys.

In doing so you can test your love for him while he is testing his love for you by going out with new girls he meets. If both of you have a true love for each other it will last. If not, you both will be better off for finding out.

NATURE BOY: (Q). We have this boy in our neighborhood who is hooked on bugs. He has a chameleon that he leads on a string. Also all kinds of other crazy creatures. What can we do to get him off his bug fixation? — No Freak in Florida.

(A). Let him be. Don't try to change him. He may be a great zoologist someday. So long as he does not hurt you he has the right to follow his own inclinations.

Also, being interested in nature is not being a freak.

Also a chameleon is not a bug. It is a type of lizard that changes color in different lights or other conditions.

The doctor comments

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Several months ago I was hospitalized for subacute bacterial endocarditis. It was explained as bacteria in the heart valve. My temperature was erratic and went as high as 103 degrees. I felt tired and lifeless all the time. After 10 days of intravenous penicillin, the symptoms disappeared.

Could you please explain this disease more fully? Two weeks ago I had a test called cardiac catheterization. The doctor told me I have a leaking valve on the top right side of my heart.

Do you think I can continue my normal activities, such as bike riding and sports?

I am 25 years old. Do you think it will cause me a problem later?

DEAR READER — That's a pretty good description of subacute bacterial endocarditis. It happens when bacteria get into the bloodstream and lodge in the heart. Once there they begin to multiply and set up a bacterial growth in the heart, usually on the valve, although it can occur where there is a birth defect in the heart also. The growing bacteria tend to break off and keep on releasing bacteria into the bloodstream. The infection this way can be spread to other parts of the body.

The temperature tends to spike, as you experienced. It certainly can weaken you. Large doses of antibiotics are usually required to eliminate the infection. Once the infection is gone you should be cured, except for any damage the actual infection may have caused, like to a heart valve.

I can't really say how much trouble you may have in the future because the data from your test is important in helping make these kinds of judgements. It is true, however, that if it is just a leaky valve and it is really on the right side of the heart that you may have less of a problem than if it were on the left side of the heart. And, there are two valves on the right side that you could be speaking about. You are fortunate that the left side of the heart was apparently not affected.

You should talk to your doctor who has your test results before deciding just how much activity you can have. If it is a mild leak on the right side he may agree that you can resume fairly normal activity and enjoy sports.

It is quite important that in the future you protect yourself against another attack of endocarditis. To this end you should have antibiotics during any respiratory illness and any operation. This includes dental procedures, most specifically including the time you have your teeth cleaned. Be sure you have your program outlined to be able to do this in the future.

You are a likely candidate to have this problem again, if you don't pay attention to using medicine to prevent future episodes.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of The Progress-Bulletin, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on low blood sugar, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for "Blood Sugar" booklet.

Underpass

EXETER, England (UPI) — A tiny underpass was constructed under a highway near Exeter to allow nocturnal badgers to follow a path they have trod for centuries.

Badgers will not give up their paths even when roads are built across them and thus are a traffic hazard on English roads at night.

Prof, area solons think backers of Prop. 1 lost it

By PAUL HILL
P-B Staff Writer

Proposition 1 has been laid to rest, but the inevitable analysis of its death is just beginning.

A variety of explanations have been given for the defeat, but locally, some persons seem to feel the decisive factor was poor campaigning by pro-Proposition 1 forces.

Among those who hold this opinin is Dr. Craig Stubblebine, one of the principal authors of the measure and an economics professor at Claremont Graduate School.

"It was a combination of the opposition being extraordinarily successful and misleading the electorate, and the proponents not being successful to educate the electorate as to what the issues involved were," Stubblebine said.

"The proponents needed a much more in-depth, statewide campaign of people going out and meeting with groups throughout the state.

"The times I talked with groups, I found that people would come up to me afterwards and say "I really understand this now.' "

That Proposition 1 was a complex issue is no understatement. It was designed to control state spending by writing into the constitution sharp limitations on the state's taxing power. However, it was done in such a complex way that the average voter had a hard time understanding it. Attempts to simplfy the matter were left to television commercials a short time before the election.

"I think the proponents," Stubblebine said, "underestimated or undervalued the need to educate the electorate. The measure was a new idea with which people become accustomed or used to over a period of time. Without going through this educational process, proponents left themselves open to a variety of charges which were either factually or theoretically incorrect.

"They (proponents) felt the tax reduction in and of itself would have been sufficient," he said.

Despite the decisive margin (54.01 per cent against to 45.99 per cent in favor) by which the measure was rejected, Stubblebine said he feels Proposition 1 was "a very sound constitutional addition," and had the people understood what was involved "most of the oppostion" would have dissipated.

In looking back over the campaign, Stubblebine said he would have assembled a knowledgeable group of speakers to get the message across to the public without relying on a "slick media campaign."

State Sen. H. L. Richardson, R-19th Dist., was more critical in his analysis. He charged that the campaign in favor of the proposition was "grossly mismanaged," and that it would not enhance Gov. Ronald Reagan's presidential chances.

"When you take a tax cut and can't get it through, it reflects rather dramatically on your leadership capabilities," Richardson said.

"The governor assigned some of his top pygmies to the campaign. Their only good characteristics were mixing a drink. If the governor tries to use the same people to run for president, he'll be lucky to find a plane ticket to where the convention is."

Said Assemblyman William Lancaster, R-49th Dist., "In looking at this thing, I have come to the conclusion that the issue was not well defined by either side, and, therefore, confusion did exist.

"The natural tendency of the electorate under these circumstances is to vote 'no'," he said.

Assemblyman John Briggs, R-35th Dist., listed several reasons for the defeat, the first of which was that the initiative was "a complicated issue and was not presented to the public in a manner which could be easily understood."

Briggs, who did not pubilicly take a stand on the measure, also attributed the loss to the low turnout of voters who were supposedly in favor of it; that election day was a holiday for government employes (many of whom were opposed to the initiative), thus making it "easier" for them to get to the polls; and the "many national problems which took priority over local issues in the minds of the public."

However, Sen. James Whetmore, R-35th Dist., did not see any complexity in the issue, and put the blame squarely on the opposition which "presented a bunch of arguments that confused the people."

"It was a very simple initiative," Whetmore said. He also warned that the legislature should not look upon the defeat of Proposition 1 as a "mandate from the people" to increase spending.

Democratic Assemblyman Joseph Montoya, 50th Dist., said the issue was a "political question," and the outcome indicated how the "people feel about the governor."

"His (Gov. Reagan's) reputation after six years in office is a little bit tarnished," Montoya said. "The vote reflects an anti-Republican attiutde." Montoya opposed the initiative.

Fishing worm business hooks interest of boy, 15

Your paper printed an article three or four months ago about two men in Ontario who run a fishing worm farm.

This article stated that their business was so good they would buy worms from others who would raise them.

I'm 15. I can't find a part-time job and I would like to raise fishing worms.

My problem is that I can't find that article and I can't find the worm farm. I wonder if you would please help me.—G.R., Pomona.

The story you read was in another newspaper but that didn't seem any reason to wiggle out of solving your problem.

The outfit you want is North American Bait Farms, Inc., 1207 S. Palmetto Ave., Ontario. The proprietors have promised to give you all the angles on fishworm raising.

My husband and I want to assume an existing home loan which is in a relative's name with a San Gabriel Valley savings and loan association.

The association wants to use one per cent of the unpaid loan balance as the charge fee for transferring the loan from one name to another, instead of a flat fee.

It also reserves the right to raise the rate of interest to the prevailing one (which is actually refinancing) and to charge the recording fee. Is all this legal?—Mrs. V.M., Ontario.

We picked three Pomona Valley savings and loan associations by the "close your eyes and point" method and asked about their policies in loan transferrals.

Their policies are similar to the one you describe. Exceptions are Veterans Administration and Federal Housing Administration loans, where the interst rate may not be raised.

We were told that the right to raise the interest rate will be found stated in most trust deeds and has been tested in court. One association said its transferral charge was one per cent of the balance plus $50 but it wouldn't make the charge if the relative was a son or daughter.

Could you please help me in my dealings with Atlantic-Richfield?

My bill was paid in full on April 4. I have the canceled check in my possession.

I have repeatedly written to them and have also sent a photostatic copy of the check to them but they ignore all my correspondence.

They have turned the matter over to a collection agency and are threatening my credit rating. They are billing me for $37.78 when, in fact, I overpaid them by 85 cents.—Mrs. H.L., Montclair.

Atlantic-Richfield sent you an itemization of your account and sent us a copy. It showed a balance of $78.78 after your payment of $38.63.

The company, however, said it had asked the credit bureau to withhold further action on your account for 30 days.

Terrence M. Finney, district attorney of El Dorado County, has sent a letter to Action Line and Mr. and Mrs. J. G. of Pomona showing that a Tahoe Paradise property owner has agreed to stop using two residential lots for his masonry business. He also has promised to remove stored equipment related to the business.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. asked us last May to solve two problems in connection with their property in Tahoe Paradise.

One was cleared up with Action Line help when they received the clear title to their property last August.

When the property owner named by the district attorney removes his masonry business equipment from the residential lots, the second problem will be solved. He is a Tahoe Paradise next door neighbor of Mr. and Mrs. J.G.

As he'd like to see Pomona

By TONY NAVARRO
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — Author Ray Bradbury Tuesday night offered Pomonans a vision of the downtown Pomona Mall coming alive with open-air eating places, theaters, shops and other buildings so inviting and beautiful visitors would feel good just being there.

What Pomona needs in a really successful revitalization program in his view, is not to do what other cities are doing but to build things so unique and so appealing neighboring communities will turn green with envy.

"You need texture, imagination, surprise, mystery," said Bradbury. "You're out to sell a way of life which is theatrical. Everything you do in your life is theatrical, anyway."

Bradbury's talk, "Give Us a Reason To Come to Your City," was given at a meeting of the Redevelopment Commission in the City Council Chambers as part of Redevelopment Week activities.

Before the meeting, Bradbury dined with city and civic leaders at the Firehouse Inn and was taken on a tour of various sites in the city.

In his talk, Bradbury, author of "Fahrenheit 451," "The Illustrated Man," "The Picasso Summer" and other works, was serious, fanciful, humorous and very outspoken.

He said the notion of allowing vehicular traffic to improve the downtown Mall was "dumb."

And what are his credentials, Bradbury asked, and then answered his own question: "My love."

He loves beautiful things, loves people so much he'll shop at a small but more personal market and pay more and that way keep track of who's moved into the neighborhood, said Bradbury.

The author-lecturer said he lives a mile from Century City but never goes there, "because it's inhuman, it's not beautiful."

Why do people travel all the way to see sites in London, Paris, Rome and Egypt? Bradbury continued.

"If you go all that way to see these treasures, for God's sake, why not do something like that here," he said.

His idea of an exciting mall, Bradbury went on to say, is not simply a place with "a roof of trees with a little stucco on the edges," a place where a visitor can look straight ahead and see what's ahead.

Why not a mall designed so that it winds like a river, so that it's "fun," with all sorts of beautiful buildings, at least four theaters specializing in different fare, a group of the performing arts, sidewalk restaurants, Bradbury went on to say.

"A farmer's market would be better than what you have," said Bradbury.

In making Pomona more attractive, "the final result is something you want to live with the rest of your life," said Bradbury. "Make the kind of place people will talk about."

As major people-attracters, the author suggested an artificially created river (a concept included in the proposed La Villita project), or, capitalizing on the city's history of citrus and adobes, a place where people can see an orange grove next to outdoor restaurants with a Spanish-Mexican theme.

The Civic Center Plaza, said Bradbury, is more than some cities have, and is a beginning.

"Go back to your goddess (Pomona), for God's sake. You've got a wonderful name. Be fruitful, multiply."

It will take a lot of money, energy, time and imagination, but with the right approaches, Pomona could be a show place, said Bradbury, who added that he terribly misses visiting Pomona as he used to in the "big red cars."

$270,000 in state funds

Schools to seek Career Education Center

POMONA — Pomona school board Tuesday night authorized the administration to apply for $270,000 state funds available to fund one Demonstration Career Education Center.

Pomona will be competing with every other school district in the state for the money, made available under recently enacted legislation.

Pomona's application, which has the endorsement of both the City Council and the Chamber of Commerce, will be hand delivered to Sacramento Friday by four district employes: Sidney G. Moses, assistant superintendent of educational services; Gene G. Brophy, coordinator of secondary education programs; Jack C. Wooton, dean of instruction at Ganesha High School; and Mrs. Ellen C. Lepp, career guidance counselor at Ganesha.

If Pomona should receive the grant, Mrs. Lepp explained, plans are to house the Demonstration Career Education Center at Ganesha High School.

The plan of those educators involved is to revamp the Ganesha library complex which includes the library, stacks, audio-visual department, lounge, office and workroom, and convert it for use by the Demonstration Career Education Center.

If it is installed, the center, built around a computer system, would administer diagnostic tests to help students determine abilities, attitudes and interests.

It would acquaint students with educational and occupational options available. It would provide tutoring in subject matter areas and study skills.

Counseling would be available and references would be made to agencies more appropriate to assist.

The center would help place individuals in jobs, in post-secondary trades, in technical or business programs or into two-or four-year colleges.

The $270,000 grant would fund the center over a two-year period.

Following adoption by City Council of a resolution supporting the district's application, Mayor Ray J. Lepire said "I feel it's a very worthwhile project."

This center would be a separate operation from the Baldy View Regional Occupational Program career guidance centers now functioning at each of Pomona's three public high schools.

Traffic accident toll: 2 arrested, 1 injured

POMONA — Two persons were arrested on hit-run charges and one other person was injured in traffic accidents here Monday.

Michael Nelson, 23, 2140 N. Orange Grove Ave., was booked after a collision that injured another driver at Mission Boulevard and Dudley Street Monday afternoon. The injured motorist, Jacquin M. Daoust, 51, of 1401 W. Ninth St., was reported in good condition at Pomona Valley Community Hospital with multiple bruises.

Police reported that after the collision, Nelson drove away but a witness supplied them with his car's license number and description. He was located a few minutes later at Valley Boulevard and Norton Street and arrested.

Monday night Margaret Joan Bigelow, 58, 1725 Benedict Way, escaped injury in a collision at Garey Avenue near Drake Street. The other driver, Lois L. Danks, 39, Huntington Beach, was arrested a few blocks away near where police found her damaged car parked. She was booked on charges of misdemeanor hit-run and drunken driving.

RTD official tells Rotary

Rapid transit plan will go to voters

POMONA — Within three or four months the board of directors of the Southern California Rapid Transit District will have developed a specific proposal for a mass rapid transit system for Los Angeles County to present to the voters in the form of a referendum next November.

So stated Lou Collier, a community relations representative for RTD, in a talk Tuesday before the Rotary Club in the Elks Lodge.

Collier said that there is no way of estimating how many private automobiles would be taken off the freeways as the result of a rapid transit system, but he did say there are about five million people in the county who are either partially or totally dependent on some form of public transportation.

The cost of constructing a mass rapid transit system for the county in the next 10 to 12 years will cost about $6.6 billion and, under the referendum to be presented to the voters, would be financed by an increase in the general sales tax.

Collier said that under the proposed master plan the El Monte busway would be upgraded and that the rapid transit system might be extended all the way to Pomona and the San Bernardino County line.

In answer to a question about financing the project out of the fare box, Collier said that there is no self-sustaining transit system in the world and that the Los Angeles County system, like the others, would require public subsidy. Under matching funds, the federal government might pick up one-fifth of the cost of construction, he said.

Four new Rotarians were inducted into club membership by past president Burdette Boileau. They are Bob Bush, general manager of the Progress-Bulletin; Fire Chief John Fowlkes, David Ormiston, executive vice president of the Chamber of Commerce; and Police Chief Phil Wallick.

During balloting early in the meeting seven members were nominated for the board of directors. They are Wayne Book, Don Clark, Fred Freehling, Fred Mack, James Piatt, Nolan Stockton and Alan Thomas. Three will be elected next month.

A guest at the meeting was Stephanie Dempsey, a Rotary International Foundation student who has just returned from study in Australia.

EDITORIAL

Opinion

Is the media target or system?

White House spokesmen assailing former Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox and his 50-lawyer staff as a "get the President" partisan army are coming close to a broad attack upon the whole U.S. judicial process.

Moreover, the assault is fraught with inconsistencies and inaccuracies.

For instance, presidential aide Patrick Buchanan, detailing for newsmen what he and President Nixon himself consider unbalanced Watergate coverage by hostile media representatives, said a leading Eastern newspaper never had exposed the partisan character of Cox's staff.

Buchanan really went further, seeming to argue that no responsible journalists in the press or television had done the job. In fact, a major newspaper group with important big city outlets turned out a long article laying out not only Cox's own well-known Democratic leanings and ties to the Kennedy family, but establishing that many of his staff once had worked for the late Robert Kennedy when he was U.S. Attorney General. At least one other highly respected journal made clear the background of "Cox's army."

But the vital thing here is what follows from this. Are the President and Buchanan and other White House aides contending that the consequences of this political coloration would inevitably have been a series of "partisan" indictments and "partisan" trials?

Let's look at the process in its end-stage, in the courtroom. Judges and juries are committed by the rigid strictures of the law to weigh all matters solely on the basis of provable evidence. If the evidence does not support the charge, their duty is simple: to acquit.

Any judge who himself accepted tainted evidence or allowed a jury to hear it would presumably find the court's verdict in a given case reversed for error either by an appeals court or, if the issue had the requisite magnitude, the U. S. Supreme Court.

Reminded that evidence, not political partisanship, is supposed to govern in a court of law, Buchanan responded by saying that partisan prosecutors could nevertheless obtain indictments if not convictions, and that indictments can ruin men for their entire lives. Now, admittedly, we are living in a super-heated atmosphere where, unhappily, in the confused minds of many Americans (including some public figures) the indictment, a mere charge, is taken as proof of guilt.

But no government official, particularly one like Buchanan speaking for Mr. Nixon's self-proclaimed "law and order" regime, should be arguing that indictments by grand juries are ruinous proclamations of guilt. On principle, which Buchanan should be upholding, they are only declarations that enough evidence exists to warrant trial.

Furthermore, Buchanan really is attacking the system. He implies grand juries are oddly vulnerable to partisan prosecutors' presentations. They are indeed imperfect, but so far no substitute for them has been devised.

One last matter. Forget Cox's army. Assistant Attorney General Henry Petersen told the Senate Watergate committee that if he's just been "left alone," the Justice department — without Cox — could soon have won some key Watergate indictments.

Petersen, no "partisan" in Mr. Nixon's eyes, is still on the job. He seems to have integrity. Would not indictments coming from his work have to be judged equally ruinous by the Nixon-Buchanan standards?

Good face of arms race

There is continuing criticism, both sincere and ideological, of American expenditures on armaments, but if the critics will look closely at the Egyptian attack on Israel they will see a rather potent argument for maintaining a positively up-to-date arsenal.

There was considerable surprise when the Egyptian forces were able to make the inroads they did into Israeli-held territory. The invasion was well-planned, the techniques expertly designed, the individual performance far more effective than earlier efforts would have led us to believe possible.

That Israel was able to stymie the drive and take the initiative was no great surprise, of course. Long training and mature dedication to their tiny nation have made Israeli troops as skilled and courageous as any in the world.

The real secret of Egypt's initial success lay in the training its troops had received from Russian advisers and the very updated armament the Soviets have been sending their Arab partners' stockpile. The SAM defense system, for example, is superb and gave the Israel forces a great deal of trouble.

The lesson for us is that an arms race just for prestige may be an onerous, unnecessary burden, but maintaining the most highly technical defense armament and the most highly skilled armed forces is simply a matter of necessity. A pork barrel it should not be; but as a security measure it is imperative.

Caulfield reveals wiretap role

WASHINGTON — Former White House undercoverman John Caulfield has told Senate investigators about his role in wiretapping President Nixon's brother, Donald, and columnist Joseph Kraft.

These sensitive telephone taps were ordered by the President's right-hand man, John Ehrlichman, who apparently didn't trust the FBI to do the tapping "because it was a 'sieve.'"

The Secret Service not only tapped Donald Nixon's phone, according to a summary of Caulfield's closed-door testimony, but conducted "personal surveillance" of him.

"Caulfield was to monitor this project to determine if it had any merit," states the summary. "Caulfield did not listen to any of the tapes resulting from the surveillance, but merely kept abreast of the information that was being reported by the Secret Service.

'Nothing of value'

"This wiretap was placed when Donald Nixon was out in California, and Caulfield recalls receiving telephone calls from Secret Service contacts who would report that nothing was happening.

"After three weeks, Caulfield reported to Ehrlichman that there was nothing of value coming from the surveillance, and he recommended that it should be canceled. The surveillance was allegedly terminated following Caulfield's recommendation."

As the "action officer within the White House on Nixon family problems," Ehrlichman also "gave Caulfield the assignment of tracking Donald Nixon Jr., when he got into some trouble in the Sierra Madre, California." Caulfield sent a private eye, Anthony Ulasewicz, to California "to investigate the situation and report it back to Ehrlichman."

The Joseph Kraft tap was ordered in June 1969. "Ehrlichman requested that Caulfield arrange the tap within the next 24 hours," states the summary. "Ehrlichman explained that he could not use the FBI because it was a 'sieve,' and therefore it was necessary for Caulfield to do this tap.

Contacted Ragan

"After looking at the Georgetown neighborhood where Kraft lived, Caulfield went back to Ehrlichman to explain the serious difficulties inherent in placing a wiretap in that neighborhood. Ehrlichman again emphasized that the tap had to be done and so instructed Caulfield.

"Caulfield told Ehrlichman that he would contact Jack Ragan, his contact from the 1968 campaign. Ragan and Caulfield went to the neighborhood together to survey the proposed tap, and Ragan told Caulfield that he would need (more technical information) in order to implement the wiretap. Caulfield got this information for Ragan from a friend of Caulfield's in the Secret Service.

"Caulfield again went to Ehrlichman and said that a phone installer card would be necessary in case someone were caught while tampering with the telephone line. Ehrlichman instructed Caulfield to go to John Davies, then on the White House staff, to get this card. Davies gave the card to Caulfield who passed it on to Ragan.

"About a week or ten days following the initial request from Ehrlichman, Caulfield was again called by Ehrlichman who said to cancel the wiretap because (the late FBI chief J. Edgar) Hoover would take care of it. Caulfield called Ragan to call off the tap, and Ragan told him 'It's done.'"

Put in 'burn bag'

Caulfield testified that he later obtained the telephone tape from Ragan and "destroyed it by placing it in one of the burn bags without ever telling Ehrlichman about this tape."

FOOTNOTE: My associate George Clifford reached Donald Nixon who refused to comment on the story. "But I will say this," he said, "you fellows will have a day of reckoning. There have been a lot of stories written. I have a whole drawer full of them. The stories about me by Jack Anderson and many others are 95 per cent untrue and false."

Ragan's attorney, Philip Herrick, said Ragan couldn't comment because he is talking to the Senate Watergate Committee about the Kraft tap. The White House said Davies is now in Hawaii, but repeated calls to Hawaii failed to locate him. Ehrlichman, approached through his attorney, had no comment. Kraft was unavailable in the Middle East when we went to press.

WASHINGTON WHIRL: One of the Smithsonian Institution's most fascinating historical items probably will never be put on exhibit at the famous museum. It's the list of contributions to the Nixon campaign from the Smithsonian Associates' National Board. Of 27 members on the board, 16 coughed up more than $340,000 . . . The prestigious accounting firm of Coopers and Lybrand did the auditing to back up President Nixon's public statements about his San Clemente land deal. Now we've learned the firm got a $242,000 contract from the Justice Department to develop an accounting system for its Law Enforcement Assistance Administration . . . The Washington Post's rapier-penned columnist Maxine Cheshire has signed up to do a book for $150,000 to be called tentatively "VIP." One of her unprinted episodes involves a busty Playboy centerfold model who dated Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

PAUL HARVEY

England sets some good examples

God knows we need most "good examples." When the Agnew thing broke, the London Daily Mail said, "Mr. Agnew is probably no better and no worse than most leading American politicians as far as moral standards go; it is the standards which are changing." If that's so, hallelujah!

What does Britain know about morality that we don't? After all, the British government has been scandalized also.

The public scandals, theirs and ours, reflect strength more than weakness. The public humiliation of British lords and the unseating of an American Vice President are evidence that where the systems may breed some covetousness, they don't tolerate it.

The American Republic is still bigger than anyone. In the area of private wrongdoing, the British behave better than we do. Their good example is worth researching.

London and New York City—for example—are similar. Each has a population of between 7 million and 8 million people. Each has 1 million-plus primary and secondary schools. But the London crime rate is negligible compared to New York's.

Last year, greater London had one-third of a million crimes; New York City had five times that many! London had 87,000 fire alarms; New York City had 274,000! London had 1 million parking offenses; New York City had 6 million.

Rapes: 135 in London; more than 3,000 in New York. They had three a week; New York had 10 a day! Murder: 113 in London; 1,691 in New York—14 times more.

And London's lesser crime cannot be credited to more police. London has far fewer police—18,000 as opposed to 28,000.

So the comparatively law-abiding citizens of London are a good example. How do we emulate them?

A delegation of New Yorkers has been in London seeking from Scotland Yard and others the British formula for crime prevention. Here it is: London's growing racial mixture includes West Indians, Indians and Pakistanis but, says a Lambeth official, "we act to clean up ghettos as soon as they develop."

Where 80 per cent of New York crime is drug related, less than 10 per cent of London's crime is. And perhaps most significant, the British court system is uncompromising. British justice functions with dignity, without discord, with speed, without favor.

Anything a criminal says is held against him. There are few appeals; sentencing is likely the same day as the verdict; jailing is immediate. In magistrate courts, no more than 4 per cent of defendants are represented by lawyers. Most who apply for free legal aid are refused. Any barrister who uses tricks is "eased out."

No judge is elected. And there has not been one known case of bribery involving a British judge—ever.

Stand up and be counted

I believe the time has arrived when all citizens who have a love for their country should stand up and be counted.

While a carefully orchestrated and timed campaign has been directed against Richard Nixon, the man, it is most important we take a careful look at the real objective of those who have concocted this crisis. Their hope is to replace an administration basically conservative, with one which is faithful to the ACLU, over-zealous labor leaders, striving to set up a liberal, big government philosophy.

The central theme of the Democratic attack against Richard Nixon is that he is not to be trusted. We have been listening to this tirade for 25 years. It has never been true and is not true now.

I can personally vouch for the fact this same Richard Nixon, handed back five one hundred dollar bills sent by personal messenger from Sacramento in behalf of a national corporation during his first campaign in 1946.

His remark at that time to me was: "Roy I am not impressed—give him back the bills and tell his company to put them in regular campaign channels if they want to support me, otherwise—keep them." This is the same Richard Nixon I knew in 1946 and no one can show any concrete facts linking him personally to any dishonesty, then or today.

Many have asked me what to do. I say to them, "write your Congressman, your Senator, contact the media, and refute the phony stories that have been created purely to destroy a man they can't handle and manage—Roy O. Day, Pomona.

Assassination papers

Everyone is searching for "truth" in government concerning Watergate, secret tapes, even to disclosing Pentagon secret documents to the point of condoning the stealing of them.

I, as an American citizen, cannot understand, however, one of the most hideous events of our modern generation that happened 10 years ago—and what I'd like to know and see brought to light are the secret papers and documents that are buried in the archives in Washington, D.C.

Namely, the assassination papers of Pres. John F. Kennedy—to be buried there until most of the living people of the U.S.A. today are dead.

There's not been a mention of these papers by either the Democratic or Republican parties. If truth in government is so important (and it is) why not the assassination papers?

Could it be their disclosure might not only be "interesting" but "embarrassing"?—Mrs. R. J. Dunavant, Claremont.

INSIDE REPORT

Congress blamed for energy crisis

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — An elite group of 32 businessmen invited to the White House last week for an advance peek at the new energy program also became witness to a momentary clash between President Nixon and his domestic counselor, Melvin R. Laird, which reveals much about both the administration's handling of the energy crisis and its general strategy.

Laird was listing energy legislation now in the congressional pipeline when he was interrupted by an obviously irritated President. "But there's nothing on my desk now, is there?" Mr. Nixon asked his counselor. The impression given the businessmen: while Laird was trying to solve the fuel shortage in close cooperation with Congress, the President wanted to blame Congress for causing the crisis.

This contrast between the President and his counselor transcends the energy crisis. But in this case, the presidential attempt to lay blame on Congress particularly infuriates Democratic leaders on Capitol Hill who believe their early warnings about the energy crunch were ignored by the White House. In truth, key administration officials admit the President delayed until it was too late to prevent disaster. Even at this eleventh hour, the administration's handling of the crisis seems fuzzy and uncoordinated.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, chairman of the Senate Interior Committee, can claim to be the leading Cassandra. His June 13, 1972, letter to the President warning about U.S. dependence on Middle Eastern oil was ignored. So was Jackson's Dec. 10, 1972, call for Mr. Nixon to name an energy czar.

Warnings go unheeded

One reason why Jackson's warnings went unheeded was that domestic policy chief John D. Ehrlichman then tightly controlled decisions on energy, as on everything except foreign affairs. Besides being spread thin by trying to monopolize domestic policy, Ehrlichman was busy attempting to keep from going down with the Watergate wreck when energy decisions were needed.

When Ehrlichman finally fell last April, the dominant administration voice in the energy field became William Simon, Deputy Secretary of the Treasury. A Wall Street investment expert, Simon at first opposed mandatory fuel allocations but later was convinced by Jackson and other congressional leaders of their necessity.

But on June 29 Gov. John Love of Colorado was appointed energy czar and quickly ruled against mandatory allocations, delaying for weeks what Democrats in Congress long had been urging. Meanwhile, Simon disappeared from the energy picture along with his valuable expertise. As the crisis deepened last week, Simon was in Nassau attending a Time, Inc., seminar.

Love, popular and well regarded as governor, has been an almost totally unrelieved disappointment here. Even administration officials admit he lacks the background, temperament and governmental powers to be energy czar. In fact, he does not want the power. One proposal to consolidate the government's scattered energy policymaking functions under him was killed by Love.

No leadership for policy

There is, therefore, a one-word answer to the question of who is running the government's energy policy: nobody. The consequence is a sloppy, sluggish performance by the administration which scarcely supports Mr. Nixon's attempts to blame the crisis on Congress.

When Jackson on Oct. 17 unveiled his legislation for fuel self-sufficiency, Love's office replied it would soon send up its own bill. But one week later, Laird informed Jackson that the many government departments involved had not agreed on anything. That same day, Love told the Senate Interior Committee the administration had no contingency plans in case of an Arab oil cut-off.

Mr. Nixon might not have avoided the crunch even had he heeded Jackson's first warnings. In any event, it is too late now to avoid terribly painful economic consequences resulting from the Arab cut-off. ("It's going to be wild in a few weeks," predicts one consultant who advises the administration.)

Nevertheless, almost everybody concerned believes Mr. Nixon should belatedly put somebody in charge of the crisis to at least minimize the economic dislocation. In business circles, Secretary of the Treasury George Shultz is talked about as the best choice. But Schultz, overburdened now as Mr. Nixon's economic czar, does not want the job and probably won't get it.

Besides, the White House seems more interested in goading Congress. Rep. Torbert MacDonald of Massachusetts, chairman of the House subcommittee handling energy legislation and a critic of the President's energy policies, was not invited to last Wednesday's briefing. MacDonald said nothing publicly but, in private, trumpeted his rage in unprintable language. Although the snub to MacDonald might well be the product of now familiar incompetency at the Nixon White House, it also coincided with Mr. Nixon's desire for a cold war with Congress while a fuel-short nation faces a freezing winter.

S. B. County Supervisors don't think it's needed

Chino Hills airport plan meets stiff wind

SAN BERNARDINO (CNA) — Proponents of the Chino Hills Airport have received a frosty reception from the San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors.

Although Francis Fox, principal consultant for the proposed airport, said he did not want the supervisors to take action now, the board members let Fox know they do not feel another airport is needed in the Chino area, and then referred the item Monday to the county Department of Airports.

Supervisor Ruben S. Ayala, whose district the airport would be in, told Fox at the beginning of his remarks that he is not in favor of the facility which would replace the hills he walked as a boy. Later he said he would reserve judgment on the airport until after a study of the project is completed, but the cost of study bothered Ayala. "That's the taxpayers' money and the taxpayers have not asked for a an airport."

A joint powers agreement among surrounding cities is being sought to apply for a three-quarter million dollar grant to study the airport.

Board Chairwoman Nancy Smith said she questioned seeking such an expensive grant in the middle of an energy crisis that may negate any possible use for another airport. "We're having to reverse our life style with the energy shortage," she told Fox.

She noted that his ideas of the growth which would accompany a new airport were outdated. To get an environmental impact report on another airport would take a team of "Philadelphia lawyers," she said.

Fox said the airport would be the first environmentally controlled airport in the world. The 25,000-acre site would have a buffer zone of 17,000 to 18,000 acres which would be used for recreational facilities, he said. The major complaint about airports in general — noise — would be eliminated, because the airport facilities would be concentrated in 7,000 acres in the middle of the complex. By the time the airport is actually built in eight years the airlines will be using quieter engines, he said.

He estimated the airport would generate $2 billion of new business when fully developed.

Supervisor Daniel Mikesell said to approve the airport the board would have to reverse a previous action supporting Orange County's efforts to preserve the Chino Hills as an open space, and he indicated he is not ready to do that. Mikesell also said he hoped to see Ontario Airport reach a point of maximum usage before another airport is started.

"Where is all the industrial development that was supposed to be generated by the Ontario Airport?" Ayala asked. "We have acres of industrial zoned land out there just sitting empty."

The board argued with Fox over the Southern California Association of Governments reaction to the airport. Fox said SCAG had recommended the airport as one alternate in future airport plans. The board maintained SCAG had taken no position on the airport.

"I'd hate to be in your position trying to sell this to the Environmental Review Board," Mikesell told Fox.

Chino trustees approve plan for air-conditioning schools

By MAE TATE
P-B Staff Writer

CHINO — The school board unanimously accepted the architect's recommendation for gas air conditioning of Chino schools Tuesday night, giving the go-ahead for a presentation to the state allocation board.

In the first of two presentations by the district architectural firm of Carmichael-Kemp, Dick Kemp outlined three schemes for air conditioning of Chino schools. Kemp recommended tentative approval of "scheme one" which represented the plan most economically feasible for the district, with the cost at $151,265 for El Rancho School, used as an example.

Kemp reported that he had visited Sacramento about five weeks ago to discuss the feasibility study with a member of the state allocation board. The state body allows funds for cooling systems within schools agreeing to go on the all-year school program.

Walnut Elementary and Magnolia Junior High schools are currently the pilot programs for evaluation and extension of the all-year school plan throughout Chino Unified School District.

Scheme one called for removing the existing radiant heating floor system and providing new gas-fired refrigeration-heating units, Kemp explained in his written report. This would involve changing incandescent lights to fluorescent lights in the classrooms and administration building.

Although the gas air conditioning would cost more initially than electric air conditioning, the cost of re-wiring, maintenance and repair of the latter would prove more costly in the long run, according to the architect.

Gas would be utilized in all rooms except the multipurpose which would "use forced-air heating system and add electric refrigeration units only and provide a new separate electrical service," Kemp's report read.

Scheme two would "abandon existing radiant floor slab heating and provide new electric refrigeration and electric strip heaters." The cost of this would be $155,554.

The third scheme called for the district to "maintain existing radiant floor slab heating system and provide electric refrigeration only." The cost here would be $227,395.

Kemp outlined the energy cost per month in the respective schemes of one, two and three as $531, $1,276 and $1,253. He pointed out that although the architects had actually explored 15 different systems the others were not presented because of the large expense involved.

Supt. Royce Lapp voiced his agreement with the architects in the recommendation of scheme one.

In a second report, Dan Carmichael and Bill Skinner presented information on the district census of student population and the maturation plan to be submitted to the state.

Carmichael pointed out that recent legislation made it mandatory for districts to detail growth pattern expectations and a master plan before applying for additional construction of schools. He stated such a plan should be updated every 18 months or so.

Skinner flipped through overlays giving the physical boundaries of the district and said that the Chino Hills area had been ignored because it will not develop until much later. Other overlays detailed the industrial, agricultural, residential and commercial areas; the land use projections of county and city; excluded areas of the California Institution for Men, Chino Airport, Prado Dam, and Civic Center and potential hazard areas involving flight patterns of Ontario International Airport; growth patterns; and study areas of present and future students.

The two men also presented tentative developmental plans showing blocks of houses generating students from various attendance areas and schools necessary to meet that need.

"We wanted you to see what we're doing and how we're going about it. It is within state guidelines. We will compile a document to be presented to the state for review and approval," said Skinner.

Lapp pointed out that there may be something on the next agenda on starting the application procedure for the completion of Magnolia Junior High School. This application would follow the architects' submission of the district maturation plan to the state.

Passenger total at OIA tops 1 million

ONTARIO — The number of passengers served by Ontario International Airport is running about seven weeks ahead of last year.

On Nov. 4, the one millionth airline passenger passed through the terminal building. Last year, the millionth passenger didn't arrive until Dec 21.

"Through the end of October, officials had counted 990,605 passengers for the year," said Robert Hamilton, airport manager. "A calculation of daily traffic indicated the millionth passenger arrived that Sunday."

Airport officials had held a ceremony for the millionth passenger last year since it was the first "millionth passenger" year.

"Now that we are permanently in that category, we let it slip by quietly this time," said Hamilton.

For the first 10 months this year, the scheduled airlines have carried 853,988 passengers; scheduled commuters, 110,393; non-scheduled flights, 17,684; and alternate operations, 8,540.

The 10-month total compares with 848,635 persons for the same period last year.

Passengers last month totaled 102,172, a sharp increase over the 84,322 counted the previous October. The figure, however, included 4,000 persons whose flights were diverted here when heavy fog closed Los Angeles International Airport.

Total air cargo handled last month was 667,152 pounds, up 71 per cent over the 389,367 pounds the previous October.

Food stamp program poses some financial problems for S.B. County

SAN BERNARDINO (CNA) — To begin a food-stamp program in San Bernardino County by April 1, 1974, would cost taxpayers $244,000, and could possibly jeopardize the county from receiving state money to subsidize a stamp program, the county Board of Supervisors has learned. No action was taken by the board to implement the report brought at the request of Supervisor James Mayfield.

July 1, 1974 stamps will be required by federal law to replace commodities now issued to those in need.

"We're going to have to process 35,000 to 40,000 applications before we can issue stamps," county Welfare Director George H. Jeffrey told the supervisors. Workers will have to be trained on the useage of stamps, and the county will either have to sell stamps itself or find someone willing to sell them. Presently he said the county is negotiating with the post office to sell stamps, but the post office does not want to be held responsible for lost stamps, so the county may have to set up its own system.

The federal law which mandated stamp programs is being disputed, Jeffrey said. It has not been determined whether the mandate to establish stamp programs was given to the state or counties. "If the mandate is to the state, we should receive funds from the state to subsidize the program under Senate Bill 90," he said.

"We do care about the people's problems," Mayfield said noting the board had just approved the Dependency Prevention Commission's request to apply for a grant to the Commission on Aging for Senior Citizens Congregate Nutrition Program.

Complaints about the nutritional deficiencies caused by the commodities program prompted Mayfield's cost study request.

Upland police close store theft case--on the spot

UPLAND — Three men have posted $2,000 bail each at West End Jail after being arrested on suspicion of burglary and receiving stolen property in connection with the theft of five 10-speed bicycles and other goods from Builder's Emporium, 229 E. Foothill Blvd., Friday.

Two of the three men, identified as Daniel Saul Daugh, 6205 Halsted Ave., Alta Loma, and Dan Lee Calderwood, 18, of 759 E. D St., Ontario, were arrested by Police Capt. Howard Seay, Detective Jerry Wulf and Detective Steve Malone after two men were seen removing the stolen bicycles from the roof of the Pizza Palace next door to the Builder's Emporium.

Malone said officials of Builder's Emporium called to report the theft of five 10-speed bicycles, several cases of oil and four cases of dishes from the store's loading dock about 2:10 p.m. Friday.

Malone said he, Seay and Wulf went to the rear of the store about 4:04 p.m. Friday to investigate the theft when they saw a man on the roof of the Pizza Palace handing a cardboard shipping carton containing a bicycle down to another man on the ground. The two men were questioned, and the bicycle was identified as one of those stolen from the Builder's Emporium.

Malone said it appeared as though the thieves took the bicycles, still inside cardboard shipping cartons, from the store's loading dock and hoisted them onto the roof of the Pizza Palace next door, to be picked up later.

Malone said, "We just happened to arrive at the exact time the men were picking up the stolen property." The two men were placed under arrest for investigation of grand theft.

Malone said the third man and a 15-year-old youth were arrested Sunday in connection with the burglary. The third man, identified as Larry Rotondi, 20, of Alta Loma, a former employe of the Pizza Palace, was arrested for investigation of receiving stolen property.

Malone said the juvenile was transported to juvenile hall for disposition on burglary charges.

Fuel cutbacks to zero in on car pools, coffee pots

SAN BERNARDINO (CNA) — Car pools, fewer coffee pots, limits on heating and cooling, reduction of hot water temperature—these are all ways the county is considering cutting down on energy consumption.

The Board of Supervisors took a strong stand Monday to begin its energy reduction at home. The county will cooperate with the Southern California Edison Co. in finding ways to reduce energy consumption. County department heads have been asked to meet and devise a specific program to cut back on energy usage. Car pools are to be developed within a month.

To extend the cutback beyond county buildings, the supervisors are requesting the San Bernardino Association of Governments to hold an emergency meeting. Ways in which complex sources such as shopping centers can cut energy useage will be discussed.

"Our way of life is going to be severly altered and probably will never be the same," said board Chairwoman Nancy Smith.

Israeli generals in public hassle

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Israel's top generals have become embroiled in a bitter public row over what some feel was the country's poor preparations for the Oct. 6 war and the way it was fought.

The controversy has splashed over into the Israeli press and become so heated that both the government and the army have promised public probes.

In a bid to take some of the heat out of the rumpus, both defense minister Moshe Dayan and Lt. Gen. David Elazar, Israel's chief of staff, have ordered officers in the armed forces to refrain from stoking the flames with public statements until both inquiries have been completed.

The row was started by Lt. Gen. Haim Bar-Lev, former Israeli chief of staff and the man who gave his name to the Suez Canal "Bar-Lev line" of fortifications overran and captured by Egypt on the first day of the war.

In an article in the newspaper Ma'Ariv the reserve general charged the Israeli army was not ready for the war. He said Israeli intelligence was fully aware of the Egyptian and Syrian military buildup but that nothing was done to meet it.

In another interview published in foreign newspapers, Bar-Lev said some Israeli soldiers were wearing slippers or doing their laundry when the Arabs attacked. He said, too, that tanks were too far from the front line in Syria.

Bar-Lev's charges coincided with an interview (in the New York Times) with Maj. Gen. Ariel "Arik" Sharon, commander of the Israeli forces that stabbed across the Suez and seized more than 625 square miles of Egyptian territory on the west bank.

In the interview, Sharon accused the high command of failing to understand in time the significance of his canal crossing and of failing to send reinforcements quickly enough.

The statements by the two generals swiftly brought down the wrath of their military superiors.

Dayan told the cabinet Sunday he had suggested turning the whole matter over to the attorney general for possible legal action.

Cost of malpractice insurance soaring

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Medical patients in Southern California, who already pay an average $1.50 per visit to help cover their doctors' malpractice insurance fees, will soon be paying almost $2.70, a state assembly hearing was told Tuesday.

Malpractice insurance premiums, which rose more than 400 per cent between 1968 and 1970, will soon go up by 75 per cent, said assemblyman Henry Waxman, D-Los Angeles, chairman of the Assembly Select Committee on Medical Malpractice.

The committee's hearing Monday was to consider possible legislation to deal with the skyrocketing cost of malpractice insurance.

"When a sick person goes to a doctor's office now, about $1.50 of the amount charged for the visit goes to cover the doctor's malpractice insurance premium," he said.

Dr. Dexter T. Ball, chairman of the California Medical Association's committee on professional liability, testified that 20 years ago he paid $400 a year for malpractice insurance and today he pays $4,000.

Waxman said malpractice claims were filed against 13.5 per cent of physicians in 1975, and against 18 per cent today.

John Quinlan, an actuary for the Hartford Insurance Group, predicted the frequency will soon reach 30 to 40 per cent.

He said Hartford, which has insured most of the doctors in Los Angeles County since 1970, will be forced to increase rates by 75 per cent because the company is now paying out more in claims than it earns in premiums.

Eli Bernsweig, former staff director of a federal commission that examined medical malpractice, said he is not bothered by the rate increase. "Doctors pay more than that for club dues, and it's all tax deductible anyway," he said.

James Ludlam, attorney representing the California Hospital Association, blamed the malpractice losses on "new technology and medical expertise which is leading to major medical progress, but at a high price when there is a failure of expectation."

Keeping track of injuries

NEW YORK (UPI) — To help identify areas where it should get involved, Uncle Sam's Consumer Product Safety Commission is relying on the National Electronic Injury Surveillance System (NEISS) as a source of injury information.

Statistics already compiled by NEISS show 700,000 injuries a year from Children's toys, 500,000 from swings, 150,000 from glass doors and windows, 140,000 from power lawnmowers, 80,000 from defective wall sockets and cords, faulty floor heaters and unvented gas heaters.

Ancient Rome items found at Colosseum

ROME (UPI) — Archeologists digging through the mud of an old sewer under the Colosseum said Tuesday they have come up with a unique collection of ancient Roman trash.

It ranged from peachstones thrown away by spectators to a bear's skull, neatly severed by a gladiator's sword. There were animal bones from carcases fed caged lions, and a cameo brooch apparently lost by a woman spectator.

"The study of the material we found in the sediment is particularly important," archeologist Claudio Mocchegiani Carpano told newsmen. "Apart from being unique, because there is no documented evidence of excavations of this kind, it provides for the first time certain archeological evidence about the life of the Colosseum up to the second half of the fourth century A.D."

Mocchegiani said the objects were found under a six-foot layer of mud in one of four sewage mains under the Colosseum, built in the 1st century A.D. under the Emperor Vespasian and blocked by a cave-in or earthquake 300 years later.

Nuclear plant restriction easing sought

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — An Atomic Energy Commission member says he favors relaxing restrictions on preliminary construction work at nuclear plants.

William O. Doub noted Monday that now such work can't be started until full federal approval has been granted for the plant.

Broader use of pre-construction permit exemptions would speed construction by six months at the time of an energy crisis, he said.

Doub gave us his opinions in a speech before the Atomic Industrial Forum.

It is 'nervous time' in SAL chase

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

"It's "nervous time" in the San Antonio League this week.

That's the phrase Pomona High coach Mike Clifton used Tuesday afternoon at this week's Pomona Valley coaches and writers football luncheon. And he has a reason to be nervous. But he's not alone.

Half of the league's coaches are feeling the same nervousness as the SAL goes into the last weekend of play for the 1973 season.

Why are all of them feeling that way on the last week of play?

That's easy to answer—they're all tied for the league lead and are all shooting for CIF playoff berths going into the weekend.

"I've been nervous since Sunday," stated Clifton. "I haven't gotten much sleep either."

The other three coaches who will be sweating out this week include Esper Keiser, of Claremont, Jim Rawls of Chino and Bob Holycross of Upland.

"It's really amazing how things have turned out," commented Keiser, who coached the Wolfpack to the SAL championship last year. "Things aren't running in a pattern any more. I sure didn't think those upsets last weekend would happen."

He was talking about the two games which threw the SAL into a four-way tie for the lead going into the final weekend of play.

It all started Friday night when Chino High stunned Upland, 3-0, and ended Saturday night when Pomona knocked off Claremont, 27-21.

That put all four teams in the lead with identical 4-2 league records.

And that has also set the stage for one of the most exciting weekends in the history of the SAL.

There is a possibility that three teams could come away with a share of the SAL title. And if that happens, there is also strong chance that all three teams would reach the CIF playoffs.

But it'll all depend on this weekend.

It starts Thursday night at Mt. San Antonio College, where Upland and Pomona clash—the loser calling it a season while the winner claims a share of the title.

"I hope we can run a little," said Clifton, "but Upland does a lot of things Claremont did defensively against us."

Clifton was referring to the blitzing Claremont did, which stopped the Red Devils cold. In fact, Pomona had only a minus 24 yards on the ground, but quarterback Steve Taylor completed 24 of 33 passes for 330 yards and one touchdown. And that's all the Devils

For that performance, Taylor was selected by the Progress-Bulletin as the San Antonio League Player of the Week for the second consecutive week.

"That was a spectacular performance," praised Upland coach Holycross. "We're going to get hurt if we give him (Taylor) enough time to throw. We're just going to have to hang onto the ball."

It'll obviously be Upland's running game against Pomona's passing attack.

But Pomona might have a slight disadvantage. The Red Devils played Saturday night and must turn around and play Thursday night, which means one less day of practice.

"I think the short week will hurt us a little bit," said a concerned Clifton.

But Holycross thinks differently. His Highlanders played Friday night, and get one extra day over the Devils to practice. "The one less day shouldn't hurt a passing team as much as a running team."

Clifton indicated that the only way Pomona can contain Upland is to stop the fullback trap play. That would mean halting the quick Cory Chapman.

When Thursday night is over, then two more teams swing into action Friday evening.

Out of the two games, the Claremont-Ganesha contest should be the most interesting. The defending SAL champion Wolfpack must stop the explosive Ganesha wishbone offense, spearheaded by fleet-footed Ron Jacques.

But on the other hand, the Giants must crack the stubborn Claremont defense, which leads the Pomona Valley. The 'Pack defense has only allowed an average of 9.2 points per game this year.

"We've always had a tough time with Ganesha," said Claremont coach Keiser. "But even though they run the wishbone, we think they'll try to pass a little too. We'll be facing a good offensive team."

The Giant offense is leading the SAL in scoring, averaging 20.5 points per game. But the Ganesha defense isn't too shabby either, allowing only 10.1 points per game all year—fourth best in the Pomona Valley.

Over at Upland High, where Chino and Montclair will be fighting it out, Chino is the heavy favorite.

It only proves one thing—Chino coach Rawls wasn't kidding when he said, "We're going for a world's record," about three weeks ago. If Chino survives the battle with the winless Cavaliers, it'll be the first time in Chino High history that a football team has won a San Antonio League championship.

"I'd rather play against Montclair than play Claremont, Pomona or Upland right now," exlaimed Rawls. "But we're not taking anything for granted against Montclair."

Ducey greets his 'family'

Claremont-Mudd's Ted Ducey will meet his 'family' Saturday night. It will be a happy reunion.

Ducey, who is the only basketball coach Claremont-Mudd has even known, will soon be beginning his 15th season with the Stags.

It has been a distinguished career. Ducey has been blessed with four Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (SCIAC) championship teams.

The zenith of the Ducey era was in 1967 when the Stags advanced to the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) finals in Kansas City after winning the District Three (California) crown.

But championships aren't everything to Ducey. Obviously he wants to win but he also builds men.

Former C-M basketball players are now lawyers, engineers, accountants and teachers.

That is why Ducey is looking forward to Saturday night when his 1973-74 varsity makes its debut against the Alumni at 8 p.m.

"You don't have to coach at UCLA to get the benefits of coaching," Ducey said. "We're not an athletic factory at Claremont. One of the pluses of working at a school like this is the opportunity to work with outstanding persons."

Unlike most coaches, Ducey doesn't place basketball number one on the priority list.

Families no. 1

"I always tell my players their top responsibility is with their families," Ducey explained. "Next is their studies and basketball is third."

For that reason, the Ducey home has always been open to his players. There has been a strong personal relationship.

It is interesting to see where Ducey's players are today.

The starting lineup of that 1967 championship team was Bill Harmsen, Vic Bilger, Dick Barton, Pat Hagiwara and Skip Dorn.

Harmsen, a former Pomona High star, is now an attorney in Los Angeles. He received his law degree at Hastings School of Law in San Francisco and holds the all-time Stag scoring record with 1,377 career points.

Bilger, an outstanding defensive player, is an engineer at Hughes Aircraft. Barton, the high-scoring center, and Hagiwara, the playmaking guard, are also engineers. All three are Harvey Mudd College graduates.

Dorn, who played at Mt. San Antonio College before C-M, is a Certified Public Accountant in Newport Beach.

Claremont's second big era came in 1970 when the Stags won a co-championship and in 1972 when Ducey's cagers took the SCIAC title outright.

Nat Baumer, who transferred from LSU, was a big reason for the Stags' recent success. He is now attending medical school at UC Davis.

Jeff Naslund, who won a NCAA postgraduate scholarship for his athletic and academic accomplishments, is studying for either a law degree or a government position at Princeton University.

MVP Jackson has more goals

NEW YORK (UPI) — "There are lots of things I can do in the game that I haven't done."

An aging star, perhaps? A retiring veteran, maybe? No, just the small-boy enthusiasm of 27-year-old Reggie Jackson, selected unanimously Tuesday as the American League's Most Valuable Player this year, and thinking he still has more to do to prove himself.

Jackson, only the seventh player in the 43-year history of MVP awards to win without a dissenting vote, led the American League with 32 homers and 117 runs batted in this year and batted .293. He previously was named MVP of the Oakland A's second straight World Series victory as well.

But, Jackson said, he still has plenty to do, and he enumerated some of his goals:

'I have not hit .300 yet," he told a news conference in Oakland. "I have not hit 50 home runs. I have not stolen 40 bases. I have not won two MVP's. And I have not been on three world championship teams."

". . . Until I do them, I will be shortchanging myself, the fans, the owners, the team and everybody else," Jackson added. "I would like to be the best. Whether I can or not remains to be seen."

Named first on every ballot cast by a 24-man committee — two in each AL city —of the Baseball Writers Association of America, Jackson polled 336 points to easily outdistance runnerup Jim Palmer of the Baltimore Orioles.

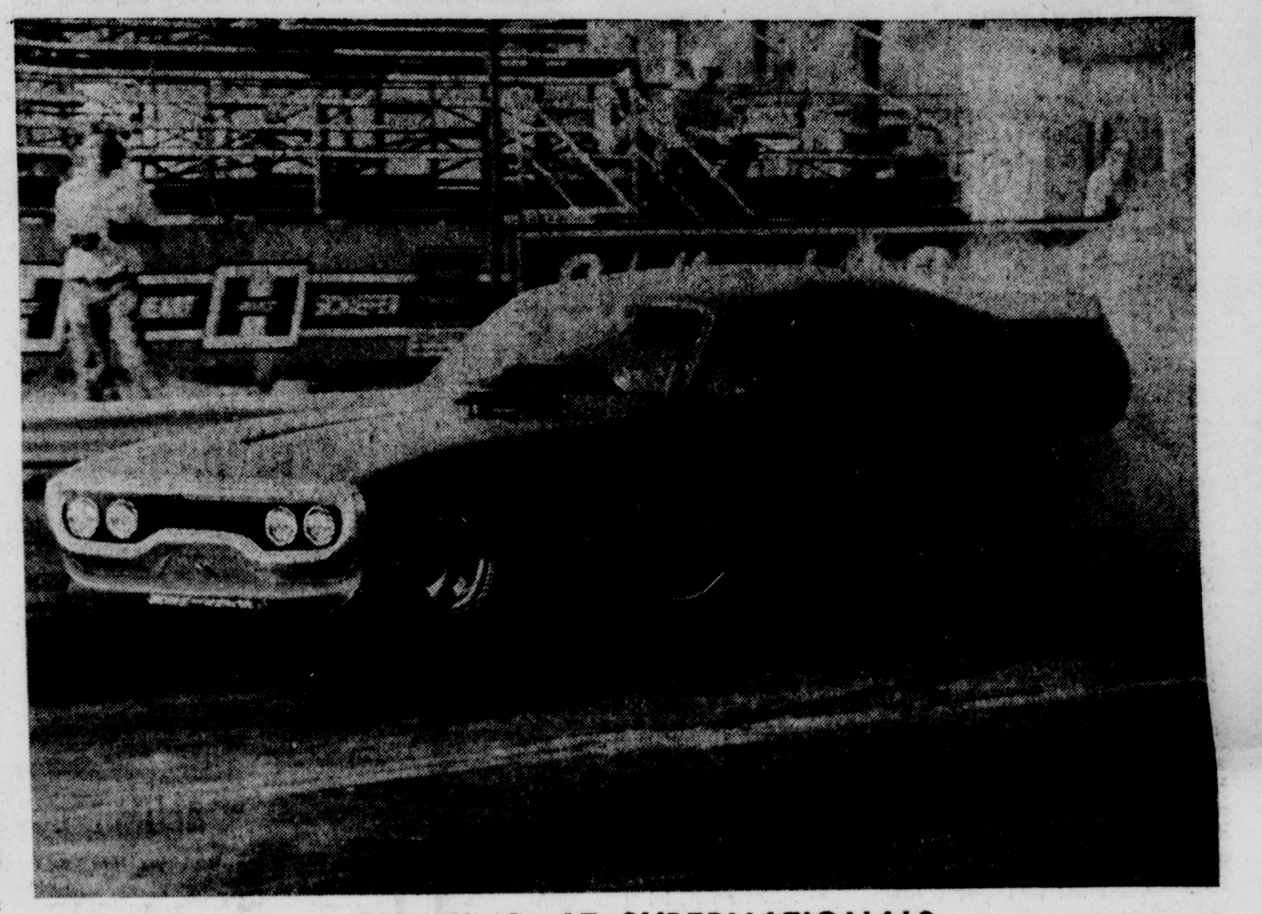
His selection also capped a comeback of sorts for Jackson, who was forced to miss the 1972 World Series when he injured his leg stealing home with the decisive run in the final game of the playoffs. Because of that, he was so intent on playing this year he shrugged off a crackpot death threat and played in the Series under the constant watch of a bodyguard.

Palmer, the league's Cy Young Award winner as the top pitcher after four successive 20-victory seasons, drew 11 second-place votes and 172 points while centerfielder Amos Otis of Kansas City, a .300 hitter, had 112.

Rod Carew of Minnesota, who won his third batting title this year with a .350 average, Detroit reliever John Hiller and Oakland third baseman Sal Bando each had 83 points.

The previous unanimous selections were Denny McLain of Detroit (1968), Orlando Cepeda, St. Louis —the only unanimous winner ever in the NL —(1967), Frank Robinson, Baltimore (1966), Mickey Mantle, New York Yankees (1956), Al Rosen, Cleveland (1953) and Hank Greenberg, Detroit (1935).

A six-year veteran, Jackson is approaching the $100,000 salary level but refused to say if that's what he would ask of owner Charlie Finley for 1974. Jackson has been an outspoken critic of Finley's, particularly when the A's owner created such a ruckus with his off-the-field antics at the World Series.



RUNNING AT SUPERNATIONALS

Claremont resident and car owner Steve Wiencek will be racing the Plymouth Satellite this weekend at Ontario Motor Speedway during the fourth annual Supernationals.

Local flavor added to drags

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

ONTARIO — A little local flavor will be added to the spicy fourth annual Supernationals this weekend at Ontario Motor Speedway.

Steve Wiencek of Claremont has teamed with veteran engine builder and National Hot Rod Association record holder Gene Adams to field the "Adams and Wiencek" Funny Car to be run in the new Pro-competition liminator category.

"The Pro-Comp idea is really good," praised the 24-year-old Claremont resident. "But we'll have a disadvantage with the weight."

The car which Wiencek will be driving at the Supernationals this weekesd and the Winternationals at the Pomona Fairgrounds next February is a 1973 Plymouth Satellite bodied Injected Funny Car.

The Plymouth features a 1200 horsepower fuel-injected Chrysler engine and B&J two-speed transmission. During the past summer the car established new track records at events in Irwindale, Yakima, Wash., and Boise, Idaho. The car, while still only several months old, has been very compeittive having traveled the quarter mile in 7.27 seconds, well over the 188 mile per hour barriers. The existing NHRA national record is 7.45 seconds, 183.29 miles per hour.

Wiencek has been involved in racing for four years, but this is the first year the Plymouth has been competing and also the first year the Claremont driver has competed professionally.

"For four years, I was driving around in a Corvette," commented Wiencek. "But it got to the point where I just couldn't drive it around any more, so I went into racing.

"Last year racing was a very expensive hobby," he added. "I'm making more like a business this year. Right now we're going at it seriously. We try to run the car two times a month plus the match point races and national events. More than two times a month is a full-time job, and less than twice a month wouldn't provide enough money.

"We've been doing well enough to pay the bills," inserted the local competitor, "but we're not making much of a profit. We won about $800 in Boise, but when everything was paid off we only came away with about $100. The nitro for the car has been really expensive. It runs about six dollars a gallon and we use up about three gallons a run."

Wiencek and Adams have limited their travel to mostly the west coast, but they're planning to hit all the major events next year.

"Last year it wasn't worth racing in the national events," Wiencek pointed out. "We didn't have much of a chance with the handicap races. This new deal with the Pro-Comp I hope will be a savior. There wasn't any money in the Competition Eliminator class."

Wiencek doesn't think his chances at the Supernationals this weekend are very good, but he does express some hope.

"Realistically, I don't think our chances are good," he said. "But we've been running well under the national record. If we can get a few breaks we should have a chance."

Hawkins will score more

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — After four games with the Los Angeles Lakers, including one as a starter, Connie Hawkins has an observation.

He's going to have to score more.

"I guess I've been passing up too many shots," said the graceful 6-foot-8 forward acquired from the Phoenix Suns. "The coach (Bill Sharman) told me I should look at the basket more and I'm going to do just that."

In his first four NBA seasons, he averaged 20.7 points for the Suns and made the All-Star team each year. In his first four games as a Laker, his average was 12.5.

A club trying to fit the pieces together after Wilt Chamberlain's defection to the ABA, the Lakers are drastically in need of some scoring punch up front to go with guards Gail Goodrich and Jerry West.

"When you have guys like Jerry and Gail out there," Hawkins said, "I guess the first tendency is to try to get them the ball because they're such great shooters and you know they can score from just about anywhere."

Of course, the razzle-dazzle 31-year-old veteran from the New York ghetto of Bedford-Stuyvesant still is learning Sharman's system.

"The most important thing," agreed Hawkins, "is learning the plays."

In the newest Laker's autobiography, "Foul," he was critical of two fellow Los Angeles players, Goodrich and Bill Bridges. After the trade, there was conjecture about what would happen.

It's a closed subject now as far as the three parties are concerned, though.

Hawkins praises Goodrich to the news media.

Last Friday night at Seattle, in the former Harlem Globetrotters' starting debut as a Laker in a 118-111 victory over the Sonics, he apologized to Bridges for failing to join in when Bridges took on Spencer Haywood and another Sonic took a shot at the Laker.

"I should have jumped in and helped," said Hawkins. "But everything happened so fast there wasn't really much I could do."

Ironically, Hawkins replaced Bridges in the Laker starting lineup.

Although he says he will try to score more, the man with the magic hands is quick to point out the presence of the Lakers' high-scoring backcourt and 7-foot Elmore Smith, the league's premier shot blocker, will make him a more versatile and, he hopes, better player.

Hadl, Bertelsen both okay to face 49ers

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Quarterback John Hadl and running back Jim Bertelsen, who both felt the effects of muscle aches in the Los Angeles Rams' game last weekend, are feeling better now and expected to start against San Francisco, head coach Chuck Knox reported Tuesday.

Bertelsen, the Rams' No. 1 rusher, suffered strained ligaments in his right knee in the third quarter against New Orleans and had to leave the game.

Hadl helped reverse the club's two-game losing streak with a brilliant 13-for-25 performance for 221 yards against the Saints, but said the ball seemed to be taking off on him.

Knox said the 33-year-old veteran's back seemed to be bothering him.

After Los Angeles' 29-7 victory over the Saints, the game ball was given to cornerback Charlie Stukes, acquired in a preseason trade with Minnesota.

"He's making some big plays on defense," Knox said, "and playing better football with each game. He also had a big game against Atlanta two weeks ago when he made an interception and later forced and recovered a fumble.

"He has been a leader in our secondary and has pulled the people together."

Knox said the 49ers' disappointing showing this season will not make the Rams' efforts any easier this weekend.

"Anytime the 49ers play the Rams, they come ready to play a good game," Knox said.

'Fighting' Kings set to meet Philadelphia

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — If a tiff between defenseman Larry Brown and winger Mike Corrigan is any indication, the Los Angeles Kings are more than ready for their meeting tonight with the fighting Philadelphia Flyers.

During a scrimmage earlier in the week, Brown and Corrigan were involved in a scuffle and had to be separated by their teammates. The practice may have been appropriate.

In the last meeting of the two clubs on the Kings' home ice a month ago, the first six minutes were taken up by brawling and 88 minutes of penalties were handed out in the first period.

The West Division-leading Flyers of the NHL also set a season record for penalties last year. Little wonder they have become known as the Broad Street Bullies.

"Sure the Flyers try to take charge with their rough players," Los Angeles coach Bob Pulford observed, "but they have a lot of good hockey players. You will take notice that most of the Flyers who do the fighting are not their best players.

"Our best fighter, Dan Maloney is one of our key players."

The sixth-place Kings, however, have beaten Philadelphia six straight times. Their most recent record at home—against mostly fringe contenders—has not been so creditable, having lost five of their last eight.

Citrus takes JC honors

Farmer, Button repeat winners

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Writer

POMONA — Azusa Pacific College's Jim Farmer will soon be accustomed to winning the Pomona Valley College Offensive Player of Week honor.

For the third time this season, Farmer received the weekly award by the coaches and writers at Tuesday's weekly football luncheon at The Castaway Restaurant.

It was an easy selection since Farmer was already honored as the Southern California Player of the Week after leading the Cougars to a smashing 37-7 win over Loyola.

Farmer set a school record by rushing for 238 yards on 27 carries and became the first Azusa player in history to go over the 1,000 mark for a season. And he only played three quarters.

La Verne College middle guard Jeff Button, a Ganesha High product, was honored as the Defensive Player of the Game for the second time this season after being on 19 tackles in the Leopards' 55-16 win over Pomona-Pitzer.

Citrus College picked up both junior college honors. Doug Hopper earned Offensive honors after running for 190 yards on 27 carries to go over the 1,000 mark while defensive back Steve Payne was the Defensive star with two interceptions and nine tackles in the Owls' 16-14 win over Riverside.

Citrus players have earned the Defensive awards six consecutive weeks.

Quoting the coaches:

Mal Eaton, MSAC: "We played our poorest game of the year in the 21-19 loss to San Diego Mesa. We scored enough points to win most games. Our running game has been off since Teddy Farmer was hurt in the Cerritos game. We hope he's back in top form when we close the season this Saturday night at Orange Coast. Our defensive unit must do a better job this week if we're going to close out the year with a win. Gil Stewart was outstanding against Mesa, catching eight passes for 137 yards."

John Strycula, Citrus: "In the first six minutes against Riverside, we lost four fumbles. After that 14-0 deficit, we had an excellent effort with a good ground game. Hopper is getting better each week and Payne enjoyed his best game in two weeks. We're scared of San Bernardino this week. They have excellent people."

Willie Richardson, Chaffey: "I felt we got shafted down in San Diego. As you can tell I wasn't pleased with the officiating. We had a real good game in losing to San Diego City, 18-16. After I thought about it, I wished San Diego well in the state playoffs. We certainly have a big assignment this week in playing at Southwestern. We've been fortunate in recent years against them."

John Zinda, Claremont-Mudd: "Our last chance at the title went down with defeat to Redlands, 28-7. Our offense lacks confidence. We have too many quarterbacks, I guess. We don't know if we are looking forward to playing La Verne this week or not. We never win at La Verne's campus so playing at Bonita might help us. La Verne is always tough on us."

Roland Ortmayer, La Verne: "I had the conclusion we had the advantage against Pomona when their defense couldn't catch our halfback (Paul Larson) when he ran for a touchdown early in the game. Pomona proved very generous as we were able to score some easy touchdowns. Our games against Claremont-Mudd always turns into great battles. We will try to have some excitements."

Walt Ambord, Pomona-Pitzer: "La Verne is a good team. We made it relatively easy for them. Nobody was going to his runner. He is faster than Ort's thinks. We did a poor job of blocking and La Verne did a good job of hitting. I must hand it to our quarterback, Larry Cenotto. Even though he was sacked 10 times, Larry was able to complete 19 out of 30 passes for 244 yards. We're thankful the score wasn't 100-16. We get Occidental this week and it figures to be a typical Pomona-Oxy game. I will be glad when the season is over."

Roy Anderson, Cal Poly: "We played probably what is our worst game in recent years in the 20-7 loss at Cal State Northridge. Quarterback Jim Zorn completed only 10 of 31 passes but 10 others were dropped by the receivers. This week, we play Cal State Fullerton on Sunday afternoon. Fullerton is a good team with a good schedule. We expect to put the ball in the air. Joe Fabian played a good game for us."

Jerry Sconce, Azusa Pacific: "We started out kind of sleepy against Loyola but it ended up as a great performance. We host Cal Lutheran this week. They are fundamentally sound."

Rams will face Reed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Joe Reed was picked to start at quarterback against the Los Angeles Rams Sunday and Steve Spurrier became miffed.

"I've played one full game this year and I set a team record for completions and threw for 323 yards (in a 17-14 loss to Minnesota)," said Spurrier, who figures he should be the heir-apparent to retiring John Brodie.

Spurrier learned Tuesday he wouldn't start about one hour after Coach Dick Nolan mentioned it to sports writers.

"If I'm not going to play, I wish he'd tell me about it," said Spurrier, a former Heisman Trophy winner from Florida. "I'd go ahead and get my knee cleaned up. I have a loose cartilage and it needs minor surgery."

Nolan said, "I intended to tell Steve but you guys (writers) beat me to it."

Reed, who was sacked seven times in a 33-9 loss to the Washington Redskins last week, said he didn't really expect to start against the Rams, "but on he other hand I'm not surprised."

"It's going to be between Steve and me," he said.

Nolan also announced that Vic Washington would open at halfback and John Watson would replace the injured Cas Banaszek at offensive right tackle.

Oilers beat Sharks for 11th straight

By United Press International

They may play in the far reaches of Canada but the Edmonton Oilers are making a name for themelves.

The Oilers, with Ron Climie collecting his 14th and 15th goals, set a World Hockey Association record when they won their 11th consecutive game Tuesday night, a 4-0 triumph over the Los Angeles Sharks.

Climie also had an assist to pull within a point a teammate Jim Harrison for the league scoring lead and Al Hamilton and Brian McKenzie added goals. Jack Norris had to turn back only 26 shots to gain his fourth shutout.

The victory was also the 13th in 14 games for the Oilers, with their only loss a 3-1 setback to Vancouver.

In other WHA action, the Vancouver Blazers downed the Winnpieg Jets 5-3, the Cleveland Crusaders topped the Chicago Cougars 5-2 and the Houston Aeros beat the Minnesota Fighting Saints 5-2.

Jim Adair scored the winning goal at 9:02 of the third period as Vancouver broke a 10-game losing streak by beating Winnipeg. It was only the fourth victory for Vancouver and the second against the Jets.

Andre Hense scored two goals to lead the Aeros past Minnesota. Ted Taylor scored for Houston midway in the first period and Hense slapped in his first goal with 1:55 left. Hense scored again in the third period while Wayne Connelly had both Minnesota goals.

Rowland can clinch crown Friday night

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Staff Writer

The last time Rowland High won a Montview League title was in 1967 when Mike McGirr (now a star for USC) first received recognition for heading up a stalwart defense.

In five years, Raider fans have only memories to remind them of what winning football is like.

Two years ago a new head coach entered the scene.

Gary Rawls has taken a team that finished 1-6-2 last year, last place in the Montview League, and made them a title contender this year.

The Raiders can clinch the conference crown Friday night when they play Northview at Covina District Field at 8 p.m.

Rowland, with one week remaining on its schedule, has a 5-1 M.L. mark and is 6-2 overall. Northview can gain a share of the title with a win as the Vikings have a 4-2 league record and a 5-3 slate overall.

Rawls, whose team was inconsistent both offensively and defensively for the first half of the season, has settled his young team, comprised mostly of juniors, into a consistent unit.

The offense is scoring at a rate of 20 points per game while the defense has yielded only 54 points in their six league outings.

Northview will give the Raiders all they can handle. The Vikings have the best defense in the league, averaging just 6.6 points per game, while the offense is averaging 14.7 points per outing.

Flavio Garcia directs the Raider attack. The Raider quarterback has passed for over 1,200 yards.

Garcia's favorite targets have been Donnie Pearce, who missed the 14-12 win over Workman last week, because of a charley horse, and Gary Schwalbe, who doubles at free safety on defense.

The running backs are David Pearce and Al Emeterio. Pearce has rushed for over 780 yards and scored 10 touchdowns.

The Raiders must win. While Northview is trying to stay alive against Rowland, Workman and Baldwin Park, both having 4-2 marks, play against two of the easier teams in Nogales and Azusa, respectively.

Should Rowland lose and the other three schools win, the league would finish in a four way tie. And since the 2-A has only 16 at-large berths available, it's conceivable that perhaps two of the teams would not be invited to the CIF playoffs.

Alta Loma's Broecker 1-man scoring machine

By JIM McCONNELL
P-B Staff Writer

While Royal Oak cinched the Hacienda League crown with a 28-14 win over Gladstone last week and remains undefeated on the season, it has been a disappointing 1973 for several H.L. schools.

Alta Loma is a case in point. The Braves roued two 3-A schools, Montclair and Upland, in pre-season play and looked like the team to beat in the league. But a loss to Bonita in the league opener put the Braves in a hole and they never quite recovered.

At this point in the season, games are strictly a matter of pride for Alta Loma and most of the teams in the loop. But the Braves showed they still have plenty of pride by dumping Ontario 43-6 last week.

Quarterback Jamie Broecker, who would be a strong bidder for all-league honors except for Royal Oak's Clyde Christensen, ran for five touchdowns a gainst the Jaguars, added three more points on PATs, and threw in a safety for good measure to account personally for 35 of the Braves points. Based on his fine effort, Broecker has been named the Hacienda League's Player-of-the-Week by the Progress-Bulletin.

Alta Loma and Walnut will stage another "pride bowl" this Friday at Chaffey College, with the Mustangs also suffering from the 1973 blues, Walnut lost a stunner to Sierra Vista last week and it has been a rough year for 1972's HL champs.

The battle for second spot is about the only excitement in the league at this stage. Both San Dimas and Bonita are deadlocked at 4-2 after San Dimas beat the Bearcats 13-7 last week.

The Saints and Bonita figure to get by this week's foes without too much trouble. San Dimas faces lowly Gladstone while Bonita squares off against Sierra Vista.

Both squads have slim CIF hopes alive as they enter the final regular-season contests, but of course winning is a must for either the Bearcats of Saints to be considered for the playoffs.

Royal Oak doesn't have that worry at all. The Romans nailed things down last week against Gladstone and will use their upcoming contest with Ontario to tune up for the CIF. The Roman players still have a lot of desire to beat the Jaguars however, as they have vowed to post an undefeated season and repeat the feat of the 1967 Roman eleven.

Ontario offers an exciting runnng attack and little else. Defensively, the Jags' 43-6 dumping by Alta Loma last week pretty much tells the story.

Despite most teams being out of the money at this point,there is still individual attention to be paid to possible members of the HL All-League team. It would appear that Clyde Christensen has the signal caller spot all locked up in spite of the presence of numerous talented quarterbacks in the loop. The running back positions offer a real puzzle, with many, many fine rushers in consideration.

There are also no end of worthy defensive candidates, with perhaps the performance of San Dimas middle guard Rich Espinoza the most eye-catching so far.

DeMont, a University of Washington freshman from San Rafael, became the first swimmer ever to break the four-minute barrier in the 400-meter freestyle when he set a world mark of 3:58.11 at the world championships in September.

Miss Ender, a 15-year-old high schooler, set a world record of 57.54 in winning the women's 100-meter freestyle at the world championships. She also established a world mark in the 100-meter butterfly with a 1:02.31 this year.

Miss Ender and Roland Matthes, also of East Germany, were named as European swimmers of the year.

Bill Langley's column

Big John McKniff is working as a proposal analysis. Dave Wells, who is now serving as Duceys assistant in his spare time, teaches math in a Covina junior high. Rex Huxford, who also starred at Ganesha High and MSAC, is in the distributing business in Maryland.

Craig Ducey, who was an outstanding athlete at Claremont High, is following his father by starting out as the junior varsity coach with the Wolfpack this season.

"Maybe Craig will learn now what I have gone through," the elder Ducey laughed. "I'm very proud of Craig. For a father-son relationship to work out, everything must be as perfect as it can be. I went out of my way not to praise him too much and I feel he earned everything on his own."

Craig, who was a big factor in the 1970 and 1972 title teams, was the only starter back last season when the Stags dropped to a 6-20 record because of a young group of kids.

Wish seasons switched

"I just wish Craig's freshman and senior seasons could have been switched," his father said. "He was able to contribute to a championship team as a freshman but it was rough for him last year."

Ted Ducey came to Claremont-Mudd after coaching at Coachella and Redlands high schools. He has never been interested in moving elsewhere.

"With six children, it would have been hard to move around," he said. "We have had our ups and downs here at Claremont but it has been great."

He now has the problem of getting his varsity ready to face a talented Alumni squad.

"I am still very enthused about my job," Ducey stated. "We have a good, young group of players but I don't know if they will be able to attain the same sort of success as previous teams."

But it's safe to say there are a few future attorneys, engineers, teachers and doctors on the squad.

Scott pumps in 38 points to halt two long NBA streaks

By United Press International

The Chicago express was finally sidetracked by Charlie Scott.

Scott, the National Basketball Association's 13th leading scorer, poured in 38 points Tuesday night as the Phoenix Suns ended a 12-game Chicago winning streak 116-108 and braked their own losing skein at 10 straight.

The Phoenix thin man, who stands 6-foot-6 and weighs 175 pounds, tallied almost half his total in the opening period when he scored 17 points. The Suns led 59-43 at intermission.

Chicago, dropping two games behind Milwaukee in the Midwest Division, closed to within two points at 103-102 with four minutes remaining but couldn't sustain the drive. Bob Love led the Bulls with 32 points.

Milwaukee beat Portland 108-100 and owns the longest NBA winning string of the season at 13 straight. The Bucks widened a slim 50-48 halftime lead to 8572 as they hit on 76 per cent of their shots in the third quarter and were ahead by 15 points in the fourth period before Coach Larry Costello send in the reserves. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar led Milwaukee with 21 points and Geoff Petrie scored 23 for Portland.

In other games, New York edged Seattle 104-102, Buffalo stopped Atlanta 121-114, Golden State downed Cleveland 128-115 and Houston beat Philadelphia 97-83.

Walt Frazier scored 26 points and Bill Bradley added 22 for New York as the Knicks almost lost a 12-point fourth quarter lead. Seattle had one last chance to tie with three seconds remaining but never got off the shot. Spencer Haywood scored 25 points for the Sonics and collected 17 rebounds.

Bob McAdoo recovered a career-high 28 rebounds and scored 31 points as Buffalo, cracking a six-game losing streak, remained 2½ games behind second place New York in the Atlantic Division. Pete Maravich of Atlanta, the league's leading scorer, also scored 31 points.

Rick Barry scored at better than a point-a-minute clip as he hit 43 points in 37 minutes for Golden State. The former NBA scoring champion hit 7-of-10 field goal tries in the third period and wound up with 22 points for the quarter. The Warriors' Clyde Lee suffered a leg injury and will undergo surgery today. Austin Carr had the hot hand for Cleveland with 25 points.

Houston won its first home game of the season as Rudy Tomjanovich's 27 points and 16 rebounds by Don Smith helped the Rockets beat Philadelphia. Tom Van Arsdale scored 17 points for the 76ers before fouling out with three minutes left in the game.

No-hitters

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Johnny Vander Meer of the Cincinnati Reds pitched his two consecutive no-hitters against the Boston Braves and Brooklyn Dodgers, respectively, on June 11 and 15, 1938.

Huskies may be trouble

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Southern California Coach John McKay is predicting a close contest with Washington this weekend-despite Rose Bowl bid rival UCLA's 62-13 walloping of the Huskies two weeks ago.

"Regardless of the teams' records," McKay said, "the USC-Washington game is always a bitterly contested and usually extremely close football game. We've always said that Washington is one of the best coached teams we face over the years.

"I think our youngsters understand that any team in this league has proven it can beat another team and we're just going to have to concentrate on the game in Seattle and play well."

The potent Bruins, with their wishbone attack, also ran over Stanford, but the Trojans were fortunate in narrowly pulling out a 27-26 victory over the Cardinals last weekend.

McKay said he is expecting Washington, which threw the ball 30 times aganst Idaho, to go to the air against the Trojans because they will be without two of their regulars in the defensive secondary.

Roman harriers win H.L. CC title

Royal Oak caputured the Hacienda League cross country title Tuesday afternoon with a 20-43 win over Ontario.

The Romans placed four harriers in the top five spots to earn the victory and finished the 1973 season with 9-0 slate.

Walnut finished the loop in second place as the Mustangs posted a 25-33 win over Alta Loma.

Scott Carter and Bruce Karr paced Walnut with a third and fourth place finish, respectively.

All the teams used their final meets as tune-up for Saturday's Hacienda League finals which will start at 10 a.m. at MSAC.

Rowland finished its Montview League season with a 17-42 rout of Northview Tuesday.

Azusa Pacific cagers get pre-season test

AZUSA — Azusa Pacific Colleges basketball team gets a pre-season test Saturday when it meets the touring Athletes in Action in Memorial Gym at 7:30 p.m.

The Cougars, 28-7 last year and 157-50 in the last six years, have seven players back from the 1972-73 team, but will be without top scorer and rebounder Dennis Vanzant Saturday. Vanzant is recovering from a foot injury and is not expected to be ready for the Cougar season opener on Nov. 29 in the Redlands Tournament.

Also back from last year's team are point men Jeff Butler and John Fien, wings Rob Carver and Jim Sporleder, and post men Roger Cahoon and Jim Lee. Of the newcomers, Rick Reed (San Diego CC), Stuart Campbell and Mike Leatherby (MSAC) and Mike Berry (Costa Mesa High School) are players to watch.

The Athletes in Action (West) coached by former pro standout Jim King and are led by 6-8, 240-pound center Steve Newsome who starred last year for nationally ranked Houston.

The Cougars and AIA have met twice in the past and both final scores were close. The Cougars prevailed each time by scores of 91-89 and 77-72.

Tickets are priced at $1.25 for adults $1 for students, and 50 cents for children under 12 years.

LA VERNE — Gordon Goldsberry, who is a scout for the Milwaukee Brewers, was honored recently as Southern California Baseball Scout of the Year.

The award was voted to the La Verne resident by his peers in the Association of Professional Ball Players. The award was created three years ago in the name of Fred Haney, long time, player, scout, coach, and manager who was the California Angeles' general manger until he retired.

Scouts submit evaluations of their contemporaries to the association. Although scouts are in fierce competition, they also work closely together.

A scout has the difficult task of communicating with parents, high school and junior college coaches as well as with today's players who certainly have entirely different values and attitude.

Four teams covet SAL grid crown

Defense has been the big key to Chino's success this year. All-CIF candidate Randy Rizo has been turning outstanding performances throughout the season from his noseman position. The 6-1, 250 pound senior has been averaging better than 10 tackles per game.

But he'll be backed up by Scott Richartz and Mark Roberts, who have also been consistently strong at the linebacker spots.

"We're working harder for this game than any of the other ones," Rawls pointed out. "We've beaten some big formances the last two weeks.

The present four-day tie in the SAL can be greatly attributed to Chino's strong performances the last to eeks.

The Cowboys first stunned Claremont, 10-7, and then knocked off Upland last week. If it wasn't for Chino's last to victories, the SAL title might have already been decided.

One of the Cowboys' not-so-secret weapons is place-kicker Stan Surina, who emerged the hero of the last two Chino games. His 32 yard field goal with only 25 seconds remaining in the game gave the Cowboys the win over Claremont, and his 22 yard FG in the second quarter beat Upland. Surina also proved to be a long-distance threat against Upland when a 40-yard field goal attempt bounced off the cross bar and dropped in front of the goal post.

In the only other SAL game this weekend, Garey hosts Damien at Mt. San Antonio College Saturday night. But by that time, the SAL championship would have been decided.

Sports news in brief

THE MILWAUKEE BUCKS Tuesday placed former Long Beach St. star Chuck Terry on waivers and activated center Dick Cunningham. Terry, a 6-5 forward, was the Bucks' second round draft choice in 1971. He had played in seven games this season averaging about 1.1 points per game.

KEN BURROW, Atlanta Falcons wide receiver and leader in receptions, will undergo a neck operation and be lost for the remainder of the season, it was announced Tuesday by coach Norm Van Brocklin. Burrow has caught 31 passes for 567 yards and seven touchdowns. Rookie Tom Geredine, a fourth round draft choice, is the probable replacement.

THE TEXAS RANGERS Tuesday acquired pitcher Larry Gura from the Chicago Cubs. Gura, a 26-year-old left hander with a 2-4 record, goes to the Rangers to complete the deal which saw pitcher Mike Paul go to the Cubs in August.

THE NATION'S TOP RANKED SMALL COLLEGE FOOTBALL TEAM, Tennessee St., won't compete in the NCAA Division Two playoffs because five of its star players would be ineligible. All have competed four seasons beyond their freshman year.

THE UNIVERSITY OF WASHINGTON reported Tuesday that 13 student trainers have walked off their jobs following a Monday altercation in which a football player allegedly struck a student trainer. Halfback Glen Bonner reportedly struck a trainer following an exchange of words.

BUTCH GEARHART, rallying from a serious injury in a car accident earlier this year, knocked down an average of 238 pins to beat four foes in the finals of the $50,000 Brut Open Bowling Tournament Tuesday night in Houston, Texas. Gearhart is from Houston.

LOWELL MACDONALD slammed in three goals in a 4:17 span Tuesday night to spark the Pittsburgh Penguins to a 5-2 NHL victory over the Minnesota North Stars. In the only other game, Gary Unger of the St. Louis Blues also had the hat trick as the Blues blasted Vancouver, 6-1.

Recreation

Weight lifting will find it's way into the local sports scene this Sunday. Over 50 well-built men will be competing at Pomona High School.

The Fourth Annual Pomona Police Association Power Weight Lifting Contest features some of the top performers in the western states. Action begins at 9 a.m. and continues until approximately 6 p.m.

The ancient Greeks used weight training to prepare for battle. The participants here are interested in competition and the tougher the better.

Larry Kidney, a resource officer in Pomona's Police Department, heads up the local contest. Under his leadership, the meet has become one of the largest in the state.

Larry points out that power lifting differs from the Olympic style. "The Olympic's have two types of lifts both over the head. Power lifting has three varieties: bench press, squads, and dead lift."

"The power lifter handles a lot more weight than does the Olympic," says Larry. "Around 500 pounds is tops for the Olympic, while 911 pounds is a squad record.

"At Sunday's meet you will see a 165 pounder deadlifting close to 500 pounds, while the same man would do between 300 and 350 pounds Olympic style,"

Local talent competing on Sunday inludes Marv Phillips, Louie Hernandez, Bob Ravencroft, Tom Overholtzer, along with Kidney. That group has won many local and state titles.

Phillips is the 198 pound state and national police champion. Not all of the participants are police officers.

The event has AAU sanction and is open to the public. Donations of $1.50 for adults and 50 cents for children are requested to help meet the expenses.

San Dimas basketball

The San Dimas Recreation Department has announced plans for both youth and adult basketball programs. There are five divisions for the youngsters, with two for the older folks.

Registration for the youth leagues takes place on December 1st at the San Dimas High School gym. Boys sign up at 10 a.m., while the girls go at 12 noon. There is a registration fee.

The men's basketball teams will hold an organization meeting on Dec. 10 at 7 p.m. in the San Dimas City Hall. A "C" fast break league and an over 30 slow break program is planned.

The fast break league has an entry fee of $96, while the tab for slow break is $40. Fast teams play on Monday evenings and slow squads have games on Thursdays.

If you need additional information on either program, contact Jesse Duff at 599-6713, extension 40.

Self-defense classes

The Pomona Park and Recreation Departments begin a self-defense class for women and Karate classes for teens next Tuesday. The women's program is scheduled for the mornings at Palomares Park.

The teens Karate will be at the same location at 5 p.m. There is a registration fee of $1.50 for insurance. Kyokushinkai style will be taught.

The self-defense program starts at 9 a.m. and concludes by 11 a.m. There is no fee for a course designed for the working woman, housewife, and mother. There is an emphasis on quick and effective self-defense techniques.

Participants are asked to wear loose fitting clothes. Should you have further questions, contact Shirley Jennings at 620-2301.

'Grumpy' ready for thieves this time

Deke Houlgate

Motor sport today

Theft of racing cars isn't a serious nationwide problem, but stories about hijacking race equipment are unusual and they stick in your mind.

Like the time a thief made off with one of Mickey Thompson's transmissions just as the speed king showed up at his garage. Thompson chased the culprit for five miles at up to 110 m.p.h. before he caught him, beat him up and turned him over to police.

What the thieves did this summer to Bill (Grumpy) Jenkins' pro stock drag racer was like boiling a pot of tea to eat the leaves and throw out the hot water.

After stealing his traporter, which carried the famed "Grumpy's Toy" Vega pro stock car along with tools and spare parts, all they eventually kept was the engine and transmission. The rest was abandoned.

The story begins on a warm August Sunday morning in Charleston, Ill. Jenkins had gone there for a match race the night before and was headed back to St. Louis for the AHRA Gateway Nationals where he had qualified Friday by setting an all-time record of 8.97 seconds.

He and his crew stopped off for breakfast at a coffee shop in front of their motel. Only inside long enough to eat, they stepped out into the sunlight to discover the theft.

Jenkins and police later determined that the two hijackers used sophisticated devices to enter and start the truck. When "The Grump" arrived at the meet, sans racing car, he had news of the theft broadcast over the public address system.

In response, one tip which cost Jenkins $500 turned up the truck in an East St. Louis railroad yard. Police checked the "sighting" by a young boy of the rig and reported they found nothing.

The boy, who was a Jenkins fan and surely couldn't be mistaken about what he saw, insisted he had seen the truck enter a dead end country lane with the car on it and turn out later without the car. Jenkins was adamant that the search be resumed.

"I gave the informatin to police on Sunday," Jenkins said, "and they didn't do anything. I gave the same informatimn to other police on Monday, and they didn't do anything. When we got down there to check it out, it took all of five minutes to find the car."

It was in a farmhouse garage next to an airstrip. The doors and body panels had been removed, apparently to facilitate the work of removing the engine and drive line components.

Jenkins estimates his loss at about $11,000, plus about $18,000 in lost winnings and appearance fees. It could have been $60,000 easily except for the recoveries. He can afford it, of course, since for the second year in a row he has earned $250,000 in drag racing, and the loss fortunately, was covered by insurance.

But what of the missing engine?

"I know where it is right now," Jenkins said. "It's in Houston. It was transferred four times. It had to cost the guy who has it $5,000."

Jenkins has had to sift through about 50 tips, including crank calls and what he calls "attempts at extortion." One person wanted to finger the party with the engine for $5,000.

The intriguing aspect is that the thieves in effect threw away the most valuable part of the race car. Jenkins' carefully developed tube frame chassis was intact.

It will be on the line for the final time this year at the NHRA Supernationals at Ontario this Sunday. Thieves had better stay away. Jenkins knows a lot more about crime-solving now than he did in August.

Angels schedule UC Irvine

IRVINE — The California Angels will make their first appearance on a college campus when they play NCAA College Division champion UC, Irvine on April 1 as part of their 1974 spring exhibition schedule.

The 3 p.m. contest will mark the first confrontation between the Angels and Irvine. The Angels have played University of Southern California and Arizona State University teams during past exhibition seasons but always on civic diamonds.

The host Anteaters boast an outstanding baseball facility and team. Permanent seating for 1,500 will be boosted to 3,000 by temporary bleachers at the modern complex.

Southland racing

IRWINDALE — United States Racing Club will host an open competition claiming stock car racing championship this Sunday afternoon at San Gabriel Valley Speedway in Irwindale.

Running on the high banked half-mile speedway, the program will feature a 50 lap main event for the 7 fastest cars along with preliminary races and a destruction derby. Competition will begin at 2 p.m.

Two time speedway claimer stock car racing champion, Steve Parrish of Topanga driving his 1938 Ford, is a solid favorite following his 12 main event victories during the regular racing season on the quarter-mile.

LANCASTER — The Lancaster Short Track Championship returns to the Antelope Valley Fairgrounds Sunday, sponsored by Chuck Scott's and Bruce Howell's Cycle Racing Unlimited. First race in the AMA Pro competition is at 1 PM.

GARDENA — Thanksgiving night will be like old times when J. C. Agajanian stages the 38th annual United States Auto Club 100-lap midget Grand Prix at Ascot Park.

Merle Bettenhausen will join his brother Gary and their old boyhood pal, Bill Vukovich, Jr. for the Turkey-night competition in the biggest half-mile dirt event of the season.

The younger Bettenhausen missed the event last season when he was convalescing from the serious crash at Michigan International Speedway that cost him his right arm. Since then he's been fitted with an artificial limb and has already returned to the winner's circle.

VALENCIA — Many of the West Coast's better dirt-track motorcycle riders will be featured in action Friday night and during a daytime program Sunday at motocross racing on the obstacle courses returns to Indian Dunes Park near Saugus.

With both shows to be run under sanction from National Racing Assn. of Riverside, upweros of 400 competitors are expected for the two-wheeler warfare that will award experts a cash purse and trophies to riders in the various sportsmen divisions. Both events will be conducted on the park's high speed International circuit, a course that offers almost total visibility to spectators, and a course on which the lightweight bikes will reach speeds in excess of 70 mph.

IRWINDALE — Nelson Whitehill, The CMC's No. 2 championship rider based upon 1973 season points, will make yet another bid to record his first pro win at his career Friday night at Irwindale Raceway.

The young Escondido motocross racer has finished second in the 125cc Expert class the past three weeks, each time being narrowly defeated by the southland's leading pro stars; last week factory Honda racer Dave Pessy of Torrance got the win.

GARDENA — Clark Templeman of Reseda, who hadn't won a sprint-car feature on American soil until this year, has suddenly become a factor in the California Racing Association point battle as the race ends with the big Twin 50-lap Grand Prix at J. C. Agajanian's Ascot this Saturday night.

With $4,000 in purse money at stake as well as a potential $5,000 for first place in the point contest, Templeman's third-place total is now 545 against 613 for Don Hamilton of El Cajon, the leader, and Jimmy Oskie of Downey with 587.

Templeman's fifth main-event triumph of the season last Saturday as well as a victory in the trophy dash and heat race earned him 36 points last Saturday. The two big races this week are worth a maximum of 104.

MEETIN' & EATIN' AT BETSY ROSS

By Gene Neighbors

Hi, Neighbors,

With Thanksgiving coming up, we turn our thoughts to the good things that have happened within the past year. We value the continued patronage of regular customers, as well as the loyalty of our staffs in our various locations. We are proud to have opened another Betsy Ross this year, and hope that more of you truly will make it your "meetin' & eatin'" place.

MRS. PATRICIA ROSEBRUSH, from Galt, Canada, visiting her mother, MRS. V. C. ORANGE, of Claremont, enjoyed her Hot Fudge Sundae in the Claremont Coffee Shoppe last week. Don't forget our specials; 65c Hot Fudge Sundae on Wednesdays for only 49c and the Fish and Chips, regularly $1.85 for $1.49 on Tuesdays. We love to have you take advantage of them. Also, this is the time of year for delicious Pumpkin Center Rolls.

That new item on our menu that I mentioned is Yankee Beef Stew. It is served steming hot in the kettle with mixed green salad, choice of dressing, and a thick slice of bread & butter. It has enjoyed tremendous reception this past week and we are pleased that you, the public, like it.

THOMAS T. WOODSON, professor of engineering at Harvey Mudd College, has been in Iran the past month assisting the faculty of the University of Teheran in establishing a program of applied industrial research designed to help solve a variety of engineering problems. (That means "learn by doing"). Anyway, we have missed him, as has MRS. WOODSON, since they are regular customers at Betsy Ross in Claremont when they are in town. Congratulations.

JOHN BARSODI, manager of Glendora Coffee Shoppe, has a new-old telephone: Hello, Central, give me a line. It's in red, white, and blue with white stars, of course, to match his cash register. Swingin', huh?

SHARON BOYD typifies the Betsy Ross waitress. She is a glowing welcome at Pomona Valley Center Coffee Shoppe, and active in PTA and other community service as well. Your Betsy Ross employees live in your community, take part in its activities, and worship in the same churches you do.

Take time out to say "Hi," to us.

Miss Horoski-Manderbach is showing 10 paintings and drawings. Most of the pieces are composed to two spatial areas, one a small rectangular section within the other. The outer space contains an image of a single object.

Libra Gallery is at 12th Street and Dartmouth Avenue. The show opens at 8 o'clock tonight. After the opening the gallery hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Utah Symphony plays in Claremont

By HARVE EDWARDS

CLAREMONT — The Claremont Colleges Artist Course Series opened its 43rd anniversary season Friday with a concert by the Utah Symphony Orchestra, Maurice Abravanel conducting.

Based in Salt Lake City, with a budget of over $500,000 a year and annually presenting over 160 concerts, the orchestra falls into the category of a major symphony in the United States, and as such much was expected and much was received.

The program consisted of an orchestral version of Bach's Toccata and Fugue in D Minor, Brahms' Symphony No. 4 in E Minor, and Shostakovitch's Symphony No. 5, Opus 47.

Reflecting Abravanel's widely acclaimed interest in young people, the orchestra proved to be on the whole a youthful aggregation with a sprinkling of seasoned veterans. Nonetheless, because of the long tenure of Abravanel's conductorship, (26 years) certain all-too-rare qualities of stability, cohesiveness, and "simpatico" rapport were evident in the orchestra's performance. In a world of constant change there is much comfort to have before us an example of young and old working together to produce something of beauty for the rest of us to enjoy.

Like a 20-Mule Team Borax wagon train master, Abravanel cracked the whip with an understanding gentleness coaxing the best from his musicians who esponded with alacrity. The response in the Bach selection was a little too enthusiastic for this reviewer who would have preferred the slower more architectural tempo that Otto Klemperer would have employed.

Still the enthusiasm was understandable considering that it was the opening number of the program of an orchestra on tour and a certain brilliance might have been thought to be desirable.

The Brahms symphony, one of the sovereign works for orchestra, composed when Brahms was 52 and at the height of his powers, was interpreted sensitively and performed with all of the melancholy, tenderness, jocosity and majesty called for at the appropriate places in the score.

It was, however, in the Shostakovitch selection, which was composed to celebrate the 20th anniversary of the founding of the Republic of Soviet Russia, that the orchestra, with its emphasis on youth, energy, and rhythmic drive, was able to capture the interest of the audience. The Russian composer's 20th Century melodies of instrumental rather than vocal conception—melodies appealing to the mind as well as the emotions—were admirably suitable for exprssion by the Utah Symphony, and their performance marked Abravanel as a conductor of exceptional merit and worthy of the high esteem in which he is held by his contemporaries.

The next event on the Claremont Artist Series Course will take place March 2—the Waverly Consort, Michael Jaffe, director—six costumed musicians singing or playing medieval instruments and a troubador-narrator presenting courtly entertainment as it might have been seen and heard in 13th Century Spain.

ALL IN THE FAMILY — Guadalupe Rubio makes a doll for his daughter, Angela, in a scene from the Padua Hills Theater production of "Las Posadas." The father and daughter play the roles of father and daughter in the Mexican Christmas play which opens a seven-week run at the Claremont Theater today.

'Las Posadas' opens at Padua

CLAREMONT — The 42nd annual presentation of the Mexican Christmas tale, "Las Posadas," opens at Pauda Hills Theater with performances of 2:30 and 8:30 p.m. today.

The musical will play through Jan. 5 at 8:30 Wednesday through Saturday nights and at 2:30 p.m. Wednesdays, Saturdays and Sundays.

"Las Posadas," with English dialogue, tells of Christmas Eve events in the life of a modern family in a small town in Mexico. It includes a medieval play-within-a-play, pinata breaking, a Christmas fiesta and music that is still played in Europe and Mexico.

Many school classes, clubs and other groups make the Christmas play an annual event on their schedules.

The lobby and dining room of Padua Hills is adorned with colorful Christmas decorations that would be found in a Mexican home. Luncheon and dinner are served daily except Monday, and the Mexican Players entertain during the meals.

Gallery schedules auditions

ONTARIO — Gallery Theater will hold auditions for "Forty Carats" at the theater, C Street and Lemon Avenue, from 3 to 5 p.m. Saturday.

The Jay Allen comedy has parts for five women, 18 to 70, and four men, 18 to 50. Rehearsals will start Dec. 3. The play will open Jan. 4.

Danish smorresbrod spreads the spirit of holidays

Christmas in Denmark has a flavor of its own. Perhaps it is because their winter is so long and dark that a bit of spirit-lifting is in order! Whatever the cause, the effect is one of heartwarming buoyancy.

Borrow a bit of Danish inspiration for your own holiday party. Trimmings for the tree and home are often handmade in Denmark, and you could follow suit by making your own party invitations and decorations.

In keeping with the Danish scheme, your party table should be a smorresbrod. Danish smorresbrod consists mainly of open finger sandwiches spread to the edge with creamed butter or seasoned butter and topped with paper-thin slices of sausage, meat, cheese, fish or spreads.

The Danes take pride in their open-faced sandwiches, and it is much in evidence on their smorresbrod tables. Starting with breads ranging from white to shades of brown and ending with a spectacular topping, the only rule for these sandwiches is "Anything goes!"

Home economists offer these suggestions so that you may duplicate the fancy Danish smorresbrod sandwiches.

SEASONED BUTTERS, used on breads before the filling and topping go on, can be prepared in advance, and refrigerated for use. In ¾ cup sweet butter or margarine blend a flavor-seasoning selected from the following:

- 1½ tablespoons lemon or lime juice and 1 teaspoon fine-grated lemon or lime rind
- 1½ tablespoons table mustard
- 2½ tablespoon well-drained pickle relish
- 2½ tablespoons chili sauce, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, and 3 drops Tabasco sauce
- 2 tablespoons drained prepared horseradish and ¼ teaspoon sugar

SANDWICH FILLINGS should combine interesting flavors and textures. The many sausages and round loaf lunchmeats available in the market make tasty, attractive fillers. Try paper-thin slices of bologna, cervelat, chicken loaf, pepperoni or salami. Processed meats also make good sandwich spreads. Test some of these ideas:

— On buttered rye rounds, place a slice of chicken loaf. Cut almost through a slice of orange and twist it into a fancy spiral atop the chicken loaf. Fit a pitted prune on each half of the orange and anchor with wooden picks.

— Spread buttered white bread with braunschweiger. Arrange sauteed mushrooms fan-style on top, then add a strip of crisp bacon.

— Grind skinless frankfurters, add a little chopped, tart apple and moisten to spreading consistency with mayonnaise. Use on buttered pumpernickel rounds.

— Melt 4 tablespoons butter. Add ¼ cup chopped onion. Saute till tender and remove from pan. Add ½ pound liverwurst to butter and slow-fry 2 minutes. Remove from heat; add cnion, 2 hard cooked eggs, ¼ teaspoon salt and ⅛ teaspoon pepper. Chop and mix to a paste. Chill. Spread on dark bread and top with sliced stuffed olive.

TASTE-TEASING TOPPERS will complete the finger sandwiches. Center each sandwich with a dot of seasoned butter. Press into that a choice of sliced dill or sweet pickle; a halved stuffed olive; chopped hard-cooked egg; pimiento or green pepper strips; a small pickled mushroom; chopped chives; or a salted nutmeat.

That gives you the idea. You're free to let your imagination run riot. The more colorful, attractive and unusual the sandwiches, the truer they'll be to the Danish smorresbrod. And here's another hint. If made hours or days before the party, place sandwiches on a cookie sheet, seal with plastic wrap or foil and refrigerate or freeze.

To complete your smorresbrod, and make it authentic, serve cold mugs of beer and small glasses of aquavit, the "snaps" that helps to brighten the long dark Scandinavian holiday season.

DANISH SMORRESBROD

This is the year to break tradition

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Food Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Among the many things I'll be thankful for this year is a family that doesn't expect me to prepare a Thanksgiving dinner so large and elaborate that I'm too tired to eat it and they're uncomfortable from overeating.

Don't get me wrong. I think the festive dinner tradition is great — provided it's no burden to the cook, her family and their guests. The Pilgrims who celebrated America's first harvest festival considered Thanksgiving a time for sharing not just food and drink but also the work of preparing it. For several reasons, we'd be smart to return to their tradition this year.

A huge meal is bad for our health, the energy shortage, the family budget and perhaps most importantly, the woman who prepares it. Especially if she's a working wife who must shop for groceries after doing a full shift's work away from home.

One suburbanite friend, who grew up on a farm in Nebraska, favors a covered-dish dinner for a holiday meal where there will be many guests. With various diners contributing dishes, the work and the cost are spread around. If you plan this kind of meal, be sure to suggest quantities needed, particularly for vegetables and salads. While many leftovers can be reheated successfully or used for soup, the vitamin content suffers from both reheating and prolonged storage.

Unstuffed turkeys take about 30 minutes less cooking time than stuffed ones. This will save fuel only if your oven is large enough to hold both a pan of stuffing and the bird at the same time. Otherwise, you might use a rangeton stuffing mix or ask a guest to bring baked stuffing.

An insulated picnic hamper makes a safe carrier for hot foods, but be sure to fill empty spaces around the covered dishes or pans with crumpled newspapers to hold in the heat. If you have no hamper, wrap covered casseroles, piping hot, in several layers of newspaper and tape the ends securely.

Our Nebraska friend launched a new family tradition at her home three years ago, when she began serving Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners on the eve of the holidays. Her children, teenagers at the time, were delighted with the arrangement.

On Christmas day, when her daughter was practicing at home with a rock group, the youngsters ate when they pleased, a meal of homemade soup, homemade bread and dessert, while her son and her husband went happily off to a basketball game.

"It was a big step for me," said my friend. "I'm just as hidebound as anyone else. It's not breaking with tradition to go out to a restaurant. That's a cop-out. But you can find a meaningful way of breaking with tradition."

Even when her holiday dinners are a day early, our friend does a lot of cooking ahead of time. She makes and freezes pie crusts, ready to be filled and baked on the holiday itself. She roasts the turkey ahead of time and uses a professional chef's technique of carving and freezing it immediately in meal-size portions in gravy.

Brussels sprouts and orange salad makes a good substitute for a hot vegetable at holiday meals. It's light in flavor and lower in calories than sauced vegetables.

Grate 1 teaspoon peel from a navel orange. Juice the orange, and reserve 3 tablespoons of juice for dressing. Cut a thin clockwise slice from the center of two more navel oranges and reserve slices for garnishes. Remove sections from the two oranges to use in the salad. Blend the peel, juice, 2 tablespoons of salad oil, 1 teaspoon of sugar and ¼ teaspoon of ground nutmeg in a bowl. Add 2 (10-ounce) packages of frozen brussels sprouts, cooked and drained, or 1 pound of fresh ones, cooked and drained, plus the orange sections and 2 medium onions, peeled, thinly sliced and separated into rings. Toss to combine and coat with dressing. Add salt and pepper to taste. Chill, covered, several hours. Makes 4 servings.

Meat isn't essential for protein needs

Almost everyone understands that without protein we could not live. But ask most people what foods supply protein and their answer most likely will be that meat is the only source. This is inaccurate.

We could eliminate meat completely, plus fish and poultry, from our diet and still get our recommended daily protein allowance from all the other protein foods we eat regularly. These valuable sources of protein are dairy products, beans, nuts, grains and vegetables.

Despite this truth, a nutritionist points out, "Even today vegetarians and those experimenting with non-meat-centered diets are considered misfits. Yet, in fact, the American diet is an oddity, the result of agricultural, economic and political factors unique in this country.

Throughout history the staff of life in many countries has been predominately carbohydrate foods such as bread, rice or yams, with animal protein only supplementary. Americans have turned a man's traditional diet upside down. Meat is central here and carbohydrate foods have become supplements," according to Frances Moore Lappe, a nutritionist vitally interested in vegetarianism and author of "Diet for a Small Planet." Her recent comments on protein appear in CHEMISTRY, a magazine for students and teachers.

Some say all vegetable diets are monotonous and she replies: "That statement is the result of limited exposure and lack of imagination. There are basically five different kinds of meat. But there are at least 40 to 50 different kinds of commonly eaten vegetables, 24 kinds of peas, beans and lentils, 20 fruits, 12 nuts and 9 grains."

Meat is a perfect or complete protein. As a rule, vegetables, grains and beans lack one or more amino acids needed to make a complete protein. Combining two or more vegetables or grains can help make up needed amino acids for a more complete protein diet. For example, a plant protein food which is deficient in two key amino acids can be eaten with another which contains an excess of those amino acids.

There are three main combinations which yield high-quality protein by matching amino acids' strengths and weaknesses: grains and legumes (peas, beans, peanuts, lentils); milk products and grains; legumes and seeds (sunflower and sesame, for example.)

"When we consider the wide variety of items in each group and their various forms, the possibilities for good eating are endless," she adds.

Measuring hardness

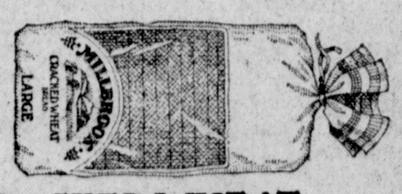
LET'S BREAK BREAD TOGETHER

Today, such noontime gatherings are largely a thing of the past. But the flavorful breads that were served are not. Our family of quality variety breads recapture that "fresh-from-the-oven" taste of the home-baked breads of a hundred years ago.

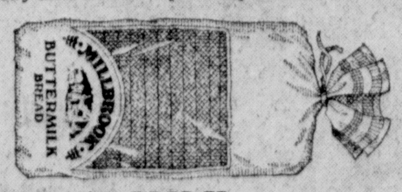


CRACKED WHEAT

This bread owes its distinctive flavor to two things. The ingredients—cracked, rather than crushed, whole wheat grits, sesame seeds and pure honey. And the baking process—it's slow baked to preserve all the flavor the ingredients contain.

HOLLAND KRUNCH

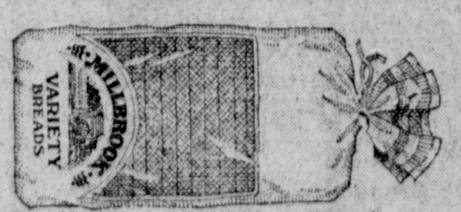
A golden-cracked top is the main taste attraction of this fine-textured loaf. We add rice flour to the unusual white flour to allow the top to crack into a crunchy crust. And we slow bake it to give it a chewy taste that's unique to say the least.



BUTTERMILK

A rich bread with a rich taste, thanks to premium buttermilk solids, a top that's split then crowned with white flour and our patient slow baking process. All Buttermilk shares with other white breads is color.

A CENTURY AGO the midday meal was a family affair. It was a time to relax and enjoy good food, company and, inevitably, delicious home-baked bread.



These are just three of the seven members of our first family of quality variety breads. Your family will also like the tastes of Dutch Dill, Bavarian Pumpernickel, French Sourdough, Up-Side-Down White and Up-Side-Down Wheat. Try one on your family the next time you all break bread together.

W. Europe, Japan in panic over Arabs' oil boycott

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Western Europe and Japan have reacted with panic to the Arab oil boycott because they see themselves in a situation tantamount to war, with unheated homes, idle factories, mounting unemployment and their economies thrown out of gear.

In Europe the dollar mounts in value because Europeans see themselves being forced to turn to American products as their own factories slow down or come to a stop.

In Japan charcoal stoves are pulled out of storage in anticipation of the chill of February.

In West Germany, the government rushes an oil emergency law to parliament for special action. Refineries reduce deliveries up to 20 per cent.

The Netherlands bans Sunday driving.

In Manila, the Philippine government orders all its offices to turn off air conditioners.

In the United States there is less panic because it depends upon Arab oil producers for only about 12 per cent of its petroleum needs.

But a large portion of that 12 per cent is consumed by the U.S. East Coast and it is there the boycott will have its greatest impact. It has been estimated the East Coast faces loss of up to one-third of its normal supplies.

The situation is replete with ironies.

The Arabs say they do not wish to hurt their European friends, that the United States is their chief target for its support of Israel.

Yet it is the Europeans and the Japanese who will be hurt the most because of Europe's 60 per cent dependency on Arab oil and Japan's 95 per cent.

The European common market is founded on the premise of mutual support among its nine-nation members. But under Arab threat of reprisal there is no move to come to the aid of the Netherlands which also is a target of Arab anger. Neither Britain nor France, both of whom expect special exemptions from the boycott, show any signs of sharing.

It could be the death knell of the Common Market.

NATO, too, has come under special strain because the terrified European members with the single exception of Portugal bowed to Arab threats and banned U.S. airplanes carrying aid to Israel from landing on or flying over their territories.

The weakening or the breaking up of either the Common Market or NATO would be of benefit only to the Soviet Union.

The London Times stated it succinctly. It urged Europeans to tell the Arabs "that the community will stand or fall as a unit by its policies jointly declared, rather than let its members be picked off one by one according to a third party's subjective estimate of their positions."

The industrial world's total dependence upon oil made the European and Japanese positions easy to understand. But it also was obvious that unless a united stand could be found, a few Arab nations had assumed the power to become world dictators.

PILGRIM YAMMUNITION

Alternate layers of canned yams, drained and cut into ½-inch slices (two 17-ounce cans), and two sliced bananas in 1-quart casserole. Melt 1-3rd cup margarine and stir in ¼ teaspoon salt, 1-3rd cup light corn syrup and 2 tablespoons orange juice. Pour over yam dish and bake at 375 degrees for 30 minutes. Remove from oven and baste, then sprinkle with ½ cup flaked coconut. Return uncovered to oven for 10 minutes to brown coconut.

Oregon cities cautioned to prepare for growth

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — The League of Oregon Cities was told by San Diego Mayor Pete Wilson recently to learn the lessons of California and prepare for growth.

Wilson, keynote speaker at the League's 48th annual meeting, said states that are "lovely places to live" are facing the crisis of land use policies —to grow or not to grow?

He said that while California continues to be criticized for the way things should never be it has quietly taken the lead in recent years in environmental legislation.

Wilson said he was not out to "whip" developers but to curtail their dominance in city and county government.

"We saw the tools we had were not being used decisions were being made by developers and sprawl was being encouraged at the sacrifice of open space and agricultural land," he said.

But with tough legislation and "much blood on the floor," control has been enforced and maintained.

Experts say food prices won't drop

By ELIZA PAUL

WASHINGTON, D.C. — (NEA) — Throughout the summer and into the fall, residents of one of Washington's posh apartment complexes overlooking the Potomac River have nurtured record crops of decorative cherry tomatoes on their balconies.

In a large retail grocery story across the street, the city's not-so-rich have been buying more day-old bread and cheaper, damaged produce than ever before.

Both are signs of the times: a nagging fear, crossing all economic sectors of the population, that high food prices are here to stay.

The assessment is probably correct.

The Administration is now predicting that retail food costs for the year will be 20 per cent higher than they were in 1972 — in practical terms, the bag of groceries that cost $10 last January will cost $12 by December. But many private economists predict even greater increases — possibly as much as 25 per cent.

Food prices at the retail level dropped last month for the first time this year, but nobody is claiming that the 0.7 per cent decline will set a trend for the remainder of 1973.

Herbert Stein, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, says the dip in retail prices seems to "support the view that the worst of inflation is behind us." Nonetheless, he warns, "it is probable that we will see some larger increases . . . in the months ahead."

Behind official optimism that most food price increases will slacken is the much-heralded "bumper crop" this year of vital crops used for food and animal feeds: wheat, oats, barley, sorghum and corn.

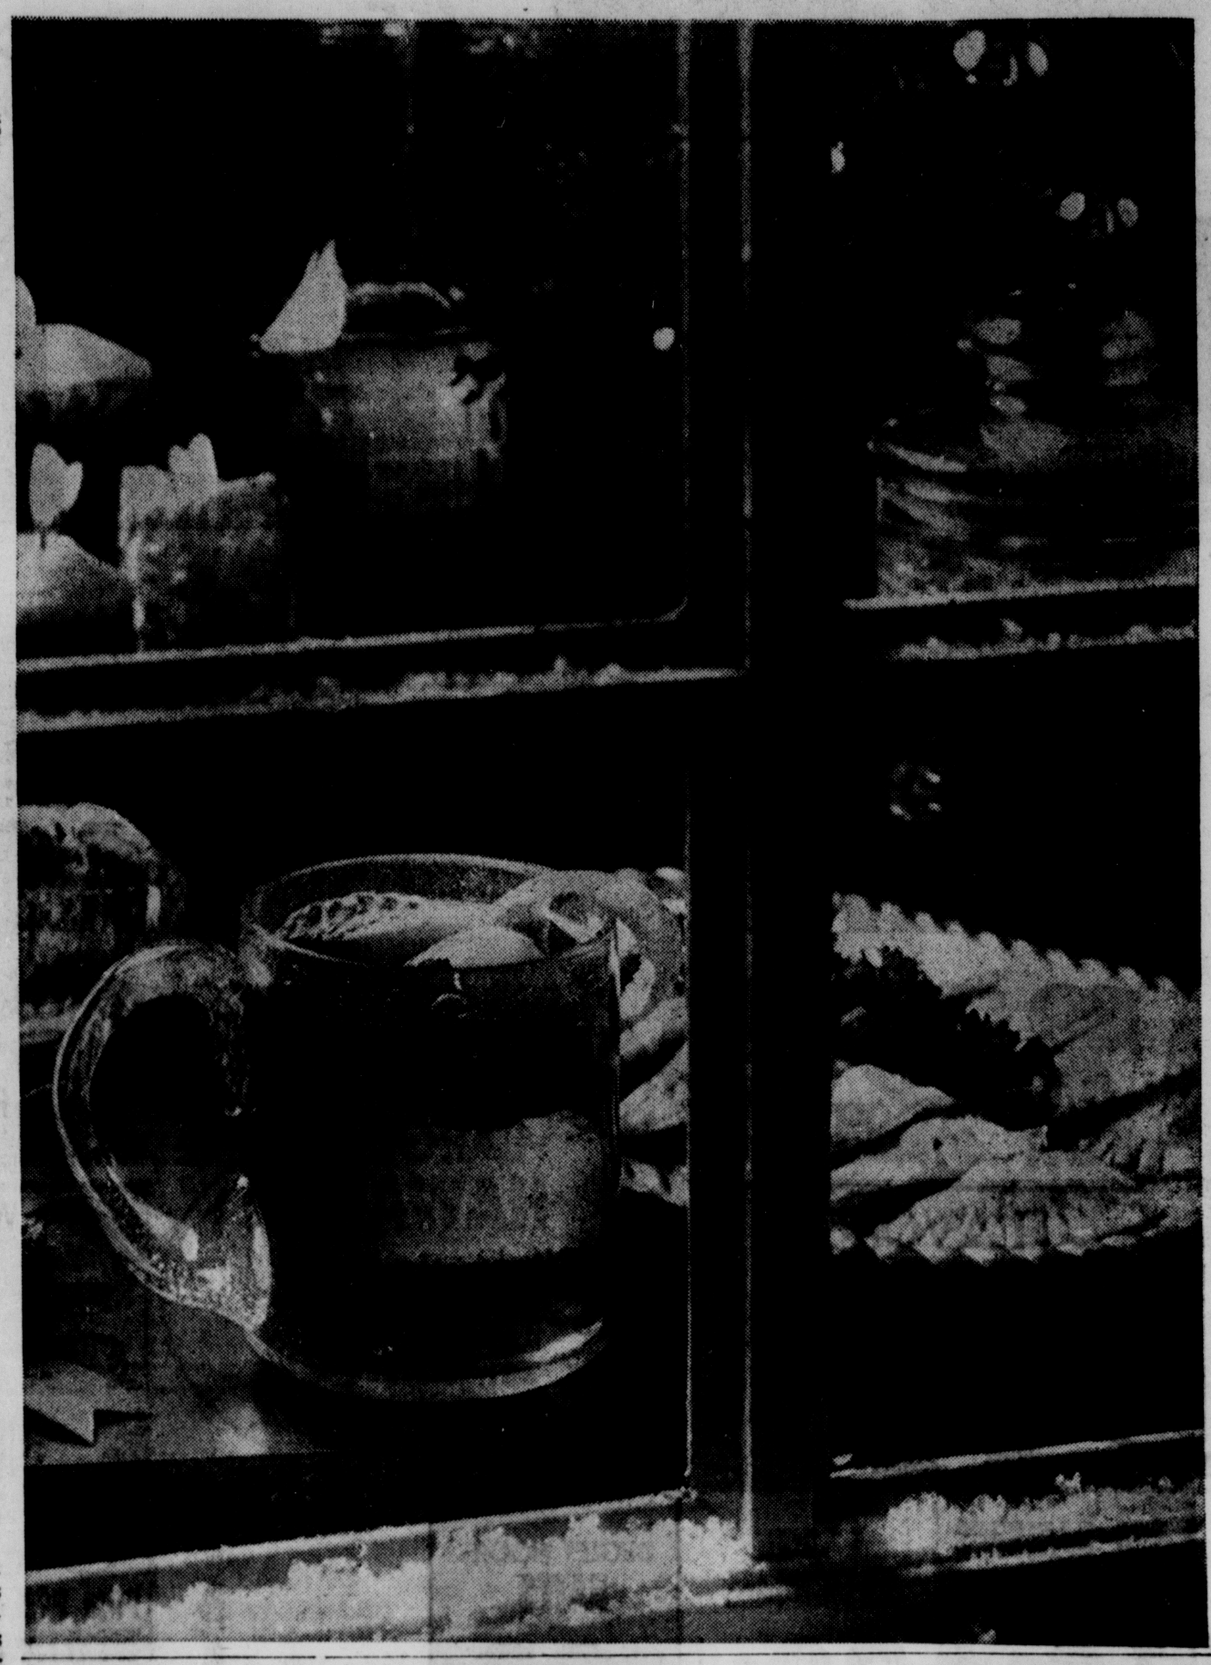
But agricultural economist John Schnittker, undersecretary of agriculture in the Johnson Administration, notes that the bumper crop is already committed for domestic use and exports. He predicts that any benefits from continued good crops won't be seen at the grocery store until late 1974 or early 1975.

Gains from the large feed grain harvest — if any — will probably be offset by new price control regulations that allow processors and retailers to pass on some of their spiraling operating costs to consumers.

Prices for milk and other dairy products are already rising and increases can also be expected soon for canned and frozen foods, which will be in short supply this year.

President Nixon, in a moment of public candor, declared that "there is no way, with or without controls, to prevent a substantial rise in food prices," when he announced Freeze II back in June.

The public seems to be catching on, and many Americans are making at least a marginal dent in their food bills by growing and canning their own vegetables. Swift Chemical Co., which manufactures a popular home fertilizer, notes that sales skyrocketed last summer — presumably because of the boom in home gardening. And a recent survey shows that potential homebuyers now pay as much attention to the size of the lot as the shape of the house, with an eye toward the vegetable garden of their dreams.



GRAPE TODDY

When friends drop in by surprise for a holiday visit, no hostess has to be at a loss for a punch to prepare in a hurry. This Grape Toddy will leave them begging for more. Heat 1 cup fresh or bottled lemon juice with the rind of 1 lemon and 2 dozen whole cloves. Boil for 15 minutes, then strain. Add 1 fifth Concord wine and ¼ cup sugar and heat again, but do not boil. Serve in mugs. The toddy is good served alone, or with light refreshments or a buffet.

Legislators on nine-day trip to Orient

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, and Assemblyman Willie L. Brown Jr., D-San Francisco, have embarked on a nine-day trip to the Orient with planned stops in Japan and South Korea.

The speaker's trip is courtesy of the South Korean government, his office said. Brown's tour is "privately financed," an aide said.

The two left Thursday. In Japan, Moretti a gubernatorial contender, will meet with officials to discuss the growing role of Japanese business in California.

While in Seoul, he was to be awarded an honorary doctorate of political science from South Korea's Han Kuk University in recognition of Moretti's "contributions to the participation of minority groups in California," his office said.

Little Rhody

Rhode Island celebrates Independence Day twice a year —on May 4 and July 4. The citizens of the smallest state in the Union were the first to declare their independence of Great Britian — on May 4, 1776.

Fire damages hospital unit

HARBOR CITY (UPI) — A fire gutted the top floors of an administration building next to Kaiser Permanente Medical Center early Sunday, doing more than $1 million damage.

Evacuation of patients was not necessary as 27 engine companies extinguished the blaze before it could spread.

Investigators said the fire—discovered by a phone company repairman after a switchboard operator found she was unable to make outgoing calls— apparently started in the building's pharmacy and spread to the dining room, a records storage room and x-ray rooms.

Dense fog hampered firefighting efforts. The fog was so thick at times the fire could not be seen more than a few yards away.

Cornbread Surprise Ole will serve 6

Good old ground beef or hamburger meat! Call it what you may, but it's the one meat that can be served every day of the week in some shape or form and will always be welcome.

It appears at the most lavish cocktail parties disguised as a tiny meatball and is equally at home as a hamburger barbecuing on the backyard grill. Its uses are virtually unlimited.

In these days of higher food costs nothing is exactly cheap, but this dish is fairly economical, as it will serve five or six persons which may very well be just the size of your family. It's a spicy combination of beef, taco seasoning, corn and peppers subtly blended by beer to bring out the full flavor of all. These tasty foods are uncrusted beneath a flavorful cornbread topping also made with beer to add a lightness and buoyancy that only the mellow brew can do.

Besides being economical and tasty it's quick and easy to prepare. Serve with a salad and mugs of frothy beer and your meal is complete.

- 1 pound ground beef
- 1 package (1¾ ounces) taco seasoning mix
- 1 can (1 pound) tomatoes
- 1 can (7 ounces) corn with red and green sweet peppers
- ¼ cup beer
- 1 package (12 ounces) cornbread mix substituting beer for milk)
- 1 cup grated cheddar cheese (optional)

Brown ground beef in skillet. Add remaining ingredients except cornbread mix. Bring to a boil, stirring frequently. Keep mixture hot. Prepare cornbread batter, substituting beer for milk. Pour meat mixture into shallow 2-quart casserole. Spoon cornbread batter on top. Bake in 400-degree oven 15 or 20 minutes or until cornbread is golden brown. Makes 5 or 6 servings.

Top each serving with grated cheese if desired.

Mix and bake mixture in skillet. Turn out onto serving platter. Garnish top with green pepper and tomato rings.

New riverboat hull dedicated; reported largest

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind. (UPI) — The hull of a new $15.5 million steamboat bill ed as "the world's largest and most luxurious riverboat" was dedicated Sunday in a ceremony presided over by U.S. Rep. Leonor K. Sullivan, D-Mo.

The 379-foot-long sternwheeler, now under construction at Jeffboat, Inc., here, is to be completed in time for a cruise season beginning in May, 1975.

It will be owned and operated by the Delta Queen Steamboat Co., Cincinnati, which now operates the riverboat Delta Queen which cruises the Ohio and Mississippi rivers.

Mrs. Sullivan, chairwoman of the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee, has sponsored the legislation to keep the Delta Queen exempt from stringent Coast Guard safety regulations during the past several years

Poor farm incentives equal Asian food shortages

By KIM WILLENSON

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Half a dozen experts testified on potential worldwide food shortages at a Senate hearing recently, and could not agree among themselves whether a real crisis is coming.

That was no surprise.

What was astonishing, however, to a correspondent who spent most of the past decade in Asia, is that none of the experts seemed aware of the real source of Asian food shortages—poor incentives for farmers to grow more.

The experts included two senior State Department officials and a deputy assistant Secretary of Agriculture. Three academics testified as well — among them Lester Brown, author of a 1969 book called "Seeds of Change" and the man who popularized the term "The Green Revolution."

The administration witnesses tried to shrug off the notion that a worldwide food crisis is shaping up anytime soon, although they conceded that there could be severe local shortages in Bangladesh and the Shel region of Africa.

Disagreements

The position was best summarized by Richard E. Bell of the Agriculture Department, who said current shortages stemmed from bad weather and other natural factors and added, "It is our feeling that the world is resuming the long-term upward trend in agricultural production."

Bell said bumper U. S. crops will be supplemented by better than expected harvests in Canada and Australia. Grain production on the Indian subcontinent also will be up because of a normal monsoon after last year's drought, although part of Pakistan's crops were destroyed by floods.

Brown and the other academics disagreed. Even short term gains expected in the United States from the cultivation of more land could be canceled by current fertilizer shortages that Brown said the administration is doing nothing about.

And in the long run, Brown said, several factors are contributing to a potentially critical food shortage in poor countries.

Cattle vs people

—Rising incomes in the developed world cause increased grain demands out of proportion to populations. People eat more meat as they get wealthier, and food for livestock takes up grain that would be directly consumed in poor countries.

—The world is running out of new land to cultivate, and in many countries land is going out of production quite rapidly as cities expand.

—Fresh water for agricultural use is becoming scarcer, and most rivers that form convenient sources for it already have been tapped.

—The use of fertilizers and technology to increase per acre yields may be reaching a point of diminishing returns, where it costs more to increase production than the added produce is worth.

—The seas already may have been overfished. World fish production actually has been declining since 1970 despite the fact that more time and money are being invested in boats and equipment.

Reserve system

Brown endorsed a world food reserve system that will be considered at a U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization meeting in Rome this fall, as a way of preventing any nation from enduring famine.

Like other experts, he also pointed to the need to vastly intensify farm yields in the underdeveloped world — where most of the underfed people are —as the only realistic long-term solution to the problem.

If Indian fields merely produced as well as American acreage, he said, India would grow 230 million tons of grain a year instead of 100 million.

If the paddies of Bangladesh were farmed as intensely as those of Japan, rice production would be 40 million tons a year instead of 10 million.

But while Brown mentioned the issue of incentives for the farmers, he seemed to feel that the main needs were technical. The farmers should have "effective access to agricultural inputs as well as health and education services," he said.

More and better

In layman's language, that means better seeds, more water, more fertilizer, more insectivides and more mechanization.

What this point of view ignores, however, is that most of those things already are available to farmers in South Asia—but they do not have the money to buy them. That they do not is because, in most cases, South Asian governments and societies hold farmers in low esteem and do things that artificially hold down the returns farmers can get for their crops.

Thailand is a classic example. An export tax on rice holds the price well below the world market, at a level that prevents many small farmers from buying fertilizer.

India is another. There, landlords raised the rents on their fields when the so-called "miracle" grains, on which "The Green Revolution" was supposed to be based, became available in the 1960s.

Even in South Vietnam, where the United States worked for years to raise prices to woo farmers from the Viet Cong, the government now is trying to force the prices down again because it fears unrest in the cities.

Winding up

A workman winds London's famed Big Ben clock three times a week with a half-horsepower electric motor. The job takes 40 minutes. Before electricity was introduced in 1913, two men labored five hours to complete each winding.

Twice as Wild as any rice offer ever made.

An excellent opportunity to save on MJB's most famous Wild Rice mixes. 'White & Wild', 'Brown & Wild'. Both preferred over the other leading brands in the latest taste tests. First, because of the MJB blend of herbs and seasonings. Second, because only MJB freeze dries Wild Rice. For uniform, mistake-proof cooking. For less cooking time. MJB Wild Rice mixes cook in 15 minutes. Uncle Ben's and Rice-a-Roni take about 45 minutes.

Twice as wild an offer because there is twice the good reason.

Time and budget problems take wing with chicken

The plan-ahead way makes life easier for the cook, and it's easier on the budget, too.

Plan-ahead buying and cooking give you the chance to concentrate on good kitchen practice when not rushed for time. Many people have found that buying three chickens at a time, cooking them the same day, and using some in dishes to put away in the freezer for future meals, is a fine way to save time and money. The National Broiler Council reminds us that chicken is an excellent value among meats. Wise consumers are making the most of it to manage their food budgets for maximum nutrition at less cost.

If you simmer three broiler-fryer chickens at one time, you can have a sumptuous chicken pot pie for dinner, and also put away in the freezer a rich and creamy chicken noodle casserole that will require only baking on the day you serve it.

Is simmering chicken for you just a dim memory of grandmother's day? Update the memory and put it to work. Simmering chicken in water is an excellent, easy way to cook it in quantity. It gives moist, tender meat for use in many different dishes. Then, too, there is the savory bonus of chicken broth. Any food bonus today is prized especially, and this is an easy one to come by.

In these times of taking a pinch in the pocketbook, chicken pot pie has a lavish air when brought to table. Homey and satisfying, this old-fashioned dish is a meal in itself with other items on the menu. Take a shortcut by using packaged refrigerated biscuits, an economical convenience food. The biscuits are sprinkled with cheese for a rich finish to this great dish.

Chicken noodle casserole is another efficient, all-in-one-dish meal. The vegetable, meat and noodles are all contained in the casserole which has been frozen on a less-busy day to meet emergencies and save money with plan-ahead food. For the days when you want to serve chicken for its own individual self, cooked without other ingredients, try oven-fried herb chicken, a quick and easy specialty for busy cooks.

Chicken, with its high quality complete protein comparable to that of red meats, and its excellent return for the money, is an outstanding help in coping with today's food problems. Make the most of this well-liked meat in these carefully developed recipes.

SIMMERED CHICKENS

2 broiler-fryer chickens (2½ to 3 pounds each), whole or cut in serving pieces
6 cups water
3 small onions, sliced
4 ribs celery with leaves
1 tablespoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper

Put chicken in kettle; add water and remaining ingredients. Bring to a boil; cover tightly. Reduce heat and simmer 1 hour or until tender. Remove from heat; strain broth. Refrigerate chicken and broth at once. When chicken is cool, remove meat from skin and bones; cut into chunks. Yields about 7½ cups diced cooked chicken and 6 to 7 cups broth.

CHICKEN POT PIE

¼ cup butter or margarine
1-3rd cup chopped onion
¼ cup flour
1 cup chicken broth (from Simmered Chicken)
1 cup milk
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon dried leaf tarragon
2½ cups diced cooked chicken) (from simmered chicken
1 cup sliced celery
1 cup thinly sliced pared carrots
1 package (9 ounces) frozen green beans, thawed and drained
1 package (8 ounces) refrigerated biscuits
½ cup shredded Cheddar or American cheese

In large saucepan melt butter; add onion and cook over low heat until tender. Blend in flour. Remove from heat; gradually stir in chicken broth, milk and lemon juice. Return to heat and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Stir in salt, pepper, tarragon, chicken, celery, carrots and green beans. Turn into 1½-quart casserole. Top with biscuits and sprinkle with cheese. Bake in 400-degree oven 18 to 20 minutes, until chicken mixture is heated and biscuits are done. Makes 4 servings.

The celery, carrots and green beans will be crispy-tender. For softer or "more cooked" vegetables, cook them in boiling water for 3 to 5 minutes, drain and add to chicken mixture.

CHICKEN NOODLE CASSEROLE

½ cup butter or margarine
½ cup flour
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon dried leaf basil
3¼ cups chicken broth (from simmered chicken)
5 cups diced cooked chicken (from simmered chicken)
2 cups (1 pound) creamed cottage cheese
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 package (8 ounces) broad egg noodles, cooked and drained
1 package (10 ounces) frozen chopped broccoli, thawed
4 ounces Mozzarella cheese, thinly sliced
Grated Parmesan cheese

Melt butter in large saucepan. Blend in flour, salt and basil. Stir in chicken broth and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and comes to a boil; remove from heat. Add chicken. Mix cottage cheese with egg.

Line a 3-quart casserole with heavy-duty aluminum foil; lightly grease the foil. Place one third of the chicken mixture on the bottom of the casserole; top with half the noodles, half the cottage cheese mixture, half the broccoli and Mozzarella cheese; repeat. End with the last third of the chicken mixture and sprinkle with the Parmesan cheese. Tightly cover with foil; freeze. To cook, place (still frozen) in 350-degree oven and bake 2 hours. Makes 8 servings.

Once the casserole is frozen, it may be removed from the baking dish. Wrap tightly in foil and return to freezer. When ready to bake, remove foil and place frozen casserole in original baking dish.

OVEN-FRIED HERB CHICKEN

½ cup butter or margarine
2 teaspoons salt, divided
2 broiler-fryer chickens, cut in serving pieces
1½ cups flour
½ teaspoon paprika
½ teaspoon dried leaf basil
½ teaspoon dried leaf thyme
2-3rds cup buttermilk or evaporated milk

Place butter in large shallow foil-lined baking pan; place in 425-degree oven until butter melts, about 5 minutes. Sprinkle 1 teaspoon salt over both sides of chicken pieces. Mix flour, remaining 1 teaspoon salt, paprika, basil and thyme in pie plate or shallow dish. Dip chicken in buttermilk in another pie plate, then roll in flour mixture. Place skin side down in melted butter. Bake 25 minutes in 425-degree oven, turn and bake 20 minutes longer. Makes 8 servings.

Ask Dr. Brothers

He may be a mouse

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I've been taken in a bad romance and I'm so mad at myself and at the guy involved I really don't know what to do. I'm trying to exhaust myself playing tennis, thinking that my old love is the ball. I'd like very much to hit him just as hard as I'm hitting the tennis ball, but all I seem to be able to do is to smile sweetly when I go out with him. (And the terrible part is that I still do go out with him.) He is, to use an old term, a wolf. He goes out with other girls behind my back and he tells each one she's the great and only love of his life. —V.F.

Dear V.F.: Playing tennis is one good way to get rid of some of your anger but if you keep seeing this "wolf" without ever confronting him directly with your problems, you may have to spend almost all the remaining hours of the day, the month, and the year on the tennis court. It's better than screaming at your family, your girlfriend, or some innocent bystanders; it's better than taking to the bottle, but it really isn't attacking the problem.

I suggest you take some of your irritation right to the source, especially if you're going to continue seeing him. Tell him how you feel about his behavior and about his dishonesty to you and the other girls he dates. Get his reaction, try to establish some kind of communication with him and then make a decision.

Don't plan to change him overnight because, realistically, if this is his behavior pattern, he probably isn't going to change. You, however, are free to change and to withdraw your affection. The main point is that it is helpful to try to change the situation that angers you. If he can't, or won't change, then perhaps it's best to simply say farewell. Don't shed too many tears on this fellow if his reputation is an accurate reflection of him, because he sounds very much like an immature person who seeks only superficial relationships because he is afraid of any kind of deep, close friendship with a woman.

He tries to protect himself, or his image by convincing his friends that he really needs endless variety in women. This type of man often tries to substitute physical intimacy for intimacy on other levels. Emotional intimacy is, apparently, what he can't take, and I imagine he would feel very uncomfortable with any intellectual intimacy.

This is one reason a direct confrontation with him may not produce the immediate results you want. It will, however, release some of your anger and focus it in the right direction. Your boyfriend may reveal much more of himself than you've ever known and this may be helpful to you in reaching some kind of decision about what to do in the future.

If you find you have fun with him and you don't mind being one of a long procession of girls, then you might continue seeing him. If, however, you expect more depth and emotional maturity from a relationship, it might be well to give any further dates a lot more consideration.

If you do continue, you should ask yourself why you're attracted to this particular type of fellow. If you find that you are more consistently involved with this kind of man than with one who is faithful, you may have some unconscious desire to be hurt. This can spell trouble and you should seek professional advice.

Voluptuous curves are not in style

If the painter Rubens were alive and painting today, he might be reproducing "the angular emaciation" of the Paris clothes models instead of the voluptuous curves of the ladies for which he is famous.

A table of ideal heights and weights drawn up in 1900 is no longer acceptable today.

Physicians today are concerned with the possible effects of obesity on health. A symposium organized by Geigy Pharmaceuticals in Houston, Tex., recently examined the problems and prognosis of obesity. The symposium was held under the auspices of the Marine Biomedical Institute, the University of Texas Branch of Galveston, in cooperation with the Galveston County Medical Society and the Harris County Medical Society.

A distinguished panel of authorities concluded that wherever there is affluence, there is overweight. Moreover, obesity is not a simple matter. Factors involved may be metabolic, neurological, psychological, social, economic, and even religious. Treatment must be individualized.

Some people are helped with diet, some with behavior therapy, some with psychiatry, an exercise program, drugs, or surgery.

There are some indivudals who are not going to reduce to any great degree. It is not a crime to be fat, some of the experts contend. And, in some parts of the world, a well-rounded figure is still a status symbol.

In "Obesity '73", a publication reporting to physicians on the Geigy Symposium, the point is made, "There may be times when the wise physician, however frustrated he may feel over his failure to remove overweight, will pause to consider whether it is not perhaps better for his patient to stay fat than to spend a life of misery punctuated by large fluctuations in body weight."

We sent Blue Bonnet to Europe where food experts couldn't tell it from butter.

Now we're sending you to the store so you can find out for yourself.

Other margarines claim they taste like butter. But only Blue Bonnet proved its honest-to-butter flavor with European food experts.

In dish after dish, Blue Bonnet® Margarine was compared with the best European butter in tough, rigidly controlled side-by-side tests. In cooking, in baking, in sauces, even spread on bread, the experts agreed: "No difference!"

Use this money-saving coupon to get yourself a pound of Blue Bonnet Margarine. And prove to yourself, in any test you can devise, that Blue Bonnet truly tastes like butter.

Change in etiquette

"DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: It seems to me there should be a change in etiquette. My boyfriend and I have been living together for more than a year and now we are going to be married. The wedding will be traditional—I will wear a bridal gown and veil, and we will have a large reception. My parents are giving the wedding but, as I have been on my own ever since college graduation, I feel the custom of my father giving me away is rather empty. Is it possible to have this phrase omitted in the ceremony?—C.G., Somerville, Mass."

Yes. The giving of the bride by her father or mother is certainly optional, and actually has been so interpreted in recent years, even in the Episcopal Book of Common Prayer. The giving of the bride is a Teutonic custom that did not come into the church until the 13th century. It was, of course, derived from the idea that the bride was chattel. I can understand why modern brides might wish to omit the phrase. The only real requirement in the marriage ceremony is the presence of adult witnesses to comply with the law. And while the Book of Common Prayer is used by the Episcopal Church, it is also used in some others, particularly the marriage ceremony.

The rubric (italicized instruction the the prayer book's "The Form of Solemnization of Matrimony") says that "Then shall the Minister say, "Who giveth this woman to be married to this man?'" According to present-day Episcopal interpretation, this means that the matter is optional. In what is commonly called the "Green Book," whose proper name is "Services for Trial Use" which contains many tentative changes in the Book of Common Prayer with which many clergymen are now experimenting, it says on page 313 merely, "Here the Minister may ask" and on page 315 the same phrase is used in connection with the blessing of the ring or rings. Some brides today are asking for the omission of this phrase, too, when they do not plan to wear wedding rings.

"DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: Because my husband was hospitalized last year, we could not follow through with our plans for an open house to celebrate our 50th wedding anniversary. If he is well enough this year, could you suggest we try again for a celebration, or should we just and let the party go?—Mrs. T.G., Bloomington, Ill."

If possible, do have that important anniversary. You can make it, if you want, the 51st.

"DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: I'm planning my second marriage (second for my groom also). I would like to have the ceremony performed in our home, followed by a reception. Is there some way to have a civil ceremony at home without involving a minister or a priest? Would it be possible to have two male witnesses? Is white for the bride definitely out?—P.C., Jamaica, N.Y."

Home ceremonies are very frequently performed by judges or justices of the peace. The custom is for the bride to have a female witness. I am sure that two adult witnesses are all that are required, irrespective of sex. I would certainly rather have you follow tradition in the matter.

For some time it has been accepted that divorcees may wear white so long as the outfit is in no way a bridal costume (see my book section on Second Marriage).

Ask The Cook

By Nan Wiley

DEAR NAN: The enclosed recipe makes a delicious breakfast drink and is very convenient on camping trips. My problem is that my teenagers no longer want to drink it because I can't tell them the calorie count per cup. If you can help me with this problem it will be deeply appreciated. The mixture is an 8-quart size instant nonfat dry milk, a 1-pound box quick cocoa mix, and a 6-ounce jar of brand name non-dairy creamer. These are mixed well, and hot water is added to 1-3rd cup of the mix. — Mrs. Dolores Warford. Kansas City, Kansas.

According to a handy little paperback copy of "The Brand Name Calorie Counter" (Dell Publishers, 95 cents), your brand of nonfat instant milk rates 82 calories per 8-ounce glass (reconstituted.)

The brand I have lists 35 per cent protein, less than 1.25 per cent and 52 per cent lactose carbohydrates.

One tablespoon of your non-dairy creamer is 33 calories.

Your brand name quick cocoa mix rates 221 calories per 8-ounce glass (reconstituted.)

It will be a good exercise in mathematics for your teenagers to figure the combination totaled in 1-3rd cup of the mix. I am sure they will do a more accurate job than I could without a good deal of figuring.

Be glad they are calorie conscious at their age. Too many teenagers are not, judging by the hefty size of some of them walking by my house, a thick frosted shake in one hand and a double cheeseburger in the other. If they keep that up they'll be whales by the time they are 35.

In any quick cocoa mixes, I have seen sugar listed as the first ingredient, meaning there is more of that than anything else. The non-dairy creamers are a heterogenous mess of additives and preservatives plus dehydrated corn syrup, handy in an emergency or camping but hardly desirable as a steady diet.

DEAR NAN: Can you give me a recipe for those small egg rolls with various fillings? We like pepperoni and cheese. I would like to make my own but can't find a recipe in any of my cookbooks. Mrs. Arthur G. Bowman. Galion, Ohio.

Pepperoni and cheese is a far cry from the authenic Chinese egg rolls I know, but you can have a try at mixing your own filling by noting ingredients on the carton you have been buying. Sometimes those commercial rolls are more like Chinese giyozas where the casing is merely a mixture of flour and water, filled and deep fried.

For real egg roll skins sift together 1-1-3rd cups flour 2-3rds cup cornstarch and ½ teaspoon salt. Blend together 1½ cups water and 2 unbeaten eggs with a fork. Gradually add to the dry mixture with a spoon or rotary beater. Reserve about 1-3rd cup batter for sealing the rolls — this important.

Lightly brush a 7-8 inch skillet with oil. Pour about 2 tablespoons batter in all at once, holding pan at a slight angle.

Tip quickly in all directions to make a thin 7-inch pancake or crepe. Cook over medium heat until mixture looks dry around the edges, about 1 minute. Remove with a wide turner, place on platter or dry towels. Repeat with rest of batter. You will have about 24. No, the pancake is not cooked on the other side. It cooks the rest of the way from its own heat.

There are many fillings but here is one I like. In a large bowl combine 2 cups (each) finely chopped cooked pork and celery, 1 cup each chopped shrimp or lobster, green onion and water chestnuts. Mix 1 tablespoon monosodium glutamate, 1 tablespoon soy sauce, 2 teaspoons sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 small egg and ¼ cup melted shortening or oil. Mix well with rest of ingredients.

Place a scant ¼ cup filling toward bottom part of each pancake. Roll away from you, tucking in edges as you go, leaving enough for a flap to fold over. Brush edges with reserved batter; press gently with fingers to seal securely. Fry in hot fat (360 degrees) until crisp and golden, about 5-6 minutes. Turn only once.

To freeze, wrap individually in foil.

Serve with hot mustard sauce (dry mustard blended with water) or an apricot sauce combining 2 cups apricot jam, ¼ cup chopped pimento and 2 tablespoons vinegar. Bring to a boil, simmer 2 minutes. Cool and serve.

Rock band starring in nutrition series

NEW YORK (UPI) — A kids' rock band called Mulligan Stew is going to be all over television, starting this fall, but don't look for it in concert halls.

The five-member band was organized to star in a six-part television series on nutrition. The 30-minute programs are part of the expanded food and nutrition program of the National 4-H Service Committee, which produced them in cooperation with the Federal Extension Service, USDA, and the State Extension Services of the land grant universities.

The series has been shown on 60 to 70 educational and commercial stations since its debut last fall and it is expected to be even more widely aired during the 1973-74 school year. But public reaction so far has been scattered, says Eleanor Wilson, National 4-H coordinator.

"It's almost too early to say whether it's effective," she said in a telephone interview from Chicago. Miss Wilson also was executive producer and technical advisor for the series.

She said a professional survey will be made to evaluate results, but that some parents already have said their children talk about what they've learned and actually ask for green vegetables!

This astonishing request can be credited to hard-sell television commercial techniques combined with those of Mission Impossible, Sesame Street and the Electric Company.

Each point about good nutrition — including the importance of eating a wide variety of foods from four different food groups — is hammered home over and over again in each program by five children representing four distinct ethnic grups — Caucasian, Hispanic, black and oriental.

On one show, the home economist of the Manufacturing Chemists Association talks about the role of and the need for additives in some food.

"Vitamin D is an additive in milk," she says, "and some additives are put there just to make your food taste good."

Miss Wilson said that this sequence had been criticized by some people.

But she added: "The point we're trying to make is that you can't do without additives. The cost would be prohibitive if you had to rely solely on natural foods."

For the young

The programs are designed to appeal to nine to 12-year-oids — fourth through sixth graders — particularly among low-income urbanites. Miss Wilson said a significant number of children as young as five years have been watching the shows.

"We find teen-agers are very interested," she said. "The older teens help organize viewing groups and work with younger boys and girls."

When schools open, some are expected to use the series in their regular curriculum, during classes.

Among the shows they'll see is one in which the Mulligans — three boys and two girls — work with a grown-up pal, Wilbur Dooright, to wake up a town that's sleeping because everybody's tired out from malnutrition.

In another show, Wilbur helps Mulligan foil the Flim Flam man who's trying to sell the band fad diets and food pills. In still another, the kids plan, shop for and prepare dinner for a world population.

A dozen rock songs ranging from "Good Nutrition" to "Goulash, Garbanza Beans and Guacamole" are played and sung in the shows and on records that are part of the supplementary materials provided for groups that sign up to watch the series.

The supplements also include sheet music for the songs, a comic book, several recipes in rebus form and a guidebook for teachers, leaders and aides.

But in the end, the most effective salesmen and women for good nutrition are apt to be the five engaging young people — Larry Friedman, Steve Einbender, Benjamin Sands, Sherry Wright and Li-On Hahm — and their sidekick, Wilbur, played by the only full-time professional in the cast.

He's Barry Michlin, an actor currently appearing in television commercials and a New York cabaret theater production. "What's a Nice Country Like You Doing in a State Like This?"

Vegetable and fruit shortages predicted

WASHINGTON, D.C. — (NEA) — Bargain-hungry shoppers are gobbling the nation into a processed foods shortage that could cause such staples as canned applesauce and frozen peas to disappear from the supermarket by next spring.

Other processed foods in perilously short supply: canned beets, carrots, green beans, tomatoes, peaches, cherries and canned and frozen corn.

The Administration's price controls program, responsible for shortages in many other sectors of the economy, is only partly to blame for this one, according to processors and retailers. Indeed, the controls seem only to have aggravated an already tight situation caused by a general trend toward convenience foods and a poor crop year.

The real pinch began last year when floods in the eastern part of the nation wiped out a substantial part of the fruit and vegetable crop and production dropped sharply.

During last summer's Freeze II, processed food prices were held down while those for fresh fruits and vegetables were allowed to fluctuate wildly. The uncertainty of fresh produce prices and a general desire to hoard food drove many consumers from the vegetable bins to the canned and frozen food sections of their grocery stores.

In addition, the meat shortage caused housewives to pour increasing amounts of prepared vegetables into stews and casseroles in an effort to stretch food budgets.

The crops are generally packed only once a year and products that run out won't appear in the supermarket again until the fall. The past summer's heavy buying left canners and freezers with record low carryover supplies, meaning there is almost no reserve to draw on in a production year one canner describes as a "general disaster."

The New York state and West Virginia apple crops were hit by a freeze at blossoming time that also took a toll of the cherry crops in those areas. The Midwest apple crop was also cut by bad weather and growers estimate the canning crop may be only half of last year's.

Similar natural disasters befell the pea, sweet corn and tomato crops — all of which were already in short supply.

Edward Brown, chairman of the board of Michigan Fruit Canners, states flatly, "We won't be able to meet demand this year. By late spring or early summer there will be quite a pinch in apple products." Michigan Fruit, which makes Rustic and Dolley Madison brand products, also anticipates shortages in its supplies of cherries, green beans and peas.

When shoppers see canned food stocks dwindling, they traditionally turn to frozen foods and this is expected to wipe out the supply of frozen peas well before next year's packing season.

'Interest Curriculum' awakens Hawaiian students

HONOLULU (UPI) —Bored students at Nanakuli Intermediate School used to spend their days waiting for the clock to strike the dismissal hour.

Absenteeism was high, interest low and teachers were becoming desperate.

But two years later, youngsters in the racially mixed, low income neighborhood can't wait to get to school for a day of comic books, word games, puzzles, rocketry, sports talk and music.

Nanakuli Intermediate's unusually extensive "Interest Curriculum" is aiming to keep the students —ranging in age from 12 to 15 —coming to school and learning through courses that are fun.

Mrs. Hazel Tsukano, the teacher who has coordinated much of the program, said absenteeism has declined and youngsters are opting for courses once considered boring.

"Because of their background, these children need more motivation," she said. "The old ways just weren't working."

Instead of staring at textbooks, delighted students who once dreaded school now use comic books to learn reading skills and stimulate an interest in literature.

Math skills are improved with sports scores, field measurements, batting averages, games and puzzles. Science classes are keyed to rocketry, and students in logic ponder over chess sets.

"Traditionally students in the seventh and eighth grades have had very little chance for choice," Mrs. Tsukano said. "But the Interest Curriculum gives them the opportunity to pick their own courses."

The only stipulation on the selection is that students must choose at least one offering in math and one in language arts, and the school has imposed a rule on the number of courses taken in any one area. The result is a curriculum basically composed of whatever courses intrigue the youngster.

"Since the Interest Curriculum has filtered into every class," Mrs. Tsukano said, "no matter what a student picks it's bound to be fun."

"When you consider the purpose —to get kids to come to school and learn —it is very successful," she said.

"It all started back in 1968 when the entire faculty was asked to suggest ways to make education more interesting and meaningful to our students," she said. "We felt that the traditional courses weren't getting through to that many youngsters."

Mrs. Tsukano admitted that the curriculum had a rough beginning because teachers didn't realize at first how much of a work burden it would be in its first stages.

"It's a lot easier to stand up in front of a room and talk, than to try and think of ways to make the subject fun," she said. "It's been up to the teachers to devise methods of tying in the subjects with enjoyable activities."

In order to get rid of the foreboding grades at the end of a term, the school adopted the designations, "ungraded honors, credits or no credits."

"We found it was hard to spark motivation when someone was labelled a failure," Mrs. Tsukano said.

The Interest Curriculum, which is funded by the Model Cities Program, has had some unexpected results. Mrs. Tsukano said that "by giving students the chance to make decisions, they become used to coping with decision making and are more mature."

The problem of continuity has been practically eliminated because the program has produced such enthusiasm among the teachers and 470 students that it is being expanded into the grammar and high school in the community.

"Our youngsters are not in a pigeon hole," Mrs. Tsukano said. "They have found learning to be a very dynamic thing."

Butter is a mainstay in the gourmet's kitchen

Butter, rich in vitamin A, has been the traditional mainstay of good cooks throughout the ages. Although substitutes are available, the gourmet cook knows that only butter will give foods that special flavor.

The love of butter extends far into the history of man. It is one of the foods frequently mentioned in the Bible.

However, until the mid-1800s, it was a homemade product. It wasn't until 1848 that the first butter factory was established near Goshen, N. Y. Local diarymen were invited to bring their milk to this receiving station for conversion into butter.

Today, the home butter churn is a relic of the past. The manufacture of butter is now a vital segment of the dairy industry, with 1.1 billion pounds of butter produced annually in the United States. California ranks third nationally, producing 112 million pounds.

"Butter also contains preformed vitamin A," said Dr. Zoe E. Anderson, professor of family studies and consumer sciences at the California State University, San Diego. "In fact, butter is the fat in which vitamin A was first discovered," she said.

Vitamin A is important for growth, healthy eyes and skin, and the maintenance of healthy tissues for resistance to infection.

Although the amount of vitamin A in butter may vary according to the type of feed given the dairy cattle, a single tablespoon of butter averages 46 International Units of this important vitamin.

Although butter consumption has been declining since the 1940s, when fats of all kinds became scarce, nostalgia for this delicious, simple food is causing many homemakers to return to butter.

Government grading and inspecting assures the consumer that Grade AA butter is of the finest quality. However, this quality can be adversely affected by improper care. Butter should be refrigerated and covered at all times, because it readily absorbs flavors and odors from other foods.

Consumers wishing to store butter for several weeks may wrap the extra cubes in foil and freeze for future use. Freezing will protect butter's delicate flavor more effectively than refrigeration for a long period.

BUTTER FRIED FISH

1 pound fish fillets, fresh or thawed
½ cup (1 cube) butter
1 tablespoons prepared mustard
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon chopped onion

If using frozen fish, thaw completely. Melt butter in a skillet. Stir in mustard, lemon juice and onion. Add fish and fry slowly on each side until golden brown. Sprinkle with chopped parsley. Makes 4 servings.

BUTTERY OVEN-FRIED CHICKEN

½ cup (1 cube) butter
½ cup regular all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon paprika
¼ teaspoon pepper
6 or 8 cut up chicken parts

Place butter in a 13x9x2-inch pan and melt in oven. In a clean bag combine flour and seasonings. Add chicken pieces one at a time and shake to coat evenly. Dip both sides of chicken in the melted butter and place in single layer, skin side down, in pan. Bake in 400-degree oven for 30 minutes. Turn skin side up and bake an additional 20 or 30 minutes or until tender.

CHEERY CHERRY BARS

1 package (about 1 pound 2. ounces) spice or applesauce cake mix
2 eggs
1-3rd cup water
6 tablespoons butter, softened
¾ cup chopped, uncooked dried apricots
1 can (3½ ounces) flaked coconut
½ cup chopped maraschino cherries

In a large mixing bowl beat together cake mix, eggs, water, and butter for length of time specified on cake mix. Stir in apricots, coconut and cherries, mixing just until combined. Spread evenly into buttered jelly roll pan, 15 x 10 x 1 inch. Bake 18-20 minutes. Cool in pan before cutting. Makes about 60 pieces.

NEVER-FAIL HOLLANDAISE SAUCE

½ cup (1 cube) butter
2 egg yolks
½ teaspoon salt or dash of cayenne
1½ or 2 tablespoons lemon juice

Melt the butter. Beat egg yolks until thick. Add salt, cayenne, and 3 tablespoons butter. Beat until well mixed and stiff. Continue beating, add lemon juice and rest of melted butter, a few drops of each alternately until all has been added. Makes 1 cup.

To use, heat sauce in top of double boiler over hot water, stirring constantly. Serve at once over hot broccoli, asparagus, or other greens.

Disbarment of Agnew seems near BALTIMORE (UPI) — The Maryland State Bar Association is expected to initiate disbarment proceedings against former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew this week.

The state bar's board of governors voted Thursday of last week to file a petition for a court hearing to consider Agnew's disbarment. The petition would come in Montgomery County where Agnew currently resides.

Thomas Howell, chairman of the state bar's grievance committee, presented the bar's case against Agnew at the Thursday meeting. Grounds for the action were listed as Agnew's sentencing last month for tax evasion.

Agnew resigned the vice presidency last month after pleading no contest to the tax charge. He paid a $10,000 fine and was placed on probation.

If disbarred, Agnew would be prohibited from practicing law in Maryland or anywhere else in the United States.

Hal C. B. Claggett, president of the state bar said earlier that the bar would have to consider action against Agnew "to meet its responsibility of maintaining professional standards of ethical conduct."

In keeping with past tradition, the Los Angeles County Heart Association again this year offers suggestions for a seasonal feast suitable for any holiday occasion.

Heart's Holiday Menu this season has been selected from the new American Heart Association Cookbook, containing 400 recipes dedicated to eating well while eating right.

HEART'S HOLIDAY MENU

Christmas Tree Relish Tray
Whipped Cottage Cheese Dip
(Variations — Garlic, Dill, onion)
Roast Turkey Apple Dressing
Whipped Potatoes
Broccoli with
Mustard Dill Sauce
Creamed Onions, Cranberry Orange Mold, Corn Bread Muffins, Watermelon Pickles
Pumpkin Chiffon Pie

CHRISTMAS TREE RELISH TRAY

1 styrofoam cone, about 10 or 12 inches high
Mustard greens, chicory, or curly endive
Toothpicks
Cherry tomatoes
Zucchini slices
Cauliflower florets
Carrot sticks
Radish roses

Begin at the base and encircle the styrofoam cone with a layer of greens, attaching them with wire staples or upholstery pins. Add a second layer overlapping the first. Working upward, continue adding layers until entire cone is covered. Decorate with vegetables speared with toothpicks. Set "tree" on a tall compote or footed cake stand, and position extra vegetables around the base. Place a bowl of dip sauce nearby.

WHIPPED COTTAGE CHEESE DIP

Use this basic recipe with variations as a dip, a spread, a salad dressing or a delicious replacement for sour cream.

2 cups (1 pound) low-fat cottage cheese
2 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ cup skim milk
Salt to taste

Place all ingredients in a blender jar. Blend until creamy, adjusting the milk measure to produce desired consistency. Yields 2 cups.

WHIPPED COTTAGE CHEESE DIP VARIATIONS

1. Garlic: To 1 cup of Basic Cheese Dip, add 2 tablespoons mayonnaise, 1 or 2 tablespoons chopped onion, a dash of garlic powder and 2 sprigs of fresh parsley. Mix in blender at high speed until smooth.

2 Dill: To 1 cup of Basic Cheese Dip, add 1 tablespoon chopped fresh dill and 1 tablespoon minced onion. Chill.

3. Onion: To 1 cup of Basic Cheese Dip, add 2 teaspoons dry onion soup mix and 1 teaspoon finely chopped green onions. Mix. Serve chilled.

ROAST TURKEY

Preheat oven to 325 degrees. Prepare Apple Dressing.

Remove neck and giblets from inside a 14- or 16-pound bird. Remove all visible fat from body cavity and neck area. Stuff neck area of turkey lightly with apple dressing and skewer neck skin to the back. Lift wing tips up, then fold under back so they lie flat and balance turkey. Stuff cavity loosely. Tie drumsticks together across tail, push them under the band of skin or use stuffing clamp to close cavity.

Place turkey breast side up on rack in shallow open pan. Roast as label directs. Use meat thermometer in center part of breast. Baste occasionally with melted margarine. When skin turns golden, cover breast and legs with a "tent" of folded foil to prevent excessive browning. When turkey is about 2-3rds done, cut string or band to release legs. Roast until internal temperature reaches 180 to 185 degrees or until drumstick moves easily up and down.

APPLE DRESSING

¼ cup chopped onions
¼ cup chopped celery
2 tablespoons margarine
4 cups dry bread cubes
1 cup diced unpeeled apples
½ teaspoon poultry seasoning
½ teaspoon dried sage
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon ground black pepper
1 chicken bouillon cube
½ cup hot water

Cook onions and celery in margarine for 5 minutes, or until tender. Dissolve bouillon cube in hot water.

Combine onions and celery with all other dry ingredients. Add bouillon and toss lightly.

BROCCOLI WITH MUSTARD DILL SAUCE

1 10-ounce package of frozen broccoli; or 1 bunch of broccoli, washed, trimmed and cut up.

Cook broccoli according to package instructions if frozen, or in rapidly boiling water if fresh. Do not overcook. It should be just tender-crisp. Pour Mustard Dill Sauce over broccoli. Serve immediately.

MUSTARD DILL SAUCE

1 cup water
1-3rd cup nonfat dry milk
3 tablespoons flour
3 teaspoons prepared mustard
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon dill seed

In a saucepan, combine water, nonfat dry milk, flour prepared mustard, salt and dill seed. Beat with a rotary beater until well blended. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until it thickens. This sauce is good served on many kinds of vegetables.

CREAMED ONIONS

2 cups raw or canned pearl onions
¾ cup skim milk
1½ tablespoons flour
Salt to taste
Dash nutmeg (optional)

If raw onions are used, parboil them until tender. Meanwhile, make a white sauce: Melt margarine in a saucepan, blend in flour and add milk gradually. Cook over a low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture has thickened.

Drain onions and add to cream sauce. Season to taste. Yields 4 servings.

CRANBERRY-ORANGE MOLD

1 3-ounce package lemon gelatin
1 cup boiling water
1 cup orange juice
1 16-ounce jar cranberry-orange relish
1 unpeeled apple, chopped
½ cup chopped pecans

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add orange juice and let stand until almost jellied.

Combine cranberry-orange relish, chopped apple and pecans; fold into the almost-jellied mixture. Pour into a 1-quart mold. Chill until firm. Yields 6 servings.

CORN BREAD MUFFINS

1 cup sifted flour
¾ cup yellow corn meal
½ teaspoon salt
2½ teaspoons baking powder
2 tablespoons sugar
1 egg
1 cup skim milk
¼ cup oil

Preheat the oven to 425 degrees.

Sift together the flour, corn meal, salt, baking powder and sugar. Add the egg, milk and oil stirring quickly and lightly until mixed. Do not beat.

From the bowl, dip the batter into oiled 2½-inch muffin tins (or an 8 x 8-inch pan or corn-stick pans), filling each cup 2-3rds full.

Bake 20 to 30 minutes, or until golden brown. Yield: 12 muffins

WATERMELON PICKLES

3 pounds white part of the watermelon rind, cubed
3 cups sugar
2 cups cider vinegar
1 cup cold water
1 tablespoon whole cloves
1 tablespoon whole allspice
1 tablespoon cinnamon stick pieces
1 sliced lemon
Salt

Make a brine of 2 tablespoons salt to 1 quart of water. Cover rind with brine and let stand overnight. Drain. Cover with fresh water and cook about 10 minutes, until tender, then drain.

In a large pot, combine sugar, vinegar, and 1 cup of cold water. Heat until sugar dissolves. Enclose allspice, cloves, cinnamon and lemon in a cheesecloth bag, and add to the vinegar mixture.

Put in the watermelon rind and cook until transparent, about 45 minutes. Pour into sterilized jars and seal. Yields 3 pints.

PUMPKIN CHIFFON PIE

¼ teaspoon nutmeg
baked
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
¼ cup vold water
1 cup sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon ginger
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup canned pumpkin
1 cup evaporated skim milk
2 tablespoons margarine
4 egg whites
¼ cup crushed pecans

Soften the gelatin in the cold water. Combine ½ cup of the sugar with the cornstarch, salt, ginger, nutmeg and cinnamon. Add pumpkin and milk. Mix well. Cook over medium heat until thickened, stirring constantly. Add the gelatin mixture and the margarine, stirring until dissolved. Cool until partially set.

Beat the egg whites until soft peaks form, and gradually beat in the remaining ½ cup of sugar. Continue beating until stiff, and fold into pumpkin mixture. Place in the pastry shell. Garnish with crushed pecans. Serve chilled. Yields 8 servings.

The basting sauce makes the holiday chicken

From coast to coast, an outstanding favorite of backyard barbecuers is grilled chicken. As for the basting sauces, variations are limitless — some like them hot, others mild. But one thing all agree on — it must be distinctive enough to complement the delicate chicken. Great Grilled Chicken certainly meets this requirement — the sweet-tart baste gives the dish appealing and unusual flavor.

The golden sauce is a simple but tangy mixture of orange juice concentrate, catchup and prepared yellow mustard spiked with chopped onions. And here's a tip — grill the chicken for 20 minutes before basting — this prevents it from charring before it's completely done.

GREAT GRILLED CHICKEN

1 frying chicken, cut-up
½ cup catchup
¼ cup prepared yellow mustard
¼ cup frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed
2 tablespoons chopped onions

Grill chicken over hot coals for 20 minutes, turning frequently. Stir together catchup, mustard, orange juice concentrate, and onions. Brush over chicken. Continue to grill, turning frequently and brushing with sauce, until tender, about 15 minutes. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

RANCH-STYLE MACARONI SALAD

8 ounces elbow macaroni
1 green pepper, chopped
1 carrot, peeled and shredded
½ cup salad oil
¼ cup catchup
1 tablespoon vinegar
2 teaspoons sugar
1 teaspoon onion salt
salt
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce

Cook macaroni as directed on package; drain and chill. Stir in pepper and carrot. Combine oil, catchup, vinegar, sugar, onion salt, and Worcestershire sauce; beat with rotary beater until well blended. Add to salad and toss gently. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Other notable royal brides have included Elizabeth Stuart, left, whose husband, the king of Bohemia lost his throne. They spent most of their lives in exile, but it is from her that the present British royal line is descended. An earlier Princess Anne, center, daughter of King James II and bride of a Danish prince, in 1702 became queen. It was during her reign that England and Scotland merged in the United Kingdom. The marriage of Princess Elizabeth of York, right to Henry Lancaster in 1486 ended the Wars of the Roses. She became the mother of Henry VIII, grandmother of Elizabeth I and great grandmother of Mary Queen of Scots.

Royal Weddings

are an old story for the British. Princess Anne's marriage to Capt. Mark Phillips is the latest in a long line of illustrious unions, some truly history-making. A drawing, right, from "The Illustrated London News" depicts the 1858 marriage of Princess Vicky, Queen Victoria's daughter, to Prince Frederick William of Prussia, later emperor of Germany. Their son was World War I's Kaiser Wilhelm.

Hijacking on decline, but still real threat

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Three men, two of them wanted on rape charges, boarded an airliner, armed with pistols, a rifle and a pocketful of grenades.

With what had become a sickeningly repetitive drama, the gunmen commandeered the Southern Airways jetliner minutes after it left the ground at Birmingham, Ala., on Nov. 10 and demanded $10 million, safe passage to Cuba and beer to drink.

Twenty-nine hours later the confrontation was over. In the interim, the FBI shot out the plane's tires, the co-pilot was shot in the shoulder and the pilot was forced to land at nine different cities over a 4,000-mile route, finally making an emergency landing in Havana where the hijackers were arrested.

That was a year ago. Since then, there has not been a successful hijacking of a U.S. plane —a far cry from the 1968 to 1971 when the crime became only too common. In that period there was an average of 29 U.S. hijackings a year.

Since 1931, there have been 160 hijackings of U.S. airliners.

The hijackers ranged from mental patients and henpecked husbands to would-be revolutionaries and a government bureaucrat.

The hijackers were sometimes shot and killed by police. Some were imprisoned in foreign jails. They were psychoanalyzed as immature, sexually inadequate and striving for recognition in a world which had ignored them.

To stop them, sky marshals rode jetliners, and ticket agents using "psychological profiles" scanned travelers for signs of potential hijackers. Little happened. Then came the Southern Airways hijacking, and the menace seemed to end.

What happened?

Government security agents agree that it is foolish to talk of the hijacking problem as solved. Federal Aviation Administrator Alexander Butterfield said the lull "is tenuous," and has ordered the airlines and airports to remain alert.

But security officials agree that any potential hijacker is faced with overwhelming long odds today compared to the situation which existed five years ago.

The key element in the antihijacking network was a government mandated security system for airports.

On Dec. 5, 1971, the Transportation Department ordered airports to post 4,500 armed guards at major airports across the nation. Passengers were ordered to undergo electronic screening to detect weapons, and carry-on luggage was searched.

Coupled with this was a change in attitude on the part of the Cuban government, long the favored destination of American hijackers.

When the Southern Airways jetliner its tires blown out, skidded to a stop in a shower of sparks at Havana's main airport, the pilot was told by Premier Fidel Castro that "something would be done" about the problem.

The "something" turned out to be an agreement between the United States and Cuba to prosecute hijackers, or return them for prosecution in their own country. The agreement made Cuba less inviting for American hijackers since it now offers them no hope of escape.

The security system has had its costs: passengers experience some delays because of the airport searches and 59 cents has been added to the price of an airline ticket to pay for the antihijack program.

Several major airlines have been fined for improperly screening passengers at airports and thus increasing the threat of a hijacking.

But the most convincing proof that hijacking still is a problem is found in a set of statistics collected by the FAA.

So far this year, the security guards at airports have seized 1,600 guns, 15,731 knives and 20,037 items described as "potentially dangerous."

Captain John J. O'Donnell, president of the 46,000-man Air Line Pilots Association, sums up the hijacking situation this way:

"The threat still is a very real one."

Silver Stars to 2 ex-POWs

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Two former prisoners of the Vietnam war have been awarded Silver Stars for gallantry in action in ceremonies at Mather Air Force Base, it was announced.

The medals were presented to Capt. Ralph W. Galati and Capt. Gerald S. Venanzi. Both men are now studying navigation at Mather.

Venanzi was cited for covering all assigned targets after his RF4C aircraft was disabled by enemy fire during a September, 1967 mission.

Galati was cited for directing an attack of more than two hours in his F40 Phantom despite heavy enemy fire before being shot down in February of 1972.

Drinkers may have fewer heart attacks, study shows

By AL ROSSITER
UPI Science Editor

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — An Oakland, Calif. study has raised the possibility that those who partake of alcohol might have fewer heart attacks than teetotalers.

Three scientists said in a weekend report to the American Heart Association that the results from a large, long-term study of patients from the Kaiser-Permanent Medical Care Program were "somewhat confusing and not entirely consistent" in regard to drinking and heart attacks.

But they said, "There were more persons who said they were teetotalers among those who later developed myocardial infarction (heart attacks) than among the risk factor matched control.

"The explanation for the happy finding is not clear,' said Drs. Arthur L. Klatsky Gary D. Friedman and A. B. Siegelaub.

In another report, two doctors said the first mass blood pressure test carried out in a major metropolitan area, New Orleans, found that one out of every three persons checked had high blood pressure.

High blood pressure is a major cause of heart attack, stroke and heart disease —the primary killers in this nation.

"If the New Orleans blood pressure screening program is representative of our population, then 200,000 New Orleanians have high blood pressure and roughly 124,000 are not yet aware of it," the doctors said.

Part of survey

The California study of the relationship between drinking and heart attack was part of a survey to see if the use of tobacco, coffee, aspirin or alcohol was related to heart attack. The researchers compared 464 persons who had heart attack with two computer-selected groups that had not had heart ailments.

The study found definite relationship between cigarette smoking and heart attacks which confirmed previous studies. No relationship, however, was found between coffee drinking and heart attacks and the researchers said the aspirin study was not statistically valid to reach any conclusions.

Brezhnev will visit India

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Leonid Brezhnev, general secretary of the Soviet Communist Party, will arrive Nov. 26 for a fiveday visit, the foreign office has announced.

It will be Brezhnev's first visit as the Soviet party boss. He came to India in 1961 as president of the Soviet Union.

Paper urges impeachment

GARDEN CITY N.Y. (UPI) —Newsday, the nation's largest suburban daily newspaper, today urged the House of Representatives to impeach President Nixon as soon as possible.

Asserting that "the consensus is emerging in the country that President Nixon's credibility, authority and ability to govern effectively have been damaged irreparably," the Long Island newspaper in its lead editorial said "clearly it would service the national interest if the country were governed by someone other than Richard Nixon."

After special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox was fired two weeks ago, Newsday said the president had three options:

—Hand over the tapes.

—Resign from office.

—Face removal from office.

"The president gave up the tapes, but stunned the nation with the claim that the crucial conversations had never been recorded. He says he will not resign. That leaves the final option: the impeachment process should be launched as soon as possible by the House," Newsday said.

Soviets approve U.S. tax treaty

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Council of Ministers has approved a tax treaty with the United States that is intended to help boost trade between the two countries, the Tass news agency reported.

The treaty still has to be ratified by the presidium of the Supreme Soviet (parliament). It also requires ratification by the U.S. Senate to take effect.

The treaty was signed last summer during Communist Party General Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev's visit to the United States.

It provides for exemption from income taxes of various kinds of payments between the two countries in matters relating to trade. It also exempts shipping and aircraft operations, and provides individual exemptions for American and Soviet teachers, students and newsmen working in each others country.

This is the week that hurts

Europe feels fuel crisis pinch

By RICHARD C. LONGWORTH

BRUSSELS (UPI)—This is the week that the oil crisis began to hurt.

In Manila, schools closed for two months. In Britain, oil companies began rationing supplies to gas stations. In Belgium, the National Auto Rally was canceled. And in Holland, hotels and restaurants reported that their country's "never-on-Sunday" driving ban cost them $5.4 million in one day.

The European Common Market adopted a pro-Arab statement and European newspapers accused it of "appeasement." Arab governments promised that the worst is yet to come. Russia saw a silver lining—the prospect of more U.S. help to exploit Siberian natural gas.

And in Japan, hibachis—the traditional charcoal stoves—made a comeback.

The crisis began last month when Arab oil-producing nations began cutting back production to persuade the oileating industrial nations of the West to stop backing Israel. Those cuts have grown to 25 per cent or more, with more scheduled. In addition, oil shipments have been banned to "pro-Israel" nations like the United States and Holland.

So far, the cutback itself has not been felt. Reserves in European countries hold at least two or three months supplies at normal rates of consumption. Tankers which left the Middle East before the cuts were ordered are still arriving in European and Japanese ports.

But governments, reading the handwriting on the wall, began ordering mild rationing—admittedly only the first short step in what could be a siege of several years—to keep reserves high and accustom users to sacrifices. These first moves, as reported by UPI correspondents around the world, are what hurt.

Japan, which imports 99 per cent of its oil and 40 per cent of it from the Arabs expects to be hit harder than any other nation—despite its recent wooing of the Arabs. The normal inflow of oil will end in late November and, in the months to come, industrialists expect damage to the booming Japanese economy—in chemicals, steel, cars and electrical machinery, among other industries.

Emergency oil-allocation legislation is being drafted. In the meantime, power companies have called for "voluntary" power cuts. Some—but not all—neon lights on the famous Ginza are dimmer—and buildings are five degrees cooler. The hibachi is in high demand—but there is a shortage of charcoal to fuel them.

No place is suffering more now than the Philippines, which is pro-Arab itself but gets its oil through U.S. oil firms. The government ordered Manila schools closed until January, rationed gasoline at the rate of 50 gallons per family per month, cut fuel sales to airlines by 30 per cent and put government employes on a four-day week.

In Britain, industry sources said oil companies are rationing supplies on their own. The sources said Esso is keeping deliveries at 1972 levels, despite increases in demand. Shell Mex and British Petroleum ordered salesmen to refuse new business.

British farmers reported gas shortages for tractors. And central heating, which is only beginning to become common in Britain, suffered a setback when Regional Properties Ltd. told tenants in its apartment buildings that their heating will be reduced.

French officials have said repeatedly that their pro-Arab stance will pay off in undiminished deliveries of Arab oil. They spoke too soon. French newspapers reported Algeria, which joined in the Arab cutbacks, has been forced to lower shipments to France by 3 or 4 per cent, because "restrictions are inevitable."

Cutbacks could work a revolution in the new, car-based French way of life.

"The automobile is decidedly the golden calf of the French," the newspaper Combat said in commenting on Paris' pro-Arab policy.

The West German government asked for emergency powers to limit energy use but said it will not apply them immediately. It pre-

Philippines to seek own oil well supply

MANILA (UPI) — President Ferdinand E. Marcos of the Philippines says his country has stepped up petroleum exploration, and prospectors are confident of striking oil.

With the world energy crisis hitting both rich and poor nations and attention focusing on new oil sources, the 56-year-old Marcos held out the hope of his country's being a possible oil producer in the future.

In an interview with UPI President Roderick W. Beaton, Marcos said $60 million worth of oil exploration is in progress in the Philippines.

The prospectors include a consortium of Filipino and American firms led by Chevron Overseas Petroleum and Texaco International Corp. which produce more than half of Indonesia's crude oil output.

"They are certain that there is oil," Marcos said. "Many of our drillers have hit oil, but they can't say whether it's commercial or not."

But even if commercial oil is found, it will be two years before his country can produce, he said, cautioning against instant relief.

The Philippines was one of the first Asian nations to adopt drastic measures, including gasoline rationing, when the energy crisis took hold.

Since he assumed broad martial law powers last year Marcos has put major emphasis on economic reforms. So far he has succeeded in injecting new life into the once dull Philippine stock market and attracting increased foreign investment into the country.

"It has been a very affirmative economic indicator for the Philippines," he said. "As soon as I opened up the free entry and the departure of foreign exchange and currency, they (investors) started coming in...they know the ground rules are very clear."

Marcos said martial law in the Philippines was a temporary measure which would be lifted as soon as his reform program takes root.

Asked how soon this might be, he said, "This is a matter which I will not decide. I am going to submit it to the people and the people will decide. If they decide to lift it tomorrow, I will lift it."

Syphilis cases leveling off across country

ATLANTA (UPI) — The National Center for Disease Control says the number of syphilis cases in the nation appears to be leveling off after four years of increase.

State health departments reports 2,055 cases of syphilis during September, the most recent figures available, the NCDC said Friday. This represents a decrease of 5.8 per cent over the same period a year ago.

The center said the number of syphilis cases rose each year from 1969 through 1972 at an overall rate of 28 per cent.

The increases continued this year until April when they slowed to a hike of only one-tenth of one per cent during the next six months.

"The rate for the past six months suggests a definite leveling of the national trend..." said the NCDC.

Middle East oil 'weapon' makes Canada aware of supply problem

By ROBERT D. BOTT

OTTAWA (UPI)—Canada is the only western industrialized country which produces as much oil as it consumes, but the Middle East crisis has brought home just how far the country is from real self-sufficiency.

Only by investing billions of dollars and risking a major confrontation with the United States could Canada cut itself off from the uncertainties of the international oil market—and in any case this could not be done in time to avoid problems this winter.

In round numbers, Canada produces about 2 million barrels per day and consumes about the same amount. However, about 1 million barrels per day are exported to the central and western United Sates and almost as much is imported to meet eastern Canadian needs.

Most of the Canadian oil comes from the western provinces—85 per cent from Alberta, 12 per cent from British Columbia and Saskatchewan. Because of the high cost of overland transportation, mainly by pipeline, it becomes much more expensive the further it has to be shipped.

Under the national oil policy adopted in 1961, this Canadian oil meets the domestic requirements of the four Western provinces and most of Ontario. The surplus is exported to the United States—about one quarter to the Pacific Northwest and the rest to central U.S. markets from Wisconsin to upstate New York.

Imports of foreign oil—half from Venezuela and Colombia, a quarter from Arab states and the rest from Iran and Nigeria —meet the demands of the four Atlantic provinces, Quebec and eastern Ontario.

In the 1960s, this policy seemed to work to everyones' advantage-except perhaps Ontario consumers who paid somewhat higher prices for Alberta oil than they would have for their former supplies of foreign fuel.

At that time, the only outcry for "security of supply" for eastern Canada came from U.S. officials who demanded it as a condition for permitting additional Canadian oil shipments into the United States.

Partly because of this, talks on energy policy with the United States never got very far and in 1970 the United States actually reduced the quota on imports from Canada.

It was only the dwindling supply of oil in the United States which forced President Nixon to remove the quota in 1971. Canadian exports south of the border rose from 740,000 barrels per day to 945,000 barrels per day in 1972 and had hit 1.22 million barrels per day in February this year when the federal government imposed export controls to preserve enough oil for the Canadian market.

Since March, the exports have averaged about 1.2 million barrels per day, but the national Energy Board, which administers the controls, has reduced the allowed exports to just 1 million barrels per day in November because of increasing Canadian demand.

The exports are likely to continue at this level through the winter, meeting somewhat less than five per cent of total U.S. consumption.

In August, before the middle East crisis, the government realized it was going to have some problems with heating oil supplies this winter. This resulted from the limited storage and refining capacity in Ontario, which traditionally imported its additional requirements from the United States and abroad.

With the traditional supplies no longer available, the oil companies coordinated their plans and announced they would just barely be able to get through the winter.

Although this situation is still described as "tight," most of Ontario is expected to get through the winter without serious shortages. The big problem now is considered to be the eastern Canadian market, which only a few months ago was considered in a privileged position with its plentiful supply of cheap foreign oil.

Oil pinch...

dicted the first effects will come in early December, when crude oil imports drop by 10-15 per cent.

Belgium did not wait. The Belgian government requisitioned all oil stocks and installations to ensure continued supplies to consumers, ordered a ban on Sunday driving, restricted heating in public buildings and set speed limits. All eyes turned toward Holland, the first country to ban Sunday driving. By all accounts, the ban was a success. But the Dutch stock market fell and a Rotterdam city council committee urged diversification of the city's port —the world's largest—to reduce its overwhelming dependence on oil traffic.

Scandinavian reaction varied. Denmark introduced new speed limits (35 miles per hour in cities, 50 miles per hour elsewhere) and said violators would be fined 600 to 2,000 kroner ($100 to $300). Norwegian oil deliveries to consumers were cut 10 per cent and Sweden asked homeowners to keep temperatures at a maximum of 68 degrees, but Finland, which gets most of its oil from Russia, made no emergency plans at all.

The Russians themselves said "we told you so."

The Soviet press often has urged the Arabs to use oil as a political weapon against the west. One day after the Middle East war broke out, deputy Foreign Trade minister Nikolai Osipov left for America for talks with U.S. businessmen— on Siberian natural gas.

Newspapers converted into 'logs'

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI — If you are tired of reading about the energy crisis in your newspaper try burning the paper.

David E. Lofgren, an environmental impact officer at the University of Utah, says he's found a way to convert newspapers into "logs" that burn cleanly and with as much heat as natural wood logs.

After two years of experimenting, Lofgren says he's overcome such problems as flying ashes, smoldering, and annoying popping noises.

Lofgren's method is to divide the paper into sections and fold them in half (about a foot long and one-half inch thick.) He soaks them overnight in a solution of water and detergent, then rolls the wet papers around a one-inch rod and squeezes out the excess water, smoothing the edges. He slides the rolls off the rods and stands them up to dry.

Lofgren says the average daily paper can produce two or three logs, while the larger Sunday editions will yield as many as seven.

"Not only are newspaper logs pound-for-pound about the same as wood as an efficient energy source," said Lofgren, "but what other fuel is delivered on your doorstep each day?"

Kissinger uses same style on China, Arabs

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

With a shaky start toward meaningful peace talks behind him in the Middle East, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger went to Peking to try to prevent the collapse of another peace effort in the Far East.

In talks with Arab leaders, and particularly in the announcement of renewed diplomatic relations with the United Arab Republic, the indefatigable secretary of state was demonstrating his "even handed" approach to a solution of Arab-Israeli hostilities.

In Peking, the effort was to demonstrate a similar approach to U.S. relations with Moscow and Peking.

Under the Shanghai communique of Feb. 27, 1972 summing up President Nixon's visit to China, both sides are bound to seek peace in the Asia-Pacific area and to seek solution of international disputes "without resort to the use of threat of force."

In U.S.-Chinese relations, the immediate flashpoint is Indochina where South Vietnam and Hanoi continue to jockey for possession of three key communication points, and Cambodia where the U.S. supported Lon Nol government continues a precarious existence against rebels whose titular spokesman is exiled former chief of state Prince Norodom Sihanouk.

It would be Kissinger's hope to enlist active Chinese aid in securing peace in both areas in exchange for other things sought by Peking.

Among the latter would be U.S. influence in persuading the Soviet Union against using its army divisions aligned along the Sino-Soviet border and to come to agreement on the areas of dispute along their 5,000-mile border.

China has been making moves in the Arab world and in Africa. She therefore wanted a report on Kissinger's visit to Arab capitals.

It was Kissinger's first visit to Peking since Soviet party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev's visit to Washington last summer, and Peking wanted reassurance that no deal was reached at China's possible disadvantage.

The question of full-scale diplomatic relations between China and the United States would seem to be one for the distant future, or at least until the future of Nationalist China on Taiwan is resolved. The U.S. already is on record as believing it should be settled peacefully between the two Chinas.

But there were other matters to be discussed including the phenomenal rise in trade between the U.S. and China, now expected to come close to $900 million this year, and whether the United Sites is to extend favored nation treatment to import of Chinese goods.

That is that Kissinger sees a relationship between his dealings with Middle East nations and China, just as he also sees a link between his triangular relationship with China and the Soviet Union and NATO.

By HELEN THOMAS

PEKING (UPI) — Dressed in a grey pin-stripe suit, and looking every inch a diplomat, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, trudged along a country road near here Tuesday, to see an agricultural commune.

Briefed in a wood frame meeting hall, as he sipped tea, Kissinger was told that the commune included 9,100 households with a population of more than 39,000, divided into 16 production brigades and spread over 10 miles.

"I can't really think about a country until I've had some association with the people," Kissinger said.

"My grandfather had a farm in Germany" he said.

"What does that say?" asked Kissinger.

Kissinger visited a "home of respect for the aged." Outside he paused to chat with several of the senior citizens who were playing checkers.

"I learned Chinese chess once," Kissinger said. "You can bring the pieces back in after they're off."

He also visited a hothouse where vegetables are grown the year round. But he seemed most interested in visiting the Yen family, especially a 5-yearold grandchild who shook his hand. Kissinger held the hand throughout his interview with the grandmother.

Reporters asked her if she knew who her visitor was. She laughed and said it was "Secretary Kissinger" about whose talk with Mao she had heard on the radio.

Mass tests for blood pressure startles doctors

ATLANTIC CITY, N. Jersey (UPI) —The first mass blood pressure tests carried out in a major metropolitan area, New Orleans, found that one out of every three persons checked was afflicted with high blood pressure.

"If the New Orleans blood pressure screening program is representative of our population, then 200,000 New Orleanians have high blood pressure and roughly 124,000 are not yet aware of it," two New Orleans doctors said.

They also reported at the annual meeting of the American Heart Association that the two-day screening effort carried out last April showed as have earlier, more limited surveys, that males and blacks were most likely to have high blood pressure.

High blood pressure is a major cause of heart attack stroke and kidney disease, Dr. Theodore Cooper, director of the National Heart and Lung Institute, said at a news conference that high blood pressure "is the largest chronic disease problem in this country at the present time."

One of the major problems in treating the disease, doctors say, is that half of those who have high blood pressure are not aware of it. This is because people can have the trouble and still feel well.

The incidence of high blood pressure among people checked in New Orleans was higher than national estimates which say about one out of every 10 Americans has the problem.

Drs. Stanley B. Garbus and James L. Reynolds, who reported the findings, noted their sample was not a random or crosssection survey because the people tested responded to widespread publicity efforts to have their pressure checked at one of 43 special testing centers.

Dr. W.B. Kannel, head of a long-term study of heart ailments in Framingham, Mass., said in an interview that New Orleans may have more cases of high blood pressure than other communities because it has a large black population.

He also said that the tests were a "casual sample" in that they checked blood pressure only once when some people might be expected to be nervous and have higher than normal pressure.

But Kannel said this was important because casual elevation of blood pressure can lead to sustained high blood pressure.

"It means that this is a felow who is destined for trouble," he said. "It is not a trivial matter."

A total of 30,329 persons of all ages were screened in the New Orleans project, sponsored by the Louisiana Heart Association with the help of the Ciba Pharmaceutical Co. A total of 8,102 persons—32 per cent— were referred to their doctor for more thorough tests and treatment if necessary.

Of those referred to doctors, 30.5 per cent were white and 36.7 per cent were black. Although 33 per cent of the New Orleans population is black, only 25 per cent of those tested was black. Garbus and Reynolds said this may have been the result of inadequate publicity in minority areas.

Scholarship pays a price for FBI data

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The FBI is for the first time opening some long closed criminal investigation files and historians are finding the price of scholarship very steep.

Under a regulation issued last February by former Attorney General Richard Kleindienst and amplified last July by his successor, Elliot Richardson, the FBI is making available on a limited basis information about such cases as those of Alger Hiss and the Rosenbergs.

But, a spokesman said Monday, it is reserving the right to decide what files will be opened, what information will be released and who can buy it.

The files requested thus far include the cases of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, the American spies convicted and executed in 1953 for disclosing A-bomb secrets, and Alger Hiss, the former government official accused of giving secrets to the ex-Communist Whittaker Chambers.

Another file that has been requested is that of the late Ezra Pound, the poet who was accused of treason but never tried.

A first installment based on the 25,000-page Rosenberg file is being readied for delivery, possibly next week, to Prof. Allen Weinstein, a historian at Smith College.

The expense can be high — Weinstein's request was estimated to cost about $5,000.

Shock of tough N.Y. dope laws wearing away

By RONALD G. BURNS

NEW YORK (UPI) —While drug dealers are still excercising extreme caution, the initial shock of New York State's tough new narcotics law appears to be wearing off and police and dealers alike report business is business—as usual.

After a startling beginning in which drug dealings and arrests plummeted for the first month following the law's Sept. 1 effective date, arrests climbed rapidly upward in October. At the same time, many dealers reported a brisk business despite the stiff new penalties that can result in a life prison term.

"At first, the impact was very strong and narcotics traffic was very depressed," said Lt. Daniel O'Aloane, of the police narcotics squad. "But the dealers are over their initial scare and the law's impact already is subsiding."

On the other side of the fence, one Greenwich Village marijuna dealer said "some people were scared at first" but that "at this point business is churning right along."

Another complained that the law was inflationary, asserting: "Its effect has been minimal except to raise prices. The business is still being done, but the risk is higher so the prices are higher. It's really just an excuse to charge more."

A key feature of the law eliminates the time-honored practice of plea bargaining—making a deal to plead guilty to a lesser charge—and imposes mandatory prison terms from one year to life, depending on the type and amount of drug.

However, O'Aloan said no changes have been made in the narcotics squad focus on major heroin and cocaine dealers, and added: "Certainly, we have had no arrests of any significance so far for acid or pot. In fact, if we make an arrest for marijuana, the boss wants to know why."

"Nevertheless, dealers are still excercising extreme caution," he said. "They won't sell to anybody they're not sure of, and sometimes they'll insist on making the actual transaction in New Jersey or Connecticut. It seems doubtful that drug dealing will ever be as out in the open as it once was."

Frank Rogers, special state narcotics prosecutor, agreed with O'Aloan that the new law's impact has tapered off and that few, if any, dealers have moved away.

"They would risk their necks for a big profit, then get caught and beg us for a break, explaining that they were going to college and wanted to go on to law school—or something like that," he said. "Now they know they can't get a break, so a lot of them have gotten out of drug dealing completely."

Rogers said it would take much longer for the law to get to the hard core pusher, but that the new law aside, heroin is harder than ever to get, largely because of federal and international efforts to halt poppy production in Turkey and dismantle what he described as the "European distribution ring."

Rogers added it was still too early to tell the long term effects of the new law on the state's back-logged courts, but that "at this point they're pretty unjammed because 16 new judges were appointed in September to meet the law's initial influx."

"Whatever happens, the law's full course is yet to be determined," he said. "If it works, heroin pushers who were arrested again and again, only to be set free, will be kept off the streets. Soft drug dealers will be more guarded. And the revolving door arrests that clogged the courts could come to an end."

Oregon pot law causes little effect

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Oregon's liberalized marijuana law, which reduces pot possession to something like traffic violation, appears to have had little effect, at least in public.

"I was really afraid that we would have public flaunting of the law with widespread marijuana smoking," said Deputy District Attorney Mike Bailey.

The law, which took effect Oct. 5, makes possession of up to an ounce of marijuana punishable by a $100 fine. Violators are simply issued summonses similar to traffic tickets.

Bailey said that despite the change, "There is no evidence at all of any increase."

He noted, however, that more widespread smoking would be noticed mainly in public places, such as city parks and fountains. Smoking in private would be harder to locate, he said, since police had not been raiding private homes for marijuana arrests, even before the new law.

He also said an increase might become more noticeable "when it warms up next spring."

San Jose is best place for housing

NEW YORK (UPI) —If good housing is important to you, the best city to live in is San Jose, Calif., according to a 30-city study by a non-profit research group.

The study by the New York-based Council on Municipal Performance was based on five factors—housing cost relative to income, plumbing adequacy, overcrowding relative to vacancy rate, desegregation and black-white rent differences.

No city was consistently superior in all categories. "Cities which rank well on one measure may rank very poorly on another," said the study.

"For example, San Jose and San Francisco show the least residential discrimination against nonwhites, but their residents pay a very high proportion of their income for their housing."

In terms of overall cost, Philadelphia was rated best, Miami worst. San Jose had the most adequate plumbing, Pittsburgh the worst. Measured by the number of vacant apartments available, Portland was the least crowded, St. Louis the most.

Newark was rated lowest for its high property tax rate and racial segregation. According to the study, it is the only city in the country in which the rate of segregation has not declined since 1960.

In addition, said the council, more Americans can expect to have trouble finding a comfortable home they can afford.

"The combination of sharply reduced subsidies and higher mortgage costs comes at an unfortunate time," said Dr. John Teppler Marlin, the council's executive director and author of the study.

"The nation is facing an extraordinary increase in the number of young adults during the next few years. If present trends continue, people are going to find it increasingly difficult to find a comfortable and convenient home at a price they can afford."

Opinions of five stocks offered

By ROGER SPEAR

Q — May I please have your opinion of the following stocks: Storer Broadcasting (NYSE), Apeco (NYSE), British Petroleum (NYSE), Continental Air Lines (NYSE) and Moviematic Industries (National Stock Exchange). — C.O.

A — Of these five issues, two appear to have good long-term potential. British Petroleum is being hurt by the increasingly larger bites being taken by Middle East countries which provide most of BP's crude production. Offsetting this is the company's stake in Alaska's North Slope through a 25 per cent equity interest in Standard Oil of Ohio plus its holdings in the North Sea. By virtue of Storer's holdings in Delta Air Lines each SBK share is backed by over $7 worth of Delta stock. The company is doing well in its CATV operations in Florida although radio broadcasting revenues fell off. Boston Gardens-Arena and the Bruins and Braves hockey teams, acquired in July, should pay off long term. In any event, the shares, selling at a low multiple, are worth holding.

Moviematic, selling at under 50 cents, is of minimal interest. Apeco has reached a stalemate in its pending merger with Van Dyk Research. A deficit was reported in the Sept. quarter despite an 18 per cent increase in sales. Apeco competes with large corporations in its production of photocopy machines, mobile homes and small computers. Since recovery appears to be some distance away, shares are not attractive at this time.

Continental's earnings will probably drop sharply this year reflecting discontinued military business, a slowdown in passenger traffic and a sharp jump in expenses. A boost in fares to Hawaii was granted by the CAB in September and application for higher domestic fares has been made. The former was granted too late to benefit 3rd-quarter earnings, while the latter request will probably not be approved before the first of the year. Dividends, which were discontinued in 1970, are not expected to be resumed in the near future. Currently this issue is of limited investor interest.

Success and obscurity go hand in hand for millionaire head of Coca-Cola Co.

By JANE SHOEMAKER

ATLANTA (UPI) —The engraved plaque on Robert Woodruff's desk at the Coca-Cola Co. reads:

"There is no limit to what a man can do or where he can go if he doesn't mind who gets the credit."

Robert Winship Woodruff—millionaire business magnate, socialite, philanthropist — has lived by those words for nearly 84 years. For Woodruff, who is still active in the company, success and obscurity go hand in hand.

While his name is hardly known outside the business world because he avoids publicity, his accomplishments through a 50-year career with the soft drink company show up every day in homes all over the world.

It was Woodruff who promoted such innovations as the six-pack carton, advertising slogans, the coin-operated soft drink vending machine. But most of all, it was Woodruff who set the goal of making Coca-Cola available worldwide and saw that goal realized.

Woodruff became president of Coca-Cola in 1923 when sales were sagging and morale was low. His agressive leadership put the company back on its financial feet with sales soaring 46 per cent in his first seven years as president.

He established the first "Foreign Department" in 1926, then turned international sales over to a wholly-owned subsidiary four years later.

He believed every man in the organization should make money. His philosophy became reality, and most of the people involved in making or selling Coca-Cola profited handsomely.

Woodruff also believed in innovation and, under him, Coca-Cola was transformed from a drug store novelty into a household staple. He stressed advertising: billboards and radio spots were begun under him. Even Santa Claus as he is recognized today with the red suit, white beard and generous belly was a Coca-Cola advertising promotion during Woodruff's leadership.

While most men his age would be satisfied to relax and reflect on his storybook success, Woodruff cannot sit still long enough. He still maintains three residences, a mansion in Atlanta, a duplex in New York City, and a 37,000-acre plantation, Ichuaway in South Georgia.

He slips quietly from place to place, entertaining close friends occasionally. This fall, he jetted to Paris for two weeks—his first trip abroad in many years —to renew old acquaintances.

Although he retired as chairman of the board in 1955, he remains on the board of directors and heads the powerful finance committee. When he is in Atlanta, he still works a full day at his old office, answering mail and handling his responsibilities as a director.

Where he once personally headed a multi-million dollar corporation, he now watches others do it, lending guidance when needed. Where he once golfed with President Eisenhower, hunted with Ty Cobb, dined with the Duke and Dutchess of Windsor, he now observes a light social schedule.

But one thing hasn't changed —his self-proclaimed "magnificent obsession" with keeping out of the public eye.

"Throughout his life he has worked at trying to avoid getting publicity for himself and the name Woodruff," explained J. W. Jones, a close business associate at Coca-Cola for decades.

Associates cannot remember the last time Woodruff granted an interview, but they speculate it was sometime before he retired as board chairman in 1955.

Jones fondly remembers the time a reporter for Fortune magazine demanded to see Woodruff and went into his office. When Woodruff threatened to go straight to publisher Henry Luce to complain, the reporter replied: "He thought you might say that. That's why he sent me here after he left on a boat trip to China.'

Perhaps the strongest influence on Woodruff's desire for obscurity is his astounding personal and family fortune. The total worth of the Woodruff fortune, now divided up among five foundations, is about $553 million.

Foundation money virtually built the medical school at Emory University, donated $6 million to Atlanta University, and reportedly financed a downtown park here and paid for more than half the impressive Atlanta Memorial Arts Center.

While Woodruff money is handed out generously Woodruff bitterly resents people coming to him for handouts. One aide said he recently received a letter from Europe asking for several million dollars which casually said, "I know you can afford it."

"He doesn't want to seem standoffish," a company spokesman said, "but there's a never ending line of people with hands stretched out, and every time his name appears there is an upsurge of requests."

Resignation! what about a sabbatical?

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) —During the past few days a number of influential columnists, senators and editorial writers have called on President Nixon to resign.

I could do the popular thing and join the clamor, but that is not my style.

My policy is to shun what is merely expedient and face up to grave national problems in a hardnosed, pragmatic manner.

You will, I'm sure, immediately recognize the advantages of the latter course. But I'll point them out anyway. Otherwise, this column would only be five paragraphs long and I would have to find another topic to write about.

For one thing, a leave of absence would not conflict with Nixon's natural reluctance to give up the powers and prerequisites of the presidence by aborting his second term. To the contrary.

There must have been many times during the past few months when Nixon longed for a sabbatical.

"Gee, Pat," he probably mused, "wouldn't it be nice if we could go off somewhere and get away from it all for a while?"

"No, no. I'm thinking about faraway places with strange sounding names. We could see the pyramids along the Nile, watch the sunset on a tropic isle, see the market place in old Algiers, bring back photographs and souvenirs, fly the ocean in a silvery plane, see the jungle when it's wet with rain. Just the three of us, all by ourselves alone."

"Sounds wonderful, Dick. But couldn't Bebe stay home this time?"

During his leave, the President could forget about the troubles that have been piling up around him. And while he was gone, the country could pull itself back together.

Vice President-designate Jerry Ford, sitting in for Nixon, could give the Watergate prosecutors a free hand without getting involved in the constitutional questions that have impeded the investigation.

Common house mouse has a musty smell

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: Joey, my brother, has a hamster for a pet. It's kind of dumb. I want a mouse for my pet, instead. But my mother says that mice are too smelly and I can't have it. Is there any way I can have the mouse without the smell? — R. S.

Dear R.S.: Even frequent washings wouldn't solve this problem even if mouse-washing were practical. The common house mouse just naturally has this musty odor. But some country mice, like the white-footed or the deer mouse, have practically no odor at all. Perhaps your mother would let you have one of these (unless, like some mothers, she really doesn't like any mouse in the house.)

DEAR DR. MILLER: Dina keeps throwing up hair. A friend of mine says that if I grow some grass, Dina would eat it and stop having this hairball trouble. Is this that true? (Dina's a cat.) — C.V.

Dear C.V.: You would do better by trying to stop the trouble at its source. Daily grooming and getting rid of the loose hair should ease this hair problem. If it persists, one of the petrolatum hairball products would be better than grass.

DEAR DR. MILLER: How do you tell whether a snake is a male or a female? We have only one so I guess it really doesn't matter but we are curious as to whether Hiss is a he or a she? — V.L.

Dear V.L.: For the amateur herpetologist, it's not easy — unless you have a snake of the same kind but of the opposite sex for comparison purposes. The tail of the male is longer and thicker than that of the female. The female has a slight constriction where the tail begins and the tail itself is more slender.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Our big Labrador, Sam, is getting these big gray areas on his elbows. What are they? Are they something to worry about? — R.E.

Dear R.E.: They're almost certainly calluses and they come about from Sam's flopping himself down on hard surfaces. These areas can get infected and may even become tumerous. Although it's hard to do, try to train Sam to sleep on soft pads. Unless he does this, it is very hard to treat his "housedog's knee" effectively.

Rattles & straws

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

Did you know that Uncle Sam has set aside 20 million acres of public land — your taxes and mine, baby — for the exercise and training of what is known as "the Armed Forces." (What good would forces be if they weren't armed, for pity's sake?)

England, that tripe little isle that once dominated the world from sea to shinging sea, has only 757,000 acres for its Tommys and swabbies to work out on. Bad show, wot? Yet the official Defence Land Committee has recommended to Parliament, which are in session, that 31,000 acres of this be turned back to the populace. The military are naturally incensed; the conservationists think the figger is too low.

Pause, gentle reader, to contemplate what vast areas of our country are held by Uncle Sam for the militaristic training of his pimple-face nephews in the arts of killing his fellow man. These are regions proscribed to the civilian, the driver of pickup, motor home and camper, off-limits to motorscooters, dune buggies and tote goats. Beautiful mountain regions, long stretches of beach, unsullied deserts — all locked into that inviolate bastion of "The military." Now that there is peace on earth, good will toward men, maybe the time has come for the generals to shut up a few hundred thousand barracks, mess halls and NCO clubs and turn the land back to the rightful owners, like thee and me.

England's Ministry of Defence says the 757,000 acres only amounts to two acres per solider (or sailor), a far cry from the days of Rule Britannia. The investigative committee points out, however, that all the land in Britain amounts to only about one acre per person. Bit thick, I calls it.

Land use for military training is not always logical. The camp where I learned the care and feeding of .105 howitzers in World War II was so vast it took a day's forced march to cross it, but at night the general packed us into those ugly barracks, 50 men to a room, with double-decked bunks set so close together we had to take turns inhaling. Sardines should have it so good.

There was heavy GI congestion at the telephones, pool tables, latrines and mess halls, but when your platoon received the welcome call to "Fall out to police the area! I don't wanna see anything but butts and elbows!" your company street looked like the Sahara Desert. ("If it moves, salute it. If it doesn't move, pick it up. If it's too big to pick up, paint it.")

The barracks was too small for a pied a terre for Battery B, but when you had to double-time around it wearing a gasmask because you showed up for morning inspection with lipstick on your face, it seemed like the Coliseum.

Well, I wish the limeys luck in getting back their land from 'Er Marjesties Forces. Then we can say to the Secretary of Defense, "Go thou and do likewise."

Airline is found guilty of sex discrimination

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal judge found Northwest Air Lines guilty Tuesday of practicing widespread sex discrimination in its flight crews. The ruling could mean retroactive pay hikes of up to $250 a month for approximately 1,100 Northwest stewardesses.

U.S. District Judge Aubrey E. Robinson ruled that the airline was in "willful violation" of federal equal pay and civil rights laws because it favored male pursers over female stewardesses in hiring, pay, promotions and working conditions.

"The job of purser and the job of stewardess require equal skill, effort and responsibility and are performed under similar working conditions," Robinson said in a 61-page opinion.

He said a judgment against Northwest would be entered later, so it was not known immediately how much money might be involved. But an attorney who represented the stewardesses in their class action suit said each women could receive "as much as possibly $250 a month" in retroactive pay, depending on seniority.

"This is a highly significant victory in terms of clearing up sex discrimination in the airline industry as a whole," attorney Dennis D. Clark said in a telephone interview.

The suit was filed by 40 Northwest stewardesses in July, 1970. Since then, Clark said, about 1,100 more stewardesses joined in the case.

A similar class action suit brought by Trans World Air Lines stewardesses is pending York.

There has never been a time in history when so many people want to help my hamburger.

I counted 18 boxed variations on the grocery shelf the other day, each one promising to change my hamburger from an ordinary humdrum meal into a gourmet belch.

I've tried to drown it in tomato sauce, brown it as a topping, roll it into little balls with rice and call it porcupine, combine it with every starch and cheese known to man, and it still looks like a contestant on Let's Make A Deal.

In fact, if Phase IV has done anything, it has created suspicion among families and mistrust among close friends.

The other night I placed a platter in front of my husband. He looked at the broiled legs and thighs heaped on the plate and with his fork poised in mid-air asked, "What kind of meat is this?"

"It's chicken," I said flatly. "Why do you ask?"

"Because I have never seen an inch and a half thigh before."

"No."

Where's my hamster?" asked our youngest suddenly.

"I told you," I explained patiently, "he escaped from his cage last week and is somewhere in the woodwork."

"I don't believe you," he whined.

"Look, gang," I said, "will you give me a break? We're living in a period of make-believe and synthetics. All I'm asking you to do is pretend the dressing is made from a bird instead of a box where you add only water. Pretend the gravy is from meat drippings instead of an envelope where you add only milk. Pretend the salad is from the earth instead of a hydroponic garden, and that the cake came from a mixing bowl and wasn't baked in its own foil pan.

"Pretend the milk is from a cow and the butter from a churn. Pretend you trust your mother."

"Not until you tell us what it is," squinted my husband.

"Okay! Okay! It's hamburger shaped like little chicken appendages."

They think this is bad. Wait until next week when they see my hamburger-soy bean turkey wearing Supp-Hose to hold it together. It'll blow their minds.

No direct link between relief roll, economy

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Economic slumps have not necessarily resulted in increased state welfare rolls, a study by the California Taxpayers' Association said today.

"Although it often is contended an economic slump, particularly one producing large unemployment, results in immediate changes in welfare programs, this has not been the case" in California in the past eight years, the group said.

A study for the years 1965 to 1972 showed that the total number of persons receiving welfare aid, especially those families in which there is an unemployed parent, "are not correlated with the rate of unemployment in California."

The group, which represents major business interests in the state, said an example would be from 1969 to 1970 when there was a high rate of unemployment due to major cutbacks in the defense and aerospace industries.

New test is speedy

NEW YORK (UPI) — A new two-minute blood test for gonorrhea is available for professional use. Field studies have shown the test is accurate about 80 per cent of the time.

The manufacturer says studies with this new diagnostic test indicate it is useful for screening for female carriers of gonorrhea. About 80 per cent of such women are not aware they have the disease. Female gonorrhea carriers constitute an important reservoir of the disease, contributing to the current gonorrhea epidemic, public health sleuths report.

It's miserable, lonely

'Un-jolly truth about being fat'

By RICHARD M. HARNETT

HAYWARD, Calif. (UPI) — "The world is made for people in small sizes," says Jim Fries, who is down from 587 pounds to a trim 181.

Now that he is a relatively skinny man, Fries wants the world to know the "un-jolly" truth about being fat.

"Fat people have to be jolly," he said. "Everybody expects it. But jolly we are not. It's misery. It's lonely.

"People never invite you out, or over for dinner. They don't know what to fix, or how much."

He said it is embarrassing, unpleasant and expensive to have to buy two tickets to a football game to be comfortable and to pay $18 for a shirt.

There are very discouraging moments in your life, he said. In a casino at Reno he was seized, frisked and had a lot of explaining to do for the FBI.

"It seems a fat man had robbed a bank that day. I didn't know all fat men looked alike. Now I know what discrimination is all about."

About 30 months ago, he looked at himself in a mirror—all 587 pounds. He was so unhappy with what he saw that he went on a diet of one 29-cent TV dinner a day. That got him down to 340 pounds in 10 months.

"I liked being 340. But that wasn't enough. I wanted to be skinny," said Fries. He underwent an intestinal bypass operation in which a large section of his intestine was disconnected.

Now, a year after the operation, he is "tremendously happy" because he can do things like bend down to tie his shoes, wear normal sized clothing, and "sit down and have a lap."

The road from 587 to 181 was "pure hell," he says. "I was miserable, a nervous wreck. I was hungry all the time. I was constantly jumping down people's throats. No one could live with me."

An understanding boss on his construction job put him off to work by himself during this period.

"The biggest thing is selfconfidence," said Fries. "My whole personality has changed." He has started his own construction business.

Fries, who lives with his mother, blames no one but himself for getting fat in the first place. "I ate too much all my life," he said. "It seemed like I could breathe air and it turned to fat."

Now, he says: "I'm disgusted with fat people, and I can say that because I was fat. It is pitiful for people to let themselves go like that."

MAN OF IRON WILL — Jim Fries, who lost 406 pounds in 30 months, shows the size 64 belt he wore before he dieted into a shadow of his former self.

Fresno will darken Christmas Tree Lane

FRESNO (UPI) — Fresno's famed Christmas Tree Lane will remain darkened this holiday season as part of the fight to conserve energy.

C. Sam Johnson, president of the Fig Garden Home Owners Association, told Fresno County supervisors today the association voted to take the action following President Nixon's recent televised talk on the energy crisis.

It is only the second time in 44 years and the first time since World War II that the tree-lined boulevard in an exclusive residential area will be without tree limits and elaborate lawn decorations.

Johnson said no other Crhistmas festivites were scheduled to replace the lane show but said the association hope to have the lane light as soon as the energy crisis is abated.

Two students per mile

HURON, S.D. (UPI) — A typical public school district in South Dakota has about two resident students per square mile. In a study by the Associated School Boards of South Dakota relating resident students to the square mile area in public school districts, the number of students ranged from 264.5 per square mile in Sioux Falls down to 0.135 in the Harding County School District at Buffalo.

Lawmaker wants probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. John Moss, D-Calif., wants an investigation into reports former vice president Spiro T. Agnew continues to receive chauffered limousine service, use of military aircraft and help of a staff of eight at government expense.

Moss asked the General Accounting Office Thursday to investigate also Agnew's concitinued Secret Service protection.

"Had he received a jail sentence, would the nation have provided protection in a federal detention facility?" Moss asked in his letter to the GAO. Agnew resigned and did not contest a tax evasion charge for which he was placed on three years nonsupervised probation and was fined $10,000.

Moss said he understood Agnew was still receiving the benefits "from the letter I have received and my own inquiries." He said the Secret Service told him they received a direct order from President Nixon "to provide 24-hour, around-the-clock protection to Mr. Agnew for an indeterminate period."

Moss noted that law now provides for continuity in services and facilities in the transition of a president or vice president leaving office and a new man coming in.

"Is it the opinion of the comptroller general that the Agnew resignation leads to the kind of transitional period contemplated by the statute?" Moss asked.

Moss also asked the GOA to determine the cost of the services if they are being provided, what the law is that covers such services and what additional services not cited by Moss might Agnew be receiving.

Despite new treatment plants, Bay Area still has problems

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Nearly 900 million gallons of municipal and industrial wastewater is discharged daily into San Francisco Bay or tributary streams, according to a recent federal survey.

And the total volume of pollutants discharged has increased despite new and improved municipal and industrial waste-water treatment plants, the survey said.

These findings are contained in a recent U.S. Geological Survey report of a two-year study on waste-water management in the San Francisco Bay region.

The report estimated the current discharge will more than double if present population projections are confirmed.

New federal water pollution control regulations will go into effect within a year and are expected to clean the waste considerably. Yet, by design, the new measures will not slow down the rapidly increasing bay discharge of waste-water, and a population expansion in the region will mean more and more waste.

Municipal waste-water discharge into the bay or its tributary system has increased dramatically in the past 10 years. The Geological Survey said total daily discharge increased from 436 million gallons in early 1960s to 745 million gallons in 1971.

With the jump, the hazard to aquatic life also increased. The survey calculated toxicity of wastewater rose 16 per cent over the same period.

These figures indicate a direct equation between urbanization and water pollution.

The home garbage disposal is a case in point. The survey singled out expanded use of home garbage disposals as a primary cause for toxicity increase in untreated municipal waste-water.

The use of phosphate-bearing laundry detergents, the survey also noted, will not be drastically reduced, causing further phosphate pollution in municipal waste-water.

Major municipal sewage outfalls generally are close to urbanized population centers peripheral to the bay. Wastewater discharged from San Francisco, Oakland, San Jose, lower Alameda County, and eastern San Mateo County accounts for nearly 70 per cent of all such discharges in the region, according to the survey.

In the case of industrial waste-water, discharge is almost exclusively concentrated in San Pablo and Suisun Bays, which are adjacent to San Francisco Bay. Statistics show 366 million gallons of industrial waste was discharged daily into these two bays in 1969 while San Francisco Bay received only 18 million gallons per day.

The bulk of industrial wastewater comes from petroleum refining, chemicals, paper, food and fabricated metals.

In addition the electrical power generation industry with its thermal discharge is quickly joining the ranks of water polluting industries, the survey said. The bay region's ever-expanding electrical energy need is expected to result in substantial increase in thermal discharge by the industry.

All told, the California Water Resources Control Board has predicted a 130 per cent increase in industrial wastewater discharge over the next 20 years within the bay region.

Currently, there are no uniform guidelines in effect to control both municipal and industrial waste-water discharges which up to now have only been dealt with case by case.

But the 1972 federal water protection control amendment is expected to change all that. called the National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System, the nation-wide unified plan will put all waste-water discharge under a permit system.

In California, the state will issue five-year permits for all polluting discharges until 1974. Also, any waste-water must first go through both primary and secondary treatments, before being discharged into public water.

The new plan also obligates industries to improve their waste-water quality to the standard of the best treatment shown by any discharging firm in each category of industry.

A spokesma at the Water Control Board said these measures will result in "drastic and dramatic" quality improvement of waste-water.

The new control plan, however, is not designed to curtail the actual waste flow into the bay system. Thus the expected continuous increase in the total discharge may offset any quality improvement and may, in fact, increase bay pollution at an alarming speed.

Mayor building better town while she's dying

METTER, Ga. (UPI) —The mayor of Metter ran for office to repay the town's citizens for saving her life.

Now Mrs. Catherine Robinson, the first woman mayor in the town's history, is engaged in planning for a "new Metter," preserving the small-town atmosphere of this southeast Georgia town, but she might not be alive to see it.

Mrs. Robinson underwent surgery five years ago for terminal cancer.

"It was the prayers of the people that saved my life," she said. "I was resigned to my illness. I never prayed that I would live, only that I would have the strength to face the hard times ahead. So it was the prayers of others that saved me. I'm totally convinced."

She has been mayor almost one year, but still lives under the sentence of death. After being given a clean bill of health five years ago, doctors told Mrs. Robinson in August her cancer had spread to the bone marrow.

She has been undergoing chemotherapy treatments in Savannah weekly for eight weeks, and doctors tell her they will know in another month whether the treatments have been successful.

"Whether I resign or stay on for another year to complete my term will depend on what they say. If the word is not encouraging, then I will have to put my family first."

But for now, Mrs. Robinson carries on as usual working hard to make Metter a better community.

She said she believes it is important for her to try to restore public confidence in government through communication and openness, especially in light of current public scandals.

"I hadn't realized how dirty politics can be. Votes can be bought, even in a little town like this. I was surprised that I won, because I wouldn't buy votes. It would have been defeating my purpose, and I wanted to win it clean, or not at all," she said.

Mrs. Robinson said during her campaign last fall, a highlevel state politician wrote her, "If you don't want to be a dirty politician, you'd better get out."

She has tried to make the community aware of local government with a weekly column in the Metter Advertiser. She said at first some council members suggested that some things be kept secret from the people.

"But I said, 'If I can't put it in the paper, then let's not do it.' And since then, there's never been any question about it."

The wife of Dr. Robert S. Robinson, who specializes in weight control, Mrs. Robinson is in her middle 40s and has six children and one grandchild. She did not run for mayor on a women's liberation platform, but says she believes women should be treated equally, paid fairly and have equal opportunity with men.

California yule tree inspection worries Oregon

SALEM, Ore. (UPI) — The Oregon Department of Agriculture says undue alarm has spread through the state's Christmas tree industry over reports that California agriculture inspectors will be checking tree shipments for the tussock moth.

W.H. Kosesan, assistant director for the department's plant division, said today that Oregon growers need not be concerned over the report. He said shipments of the trees "will not be quarantined or unduly delayed."

Kosesan said he has advised California authorities that Oregon produces no Christmas trees in the areas affected by the tussock moth outbreak, and therefore there is no reason to believe tree shipments will contain unwanted insects.

New way to salt highway

AMES, Iowa (UPI) —Iowa Highway Commission officials have unveiled a new process of salting the state's highways during icy winter months.

Commission maintenance engineer Charles Huisnan said the new process mixes a liquid brine solution with the usual rock salt as it is applied to the roadway, causing the salt to stick to the road surface and begin melting immediately.

He said the new process will mean less salt applications, less salt used in each application and less salt runoff.

Nevada govt. told to cut fuel use 10%

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) — Gov. Mike O'Callaghan today ordered a program to reduce the Nevada state government's energy use by 10 per cent.

It included a mdandatory reduction in the speed of state cars to 50 miles an hour in urban areas and 60 miles per hour on rural highways, and reduction of thermostat setting in state buildings to 68 degrees.

"We cannot increase the fuel supply overnight, but we can decrease our demands," he told state workers.

The program also includes encouragement of voluntary participation in car pools; no further use of unnecessary electrical fixtures, office machines and surplus rooms in state buildings; improvement of heating and cooling equipment to insure maximum efficiency and expanded maintenance to keep state vehicles operating at top efficiency.

O'Callaghan also said state efforts to educate government employes and the public to the need for energy conservation would be expanded, and a monthly contest will be held with a $25 award to the state employe who submits the best suggestion for conserving energy.

At least 6 dead as Jet hits farmhouse

BORWEDE, Germany (UPI) — A Belgian air force F104 Starfighter jet fighter plane crashed into a farmhouse today and police reported at least six dead.

A police spokesman said four inhabitants of the house, the pilot and a firefighter were feared killed.

Yule lights okayed, but hours reduced

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Every Christmas season, city businesses traditionally erect a series of lights that outline the downtown buildings at night.

The owners met Monday and decided to continue the practice this year despite the energy crisis. But they voted to keep the lights on only between the hours of 5:30 p.m. and 10:30 p.m.

2 L.A. policemen spot UFO, lose it

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Two police officers chased an unidentified flying object with bluish-white lights for two minutes Monday night, tried to snap a picture of it then lost it as it disappeared in "a blink of an eye."

Strikers return to end hospital crisis

NEW YORK (UPI) — New York's 30,000 striking nonmedical hospital workers accepted a compromise wage hike of 6 per cent and returned to work Monday, ending a week-long walkout that caused hospitals to turn away many patients and reduce all but essential services, and cost $3 million a day.

The Drug and Hospital Workers Union struck 48 hospitals and nursing homes in the New York area Nov. 5 because the Cost of Living Council (CLC) in Washington had not approved a 7.5 per cent raise won in state arbitration.

Winds play havoc with Vegas traffic

LAS VEGAS (UPI) — High winds Monday overturned trailers, toppled signs and campers and, at one point, forced evacuation of an area on the northern outskirts of town.

Traffic on the Tonopah highway was halted to all vehicles for an hour. Later in the afternoon passenger cars and buses were allowed to pass through the area with caution. Debris was scattered along a vast area of the highway.

Mideast war has put dent in NATO armor

What was to have been the "year of Europe" has gone up in the smoke of the Mideast battlefield.

And what was to have been an imaginative new approach to relations between the United States and its NATO allies has been recast into an urgently needed repair job just to restore things to the way they were.

In Washington, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger is quoted as being so "disgusted" with the performance of the west European allies that he no longer cares what happens to NATO.

And just to make sure the world understands that Kissinger and other critics of the European response to U.S. actions in the Middle East were not speaking out of fits of petulance, the State Department spokesman assures newsmen they were not made "lightly or casually."

Even more than the war in Vietnam, the fourth war between the Israelis and the Arabs is resulting in a global fallout whose effects may be felt for years.

U.S. warships have entered the Indian ocean to challenge the Soviet Union.

U.S. hopes of a vast, expanded trade with the Soviets have been laid aside, as have any immediate further moves toward U.S.-Soviet detente.

NATO is under probably its greatest internal strain since its founding in 1949.

Europe's surrender to the Arab oil boycott not only demonstrated the decisive power wielded by the oil-producing states over world affairs but seemed likely also to subject the nine-nation European common market to its greatest test.

When the hot words have been eliminated it is apparent that differences between the United States and Europe arise from differing views of the Mideast emergency.

The Europeans regarded it as a local quarrel from which they could stand aloof. The NATO accord, they said, did not extend to the Mideast. The U.S. regarded Russian support of the Arabs as a threat to the west, affecting the Europeans as much as the United States.

Whatever the reasoning, Europe additionally felt deep resentment that the United States gave it no warning of the global alert to its armed forces and that, in fact, the Europeans had to learn of it first through news sources.

In that way it resembled the stunned reaction of Japan to the surprise U.S. announcement that President Nixon would visit mainland China. In that instance also wounds have been slow to heal.

As a practical matter, European neutrality in the Mideast seems to have assured Europeans of a continued flow of Mideastern oil upon which they are 80 per cent dependent both for physical comfort and for industry.

Diplomatically they have served notice they cannot become hostage to U.S. foreign policy. But they may not yet have escaped the ire of the Arabs.

Also cut off from Mideast oil is the Netherlands, one of the great refinery centers of Europe and a Common Market member. The Dutch have appealed to their partners to share their oil with them and thus defy the Arab boycott. For the other eight, fearful for their own economies, it will be tough decision.

Cox planning a return to Harvard post

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI) —Former Watergate special prosecutor Archibald Cox will return to Harvard University as Williston Professor of Law in January, the Harvard Crimson has reported.

Cox left that post last May when he took the assignment in Washington, and a university spokesman confirmed he plans to return here.

The Crimson quoted Harvard President Derek Bok as disclosing Cox's plans to return next year. Bok said Cox had stopped in Cambridge recently en route to a vacation in Maine and "was feeling very sad about his dismissal" as Watergate prosecutor.

"He wanted to complete his job very much," Bok was quoted as saying.

Reagan vs. legislature

Court to rule on new welfare plan

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The 3rd District Court of Appeal said Monday it will rule within a week on whether the Reagan administration would be violating state law by implementing a new welfare plan without legislative approval.

The welfare controversy was one of the hottest issues of the 1973 legislature and affects 500,000 aged, blind and disabled recipients.

Welfare rights attorneys and Assemblyman John L. Burton, D-San Francisco, asked the court to prevent the administration from bypassing the legislature when the federal government takes over management of the welfare programs Jan. 1.

Under the Reagan plan, recipients would receive a modest increase over the present grant levels to about $221 a month. But if the administration is forced to deal with the legislature, recipients probably would get an even better deal, Burton argues.

When agreement on the grant levels could not be reached between Gov. Ronald Reagan and the legislature, the administration announced it would carry out its plan through regulations instead of legislation.

Burton said "by no stretch of the imagination" does the administration have the authority to carry out its regulations. He asked the court for a swift decision which could clear the way for a possible special session of the legislature before Jan. 1.

"If the state government itself does not follow its laws and statutes, how can we expect ordinary citizens to follow the law?" Burton told the court.

Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post has estimated that the Reagan administration plan, accompanied by adverse court rulings, could cost the state between $89 million and $198 million more than expected.

Under a bill passed by Congress which takes effect Jan. 1, all adult welfare recipients will receive a basic $130 fedby the Social Security Administration. This replaces former programs funded by matching state and federal grants.

However, the federal measure (HR1) requires that the states appropriate any extra money to supplement welfare payments. Welfare rights attorneys contend this supplemental payment cannot be made without legislative approval.

Because of the importance of the case, presiding judge Frank K. Richardson said a decision will be handed down by next Monday.

From perishables to grain

Fuel shortages may cause switch in crops

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Fuel shortages could force a "significant" number of California farmers to switch from perishable to grain crops this summer, resulting in soaring retail prices for such produce as tomatoes and lettuce, the state's No. 2 agriculture official said Tuesday.

"California farmers are plugging the energy situation into their memory banks," said Robert Hartzell, Deputy director of the state Department of Food and Agriculture. "They are tending to go to less perishable commodities."

Hartzell said that because of the large amounts of fuel needed to plant, care for, harvest and transport to market California's "specialty crops," farmers were turning to others that need little fuel.

Hartzell said such "bread and butter" specialty crops as tomatoes, lettuce, strawberries, melons and sugarbeets could be affected as farmers plant wheat, corn, barley and other grains.

A large part of California's $6 billion yearly agriculture industry is made up of specialty crops and most of the nation's supply is grown in the state.

"If the high prices for grains and cotton continue it will be a tremendous incentive to the farmer," he said. "If this fuel problem, which is critical, has not eased there could be significant shifts away from specialty crops" that will carry down the line to the consumer with higher prices.

Under mandatory federal allotments, farmers are allowed the same amount of fuel that they used for the same month last year. However, litle fuel was used last fall because of heavy rains across the state, leaving farmers this year "in a crunch," he said.

The industry "squeaked" through this fall harvest without any major losses, but still faces critical spring plowing.

"Keep in mind we had a wet spring last year and low amounts of fuels," Hartzell said. "We're going to be in the same pickle we're in today."

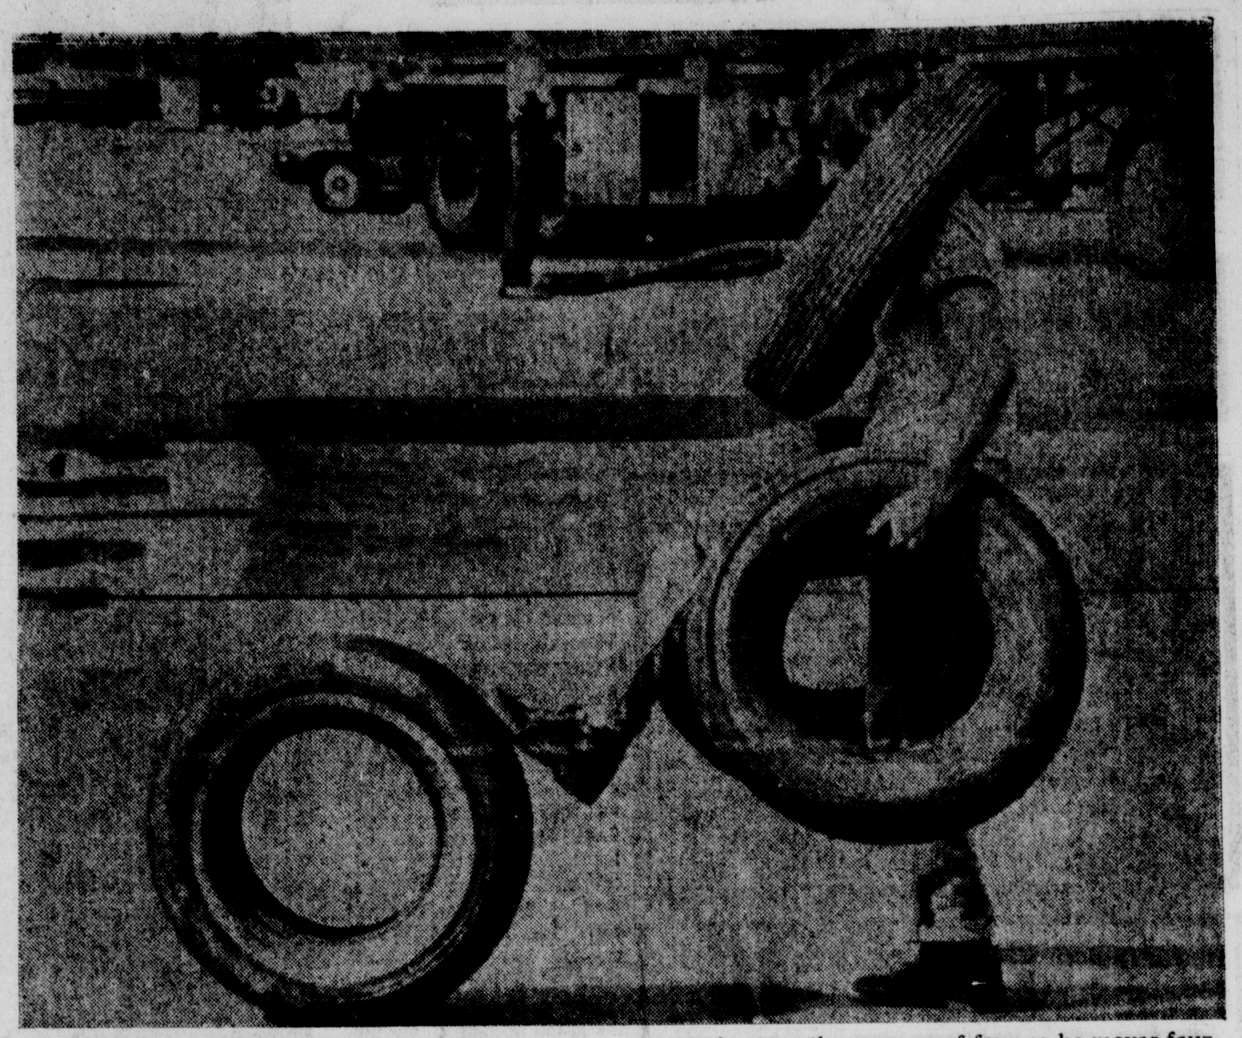
Bruer said some environmental controls would have to be eased if the state was to meet its energy needs.

"I think we moved too far and too fast in some environmental regulations," Bruer said. "And in part, it's why we're where we are."

As an example of such a regulation that should be eased, he cited the state moratorium on offshore oil drilling. Such regulations have "put us in a crunch.



LAZY MAN'S LOAD — Butch Fennell, a gas station attendant in Smyma, Ga., believes in making one trip serve the purpose of four as he moves four tires after a tire-changing job at the station.

Cold winter ahead

Maryland governor empowered to deal with energy crisis

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (UPI) — Maryland Gov. Marvin Mandel Tuesday assumed unprecedented powers to deal with the energy crisis, cautioning Marylanders that a cold winter lies ahead of them.

Armed with emergency legislation passed by the General Assembly in special session Monday, the governor said he would quickly:

—Order an immediate inventory of all energy sources in the state, with $2,500 fines for those who decline to cooperate;

—Reduce the speed limit on state and interstate highways to 50 miles per hour;

In Massachusetts, meanwhile, Gov. Francis W. Sargent announced Tuesday a four-pronged program to reduce the state's fuel consumption, including a 50-mph speed limit on all highways, reduction of outdoor advertising lighting, easing of low sulphur requirements of the state's anti-pollution laws, and reduction by 95 per cent of the state use of Christmas lighting.

Sargent also called for creation of a cabinet level task force to consider the possibility of a four-day work week.

The Maryland legislation, which Mandel signed in a public ceremony Tuesday, gives the governor the same authority he would have to cope with a civil disturbance or natural disaster, tempered only by a 10-member legislative committee which can modify or reject his decisions.

Mandel said he will recommend steps to cope with the energy situation to the committee "within a few days." He said he may impose a statewide curfew on business hours but generally refused to speculate on other steps he might take.

But he did say that he opposed imposition of a large state tax on gasoline because "the people have sense enough that when they see a crisis they are going to cut down on the use of their automobiles."

He said federal gas rationing was preferable and, according to reports he has received, very likely.

Mandel conceded the authority was "a sweeping piece of legislation—but we face a possible emergency of unprecedented scope. Let me say I was very reluctant to ask for this authority—any Governor who is eager to be the target for complaints from 4 million citizens during a fuel shortage would have to be out of his mind.

"But it seemd clear to me that the federal government was moving far too slowly and inefficiently to meet the need. The only alternative would have been to stand by while thousands of Marylanders shivered in the winter cold."

Students get credit for Atlantis hunt

MALIBU (UPI) — Pepperdine University officials said today students who participated in the ill-fated search for the lost continent of Atlantis during the summer will get either a "pass" grade or a withdrawal from the class with a full refund of tuition.

Following the students expulsion from Spain shortly after their journey began, school administrators had threatened to withhold credit for the course.

Group organizer Maxine Asher, audio-visual coordinator for the Las Virgenes Unified School District, reported that the group had "found Atlantis."

But UPI reporter Stewart Slavin, one of three scuba divers to enter waters off the Spanish coast before the group was expelled, said they found nothing but "some shells and a broken Roman column."

The decision to grant credit ended an anxious three month wait for the students in the group of more than 40 persons who paid up to $2,800 apiece to join the expedition.

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — A bandit who tried to rob the Greyhound bus station here Sunday was left holding the bag.

Mrs. Ethel West, a clerk at the station, said she handed the robber a bag when he demanded the money.

But unless he was hungry, he must have been disappointed with its contents. It had cheese and some pecans.

Festivities are being planned by the Casa Colina Women's Auxiliary, with Mrs. Robert A. Keith, president, as general chairman.

Fashions from the gift shop will be modeled informally in the dining room during the luncheon hours of 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Baked goods will also be sold.

Funds raised by the gift shop are used for the preschool which is attended by 20 children with multiple handicaps. The youngsters receive both education and therapy.

Committee chairmen for the "Show-off Day" are Mrs. Ernest Mock and Mrs. Jack Hoxsey, gift shop; Mrs. Herbert Johnson and Mrs. Kenneth Perry, luncheon; Mrs. Robert Wills, models; Mrs. Jerry Laws, tours; Mrs. Jack McNicoll, baked goods; Mrs. Orville Manley, handcrafts and decorations; Mrs. Stephen Goldwater, hospital decorations; Mrs. Ray L. Anderson, name tags; Misses Adelia and Marianne Hallock, Christmas card sales; Mrs. Kathy Guiterrez, pre-school mothers; and Mrs. H. E. Bickerdike, finances.

Casa Colina Hospital has provided specialized programs of rehabilitation to Southern California children and adults for 35 years. The open house will give the public the chance to see how rehabilitation is accomplished.

CHICAGO (UPI) — Remember, a cyclist also is a driver.

The National Safety Council reports the death of a 15-year-old Connecticut boy who failed to realize it is just as important for cyclists to obey traffic signals as it is for motorists. The Hartford County coroner ruled the youth caused his own death when he went through a red light and ran into the side of a truck. The truck driver was absolved of responsibility.

A MESSAGE TO CLASSIFIED AD USERS

You are about to invest money for an Ad and you are entitled to get results. To accomplish this it is necessary for you to TELL ALL about the details of your offer. Be sure you don't make any of the following errors that prevent results. Readers can't guess on important details. Remember, a well written informative ad will get results faster and cost less in the long run.

1. Don't Omit The Address

Many out-of-town readers will write you but will not spend money for a long distance call.

2. Don't Omit The Phone Number

Many readers will call you but do not find it convenient to come to your home.

3. Don't Use Blind Box Numbers

Avoid them if at all possible. They are difficult to answer and many people are suspicious of them.

4. Don't Conceal The Price

5. Don't Leave Home On The Days You Advertise

Many good prospects will not call the second time if your phone is unanswered.
